BUTLER ARRESTED; WILL FIGHT

HOOVER FORCES SCORE POINT IN RELIEF BATTLE

Fight to Be Renewed in House Today.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Administration forces today temporarily checked the drive for the appropriation of a $25,000,000 relief fund. Whether President Hoover's opposition to the invasion by the government of the field of private relief organizations will be finally upheld will hinge upon action in the house tomorrow.

Today's victory of the administration was in the house appropriations committee, which refused to accept the senate amendment to the interior department bill for a $25,000,000 relief fund to be administered by the Red Cross. Tomorrow, under an agreement entered into late today, the issue will be fought out on the floor of the house. Refusal of the Red Cross to accept the fund will be met by a proposal to have the Red Cross or the president designate an agency to handle it.

Leaders Are Confident.

Administration leaders express confidence of their ability to hold enough Republicans in line to defeat the senate amendment. Action of this nature, however, may precipitate a filibuster by Democrats in the senate against appropriation bills, with a view to forcing a special session of the new congress, in which opponents of the administration expect to be in control in both branches.

The senate again showed its determination to force acceptance by the house of its relief proposals by adding as an amendment to the army appropriation bill the same measure which it passed separately a few days ago for the use of 20,000,000 bushels of wheat controlled by the farm board. Under the amendment, which was adopted on a roll call by a vote of 46 to 16, the wheat would be turned over to an agency designated by the President to be converted into flour for distribution to the needy. The amendment was adopted on the motion of Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.].

One Democrat Opposed.

Voting for the Capper amendment were 29 Republicans, 16 Democrats, and 1 Farmer-Labor member. Against it were 15 Republicans, all conservatives, and 1 Democrat, Senator M. E. Tydings [Md.].

The house appropriations committee by a vote of 11 to 13 rejected a motion by Representative Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] to accept the senate's $25,000,000 relief fund amendment with an amendment providing that if the Red Cross should refuse to accept it the President would be authorized to designate some other agency to do so. The committee then authorized Representative L. C. Cramton [Rep., Mich.], who is in charge of the appropriation bill, to ask that the bill be sent to conference in the house after disagreeing to all senate amendments. Under the rules it was conceded that the house would have the right to vote directly on any entirely new provision added to an appropriation bill in the senate such as the $25,000,000 item. Later in the day, when Representative Cramton submitted a request to the house that he be sent to conference, he consented to an agreement suggested by Representative Byrns under which there will be a two hour debate tomorrow on the senate relief amendment.

Modified Proposal Ready.

Representative Byrns will offer to propose his substitute proposal—modified somewhat from the form in which it was rejected by the appropriations committee. It adds to the senate $25,000,000 Red Cross appropriation a provision that "if the Red Cross shall decline to distribute the money herein appropriated through its regularly organized agencies in the manner herein provided, then in such event the President of the United States is hereby authorized and empowered to immediately designate some governmental agency or other agency selected by him to make distribution of all or any portion of said sum in cash or in the purchase of said named supplies as may be necessary to afford adequate relief in the present national emergency to persons otherwise unable to procure same."

TELLS RED CROSS VIEWS

How the American Red Cross declined to assume the administration of the $25,000,000 general relief fund proposed in the United States senate was explained yesterday by George E. Scott, member of the national executive committee of the Red Cross, on his return from Washington, where

CAFE MAN SHOT; THEATER HELD UP BY GUNMAN

Gun Victim Found; May Be Robber.

Criminal attacks on citizens continued yesterday and last night, resulting in the shooting of a Milwaukee avenue restaurant owner and the daylight robbery of $2,500 from the Majestic theater. Another incident of the crime record was the finding of the body of a man, dead two days from a bullet wound, believed to have been one of the five bandits who stole $19,200 and shot two men in a holdup of the Wieboldt store at 3231 Lincoln avenue on Monday.

GEORGE SMITH.

As a consequence of the week's series of robberies and shootings, which began Saturday night with the murder of a money guard employed by Hillman's Pure Food store, 24 West Washington street, Acting Police Commissioner Alcock and Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, urged citizens to take greater precautions to prevent robberies.

Say He "Looks Like Bandit."

The dead man found last night was George Smith, 34 years old, formerly of 1859 Blue Island avenue, who was identified through finger prints and other police records. His general description answered that of one of the Wieboldt raiders. Witnesses of the holdup could not make positive identification, although several agreed he resembled one of the quintet.

Smith's body was found curled in an abandoned automobile in front of 2635 West 18th street, where it had lain since 10 o'clock Tuesday night. It had been passed unnoticed through two nights and two days because residents of the neighborhood believed the occupant of the machine was asleep. It was not until Helen Bruchen, 13 years old, of 2633 West 18th street, a school girl, made closer examination last night that the killing was discovered.

Alcohol Found in Car.

Inside the machine was a half filled 5 gallon can of alcohol. At first it was believed Smith was a victim of gangsters who had taken him for a ride. The machine was traced in his name to 934 West Madison street, the address of a truck drivers' union. However, Smith was not known there. No marks of identification were found in his clothing.

After a brief investigation, Capt. Thomas J. Pilkington of the Marquette station expressed belief that Smith might have been one of the Wieboldt robbers. One of the bandits was shot by Policeman William Binder, one of the men wounded in the battle. Binder at the time said he shot the gunman in the stomach. Smith was wounded in the stomach. The bottom of his trousers and his shoes were scraped, indicating he had been dragged. The bandit wounded by Binder had been dragged away by his fleeing comrades.

Witnesses View Body.

Witnesses to the robbery who viewed the body at the morgue were Ethel Gildemeister, 3926 North Troy street, a store detective; Mrs. Olive Kohl, 4043 North Paulina street; George Hanson and Frank Reisel, bank guards, and Policeman Louis Wesson.

The women were "not quite sure" Smith was one of the bandits. Hanson, however, said he strongly resembled one of them. Wesson, who was suspended by Capt. Max Danner for failure to follow the gunmen, could not say whether the dead man had been one of the robbers. Coroner Herman N. Bundesen ordered the bullet which killed Smith compared with bullets used by Policeman Binder, who will view the body today.

Edward Slanec, 2059 West 18th street, brother-in-law of Smith, identified the body. He and three companions were later questioned by police in the hope of learning more of Smith's activities. Slanec knew little about him, he said.

Restaurant Owner Shot.

The restaurant owner shot last night was Stanley Dziatlek, 46 years old, of 661 Milwaukee avenue. He was emerging from the kitchen of his lunchroom at that address when three young gunmen charged upon him. He was carrying a butcher knife at the time.

Dziatlek resisted, swinging his knife. He felled Tony Zalewski, 19 years old,

Flee on Roofs as Fire Ruins N. Y. Building

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A six story building housing the old Lincoln Square theater at 66th street and Broadway was swept by fire late tonight, causing possible loss of life.

An entire company of eight or ten firemen were trapped on the fourth floor and fell through to the third, but fought their way out. Three newspaper photographers were badly burned by exploding flashlight powder and one was reported near death.

Five Alarms Sounded.

Five alarms were sounded shortly after the blaze started and 350 firemen began pouring tons of water into the building. All the patrons had left the theater before the flames were discovered, but many tenants could be seen struggling to safety.

A number of tenants on the fifth and sixth floors fled to the roof and escaped to an adjoining building over a metal bridge. Several descended by fire escapes, and firemen rescued others.

Fanned by a steady wind, the fire spread to two adjoining structures. Firemen fought from every possible vantage point, throwing water from several towers, from nearby buildings, and from elevated structures.

Thousands of sightseers surrounded the scene for blocks, and police were forced to rope off an area a block square.

Photographer Is Burned.

One of the burned photographers was identified by a police card as George Sharf of the Daily Mirror. He was taken to a hospital in a dangerous condition. Among those rescued were Garrett Decker, president of the Marionette Fellowship of America, and Lawrence Kincaid, a dancer, with his wife and four months old daughter.

A nearby store was turned into an emergency hospital. Cots were brought in and injured firemen were attended. One suffered a fractured leg and others were cut and singed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Rescue parties brought up bodies of ten miners tonight, after a violent explosion in the Haig coal pit at Whitehaven, Cumberland. It is feared that from 25 to 35 others, out of a total of 200 working in the pit at the time, were also killed. Frantic efforts are being made to reach the victims.

About 3,000 wives, children and other relatives jammed around the pit head anxiously awaiting news from below.

The Haig mine, which reaches six miles under the sea, adjoins the Wellington mine, where 136 were killed by an explosion in 1910.

DE PRIEST GOES TO WHITE HOUSE FETE WITH WIFE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Oscar De Priest, Negro representative from Chicago, gave official Washington a surprise tonight by appearing with Mrs. De Priest at the annual White House reception given by the President and Mrs. Hoover for members of the house. Their arrival at the fête marked the first time a Negro member of congress has attended such a gathering since the reconstruction period.

The Chicago representative and Mrs De Priest arrived early and after proceeding through the formalities of the receiving line went into the east room, where they seated themselves along the wall.

Among the guests who greeted Mr. and Mrs. De Priest and remained for a time conversing with them were the speaker of the house, Nicholas Longworth; Mrs. Robert P. Lamont, Chicago, wife of the secretary of commerce; Robert P. Lamont, and Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, wife of Representative Bacon of New York.

Representatives from the south as well as the north were among the guests who attended tonight's reception. The appearance of Mr. and Mrs. De Priest recalled the furore occasioned more than a year ago by Mrs. De Priest's attendance at a tea given by Mrs. Hoover at the White House for several wives of congressmen. This was De Priest's first appearance at a White House social function, however.

CUBA WIDE OPEN; LIFTS ALL BARS ON GAMBLING

HAVANA, Jan. 29.—(AP)—For the first time since President Machado took office in 1925 Havana today was a "wide open" town as far as gambling is concerned. All restrictions against games of chance have been temporarily lifted and gambling layouts have been installed in practically every dance hall and public place in town.

The sudden lifting of the ban against gaming was unexplained by the government.

Golfing in Africa Great; Except for Hippopotami

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Golfing in Africa would be ideal, says Miss Ruth Hardy, if it weren't for the hippopotami.

Returning today from an 8,000 mile solo journey across the dark continent, the young Brooklyn school teacher said she had reached the sixth hole of a course at Jinga, Uganda, when her drive disturbed a hippopotamus sleeping in a hazard.

He chased her right up to the club house.

U. S. Military Academy to Get Gen. Scott's Sword

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The sword that Gen. Winfield Scott wore all during the Mexican war was bequeathed to the United States Military academy under the will of his grandson, Winfield Scott Hoyt, filed for probate today. The residuary estate goes to the widow, Mrs. Esabelle R. Hoyt of Greenwich, Conn.

Son of Yale Professor Let Out at Harvard

Boston, Mass., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The Boston Post says that James S. Angier of New Haven, Harvard student and son of Prof. Roswell Parker Angier of Yale, was dismissed from Harvard university by the faculty today. The dismissal, the Post adds, followed a series of escapades which ended last Thursday night, when grapefruit were hurled at Rudy Vallee by three students at the Metropolitan theater.

Angier, the Post says, was one of three Harvard boys taken to the La Grange street police station in connection with the grapefruit episode. The fruit was hurled at the radio singer from the balcony of the theater during a performance.

The three students were released by the police when Vallee and the theater management refused to press charges against them.

At the time, the students denied they had hurled the missiles, but, the Post says, Angier said that the grapefruit throwing was a "great idea."

The expulsion of Angier by the Harvard administrative board today, the paper says, followed an investigation of the Vallee affair by the Harvard faculty.

The paper quotes the administrative board at Harvard as saying that Angier's dismissal was the result of a number of escapades, the final one of which was the Vallee affair.

He may enter college again next fall under the ruling of the administrative board as a "drop freshman" on probation.

Nye's Bill of Expense Bared to the Senate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Senator Gerald P. Nye, radical Republican of North Dakota who has toured the United States these last eight months exposing the campaign expenditures of this senatorial candidate and that, had his own expenditures made public today.

The itemized expense account of his special committee of investigation was introduced into the Congressional Record, and it revealed that Senator Nye, his senatorial colleagues, and their staff of investigators and clerks have cost the taxpayers $96,503 since the committee was created last April.

The disclosure of the committee's inner workings and its financial outlay came, apparently, as a rude shock to the senator who has busied himself in so many states dragging to light the inner workings and financial outlays of many political organizations. In fact, he confessed on the senate floor that he had to wrestle with his temper for an hour before trusting himself to speak with proper senatorial decorum.

Gratifying to Old Guard.

But, though it may have been a shock to the exposer thus exposed, it was in like proportion a great satisfaction to the astute gentleman who did the exposing. Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.], regular of regulars and chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee.

Senator Moses' chance to do what, so it is reported, he had been waiting to do for some time, came when Senator Thomas Heflin [Dem., Ala.] said that he wished to have the Nye committee investigate the Alabama election. Senator Moses replied that the proper committee was the standing committee on elections and privileges.

"The special committee headed by Senator Nye can perform the investigation more cheaply," argued Senator Heflin.

Moses Gets His Chance.

"O, yeah?" was the gist of Senator Moses' reply, and into the record went the expense account of the Nye committee before any one quite knew what it was all about.

There was an immediate bustle to get a view of what a $96,500 expense account looked like. Those who sought for evidence of the wire tapping charged by Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick [Rep., Ill.] during the committee's Illinois sojourn last summer were disappointed. "Wire tapping" was not an item.

Senator Nye protested it was unfair to committee members to have the expense account thus published before it had been checked. He said it showed items of $1,500, $1,800 and $2,000 indirectly charged to him, and an item of $4,000 drawn by his brother, Donald O. Nye, in charge of the committee's agents—all of which would appear against him personally.

One item showed $65.10 expended by Nye in Chicago from May 7-11 for meals, tips and incidentals. Nye explained it was not infrequent that committee chairmen are credited with the entire hotel bill for several members when out in the field.

The committee employed at various times more than a dozen investigators, most of whom received $500 a month and expenses, he explained.

Nye Sees Polls Effect.

It was some time after the expense account had gone into the record before Senator Nye took the floor.

"I have tried within the last hour, and I hope with some success," Senator Nye said, his voice shaking indignantly, "to subdue the spirit which first seized upon me when I knew of the very extraordinary practice that had been resorted to by the senator from New Hampshire. I want to show what the probable intent was behind the move. I can see these pages from the Congressional Record in the pocket of every political foe in North Dakota next year when I shall be seeking reelection; and I can hear tongues wagging and I can see lips moving in whispers, pointing out some little item in this account showing 'how lavishly Nye lives when he is out on government expense.' Look at this item—a meal costing $12 or some such matter—I know what the result will be.

"Never before in the history of the senate has a committee or the chairman of a committee had to submit to a situation of this kind; I think I understand what is back of it all."

OUSTED PASTOR ENTERS RACE FOR ROCKFORD MAYOR

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 29.—(AP)—John A. Logan Warren, unfrocked Methodist Episcopal minister, formerly of Durand, Ill., today announced his candidacy for mayor of Rockford on a labor-prohibition platform.

Since his discharge from the Durand church four years ago on a charge he had been intimate with a hired girl in his home—a charge of which he later claimed vindication when he won a slander suit against his accusers—Warren has been working here as a laborer in a manufacturing plant.

U. S. APOLOGY IS SENT DUCE FOR MARINE'S STORY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Plans for a vigorous defense against the charges that he violated naval regulations when, in a recent Philadelphia speech, he criticised Premier Mussolini of Italy as a hit and run driver were being prepared tonight by Maj. Gen. Smedley Darlington Butler, marine corps officer. Gen. Butler was ordered court martialed today as the aftermath of his attack on the duce.

MAJ. GEN. B. H. FULLER.

This disclosure by friends came at the end of a day during which the American government formally apologized to Italy and expressed its "deep regret" that the critical remarks made by Maj. Gen. Butler had been uttered.

Friends of Maj. Gen. Butler said tonight that the marine officer would retain the best civilian counsel obtainable and make a determined effort to prove to the world that he had been justified in telling his "hit and run" story. They gave the opinion Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. of New York, variously reported to be the source of the Butler story about Mussolini, would be asked to appear as a witness in this connection.

Admits Speech, but No Apology.

Maj. Gen. Butler, while admitting in his letter to Secretary Adams that he had recounted the story about Premier Mussolini having failed to stop after his car had run over a child, offered no apology for his speech. His contention, as outlined by his friends, will be that he had the best of reasons for believing the story to be true.

Both friends of Maj. Gen. Butler and naval officers who know him well believe he will tender his resignation within a short time, regardless of the outcome of the court martial proceedings. His resignation would cause no surprise to highest naval officials.

Maj. Gen. Butler was placed under arrest by Maj. Gen. B. H. Fuller, marine corps commandant, and confined to the Quantico reservation the first thing today. He is under orders not to talk to any one, except counsel, about the case.

Forwarded to Mussolini.

The American apology was dispatched to the Italian embassy and relayed at once to Premier Mussolini immediately after the navy department had notified Secretary of State Stimson that Maj. Gen. Butler had admitted making the speech.

Although state department and Italian embassy officials were inclined to believe that the incident was closed, the possibility of new international complications loomed tonight when it became known that the marine officer is preparing to employ civilian counsel and make every effort to justify his action during open court-martial proceedings. There were suggestions tonight that the trial might develop unpleasant ramifications for this government should Maj. Gen. Butler establish that he had reasonable grounds for his criticisms of the Italian premier.

The first disclosure that drastic action would be taken by the government in dealing with the Butler-Mussolini incident came early today when Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams announced that Maj. Gen. Butler had been placed in arrest.

Text of United States' Apology.

Within thirty minutes after Secretary Adams had acted, Secretary Stimson dispatched an apology to the Italian embassy. It read as follows:

"Jan. 29, 1931.

"His excellency,

"Nobile Giacomo de Martino, royal Italian ambassador.

"Excellency:

"I have the honor to express the deep regret which this government feels at the reflections against the prime minister of Italy in the unauthorized speech of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, United States marine corps, at Philadelphia on Jan. 19. The sincere regrets of this government are extended to Mr. Mussolini and to the Italian people for this discourteous and unwarranted utterance by a commissioned officer of this government on active duty.

"Accept, excellency, the renewed assurance of my highest consideration.

"[Signed] HENRY L. STIMSON."

As far as state department officials could recall, this is the first time that the United States has apologized to a foreign power for remarks made by any officer of its military forces.

News that Maj. Gen. Butler was to be court martialed came as a distinct shock to the capital, surprising many naval officers and prompting much unofficial comment in congressional lobbies and on Washington streets. In view of the fact that naval records disclose no previous instance of an officer being court martialed for a similar offense, the general impression had been that a reprimand either by the President or by Secretary of State Stimson was the most that could be expected.

Speculate on Source of Action.

Much speculation also arose as to whether President Hoover was responsible for the court martial order.

Secretary Adams discussed the Butler-Mussolini incident with President Hoover Tuesday. The court martial order came after a conference this morning between Adams, Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, marine corps commandant; Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke, and Rear Admiral John Halligan, acting chief of naval operations.

In some naval quarters there was a disposition to view the court-martial order as an aftermath of the failure of Secretary Adams to appoint Maj. Gen. Butler as commandant of marines last summer. On that occasion Maj. Gen. Butler was greatly disappointed that he had been passed over and the post given to a junior officer. The faction opposing Maj. Gen. Butler at that time had argued that the marine officer's penchant for speechmaking made his selection as head of marines unwise.

Lejeune May Head Board.

Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, past commandant of marines, is regarded as the likely choice as president of the court martial board which is expected to be named within the next few days. From five to thirteen officers, most of them of equal or superior rank to the defendant, must sit on the court. The trial may or may not be open to the public. Friends of Maj. Gen. Butler want it open, so that his side of the case will be given as much publicity as has been given the steps leading to an American apology to Italy. Secretary Adams said today he expected the trial would be behind closed doors.

The case immediately was turned over by Secretary Adams to Rear Admiral David F. Sellers, judge advocate general of the navy, who will prepare the charges and specifications and arrange for the court martial board. It is also possible that Admiral Sellers may be the prosecuting officer.

Much speculation was aroused today as to what turn the situation might take should Maj. Gen. Butler be able to prove the truth of the reported incident. Navy legal officials said today, however, that the truth would not be an adequate defense in a case such as Maj. Gen. Butler's, although it might be a mitigating circumstance.

A search of naval records today disclosed no instances of where an officer of as high a rank as that held by Maj. Gen. Butler had been tried by court-martial. No instance of any officer being brought to trial for criticising officials of a foreign government was found.

How Incident Started.

According to published reports in the Philadelphia newspapers at the time of the Butler speech, the marine officer told how an unnamed friend of his had ridden with Premier Mussolini on a fourteen day tour of Italy. On one occasion, according to the Butler story, the automobile was driven through an Italian village street at seventy miles an hour, striking and killing a child. When the car did not stop, Butler's friend was described as remonstrating.

The Duce's answer, as related in the Butler story, was to call out, "What is one life in the affairs of state?"

In the same address Maj. Gen. Butler was quoted as calling the Duce a "mad dog for war."

The Italian ambassador immediately protested verbally to the state department, and a day later Premier Mussolini himself cabled to his embassy denying the hit and run story as slanderous. The state department called on the navy department for an explanation, and the developments today followed.

Other Similar Unpleasantnesses.

The order for Maj. Gen. Butler's court martial served today to recall numerous other instances when army and navy officers have become involved in difficulties as a result of remarks made in speeches. Brig. Gen. William D. Mitchell, former air corps chief, who was court martialed on charges of insubordination, furnishes the most recent example of a sensational case of this kind.

Other officers called to account for remarks include Rear Admiral William S. Sims, retired, who was reprimanded by President Taft following a speech he delivered at a dinner given by the lord mayor of London; Rear Admiral Joseph B. Coghlan and Capt. George Steunenberg. Another notable instance was that of Rear Admiral William B. Magruder, who was placed on waiting orders without a job for several months because he criticized the navy administration as "extravagant."

Rear Admiral Coghlan, commanding officer of the Raleigh during the Spanish-American war, recited a poem entitled, "Me und Gott," at a New York dinner held in 1899. The German ambassador protested, but the navy department held that as the remarks were made at a private dinner nothing should be done to the naval officer. Capt. Steunenberg recited another poem entitled the "German Trained Army of the Turks," at a dinner just before the United States entered the war. For reciting this critical poem he was officially rebuked.

Rome Calls Incident Closed.

ROME, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Apology by the United States for allegedly derogatory remarks made by Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler about Premier Mussolini appeared tonight to have closed what might have developed into an unpleasant incident.

Butler Noted Among Marines for Valor; Among Public for a Spicy Tongue

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Gen. Smedley D. Butler, famed marine leader for whom a general court martial was ordered today by Secretary Davis, often has known the limelight.

The commandant at Quantico is unquestionably the most talked about United States marine

"From the hall of Montezuma

To the shore of Tripoli."

Marines would follow him "through hell and back," is how fellow officers describe this stormy "leatherneck" leader. Pride of the "Devil Dogs," Gen. Butler has won valor decorations on many widely separated battlefields. Two congressional medals of honor have been awarded him for bravery.

He Likes to Talk.

He is not so big; but his mouth is a machine gun. One is about as energetic as the other. "Gimlet eyes," as he is known to many, puts his whole 140 pounds or more into everything he does, whether it is leading a cheer or charge.

Dramatic and democratic, he is pictured by associates as a man of engaging personality "who makes you work and like it." Gen. Butler, who has the reputation of "patting his men on the back" when they do a job well, probably calls more marines by first names than any other officer.

This fighting descendant of Quakers, who still retains in speech his "thee's and thou's," likes to talk. His range of topics is wide. Gesticulating with a long, bent forefinger, he launches a yarn with zest. His deep and measured voice carries abundant humor and wit.

Although no athlete himself, he likes all outdoor games. Football is a favorite, and it is no uncommon sight to see this slight, wiry marine leading the cheering at a Quantico gridiron battle. A fast automobile also finds favor in his eye.

Rose in Rank Rapidly.

Most of Gen. Butler's nearly 50 years have been given to the marine corps. Enlisting shortly after he was sixteen by "putting his age up a bit," he soon became a lieutenant. He was a brigadier general at 39.

Philadelphia borrowed him during 1924-'25 to act as director of public safety. He relentlessly fought bootleggers and politicians only to be replaced by the mayor with another man.

The major general often has put into his public utterances the same fire and energy that have won him citations in battle.

Comments on Philadelphia.

In 1925, when he had just resigned from the marines and Mayor Kendrick of Philadelphia had dismissed him as director of public safety, Gen. Butler said:

"If the mayor fires me, I'll be nothing after Jan. 1. I'll be neither a marine nor a policeman. But I can still spit in their eye."

Previously he had said: "Clearing up Philadelphia's vice is worse than any battle I was ever in. Petty annoyances have piled on me that are worse than the Chinese drip torture."

After leaving Philadelphia he said he regretted he had not "pulled the mayor's nose" before he left. He then returned to the marine corps.

"It's all damned nonsense that a soldier should not hold public office," Butler once said in assailing politicians who opposed ex-soldiers seeking office.

"A soldier is trained to do what he is told," he declared, and went on to say that politicians "fear a soldier in office may do many things he is told by the people who put him there."

Remarks on Prohibition.

Advocating military preparedness, Butler said that "no one ever heard of firing every police officer and scrapping the fire apparatus because we had a wave of honesty among our citizens and all our buildings were fireproof."

In 1929, Butler forbade enlisted men at Quantico marine base to visit the town of Quantico until bootlegging had been stamped out. Just before removing the ban he said to the marines:

"You birds took an oath to defend the constitution. Don't let this news stun you, but the prohibition law is part of it."

In Oakland, Cal., a year or two after he quit trying to clean up Philadelphia, he was quoted as asserting that "the fool Volstead act" was supposed only to "keep liquor away from persons without influence."

Many of the general's friends were surprised. He had been a supporter of the dry laws by word and deed while in Philadelphia. He also had Col. Alexander Williams of the San Diego marine base court martialed on charges of drunkenness.

Made Charges Against Colonel.

He preferred the charges after a dinner given in his honor at Col. Williams' home in Coronado, Cal. Cocktails were served. Williams was reprimanded and his rating lowered. A few months afterwards he drowned after his automobile plunged into San Francisco bay.

Another address by Butler which caused a furor in unofficial circles was in San Diego in 1926. The general had told of his experiences in Philadelphia and of instructions to police to "shoot to kill" if necessary.

The San Diego county federated trades and labor council wrote Curtis D. Wilbur, then navy secretary, that the address was "anarchistic and inflammatory." The secretary did nothing about it, however.

A Few Epigrams.

Some epigrams of Butler vintage are:

"When the marines get a job they go and do it. We are not diplomats. Soldiering makes a man direct in his methods and sometimes abrupt."

"I believe that God made us the most influential nation in the world for a purpose, and that it is our duty to keep our neighboring nations from murdering one another."

"I have shed more blood for my country and your country than all the politicians in seven generations."

"I have learned a lot of things and can ever persuade me to serve in public office again except in war time."

TELL OF VANDERBILT STORY.

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Assertions were made today from several sources that the story of Premier Mussolini running down a child with his automobile, for the telling of which Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler now faces a court martial, was told in New York by Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. last November.

Vanderbilt, according to the story, said he had been Mussolini's companion in the automobile which ran down the child and protested that the Italian premier should stop the car, to which Mussolini is said by Vanderbilt to have made the retort, for the quotations of which Butler is now facing trial.

Vanderbilt, in Phoenix, Ariz., today refused to comment on the case.

Clarence White of the Ellison-White company of Portland, Ore., said today that he was one of about 25 persons who heard Vanderbilt tell the Mussolini story last November in New York at a meeting of the Affiliated Bureaus of America.

BRITISH WAR DEBT RECEIPTS EXCEED PAYMENT TO U. S.

[Copyright: 1931: by the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—In reply to a question from Lord Erskine, Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, said in the house of commons today that during the financial year 1931-1932 Great Britain would receive from allied debt payments and German reparations $166,750,000, and that in the same period the amount payable to the United States on account of England's war debt would be $164,320,000.

CALL ARMISTICE IN 'WAR' BETWEEN BRITAIN AND INDIA

Truce Awaits Action on MacDonald's Offer.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The gradual release of 50,000 Indian prisoners held for various offenses connected with the civil disobedience campaign is the policy of the British government, it was learned today. It has been decided that a simultaneous jail delivery is impracticable, so plans to release followers of Mahatma Gandhi in batches will be made until all are free.

The All-India congress leaders, it is declared here, have stated that they are willing—while not formally calling off the civil disobedience drive—to cease law breaking, allowing the country to settle down to a peaceful atmosphere pending negotiations which are due to begin as soon as the Indian round table conference delegates return to India.

The government, it is declared, has also agreed to restrain overenthusiastic officials in order to avoid any excuse for an outbreak on the part of the Indians, thus creating a sort of an unofficial armistice. It is further agreed to overlook any minor acts of rebellion during the next week or two because of the difficulties in dispatching orders from the different congress leaders to the most remote parts of the country.

Spurn British Offer.

ALLAHABAD, India, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Members of the working committee of the All-India National congress, sponsors for the campaign of civil disobedience, revealed at an informal meeting today that they were virtually opposed to British offers of an eventual dominion status qualified with reservations to the crown of authority in foreign relations, finances, and defense.

Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Nationalist forces, played a leading rôle in today's meeting of the working committeemen, not all of whom have arrived here yet. Their informal decision may postpone peace in India indefinitely.

Feel Offer Should Be Rejected.

Some of the more moderate members of the working committee favored the suspension of the civil disobedience campaign so as to leave the way open for further negotiations with London, but the majority appeared to feel that the premier's offer should be rejected summarily.

SOUTH PARK ACTS TO MAKE FILL FOR 1933 WORLD'S FAIR

Edward J. Kelly, president of the South Park board, yesterday announced that Supt. George T. Donoghue has been instructed to prepare plans and specifications for adding 12 acres of made land to the south end of Northerly island, which now extends from the foot of Roosevelt road to 18th street in the lake off Grant park.

Mr. Kelly said that the decision to fill in the land was reached in a conference between park commissioners and members of the 1933 World's Fair committee. The new island will extend to 23d street to one of the main fair entrances. The estimated cost for the fill is $650,000.

The Adler planetarium now occupies Northerly island alone. In 1933, the island, which will be about 485 feet in width, will be the site of many of the main exhibits of the fair.

The south end of the island will be joined to the mainland by a semi-circular causeway, 750 feet in length. This causeway will form a part of the framework enclosing a large lagoon in which the proposed tower of water and light is to be erected.

A report of the theft was made last night to the police by Mrs. Alberta Dunlap, 501 Surf street, president of the laboratory company. She said the thieves had broken into the studio early yesterday by forcing a window. According to Mrs. Dunlap, the films were taken under the supervision of Mr. Rosenwald during his recent European tour.

EVELYN NESBIT SUES TO DIVORCE JACK CLIFFORD

Evelyn Nesbit, former wife of Harry K. Thaw, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Superior court against Virgil James Montani, known on the stage as Jack Clifford. Miss Nesbit, at present appearing at a local night club. Her bill, filed by Attorney E. Aberman, alleges that Clifford deserted her in New York ten years ago. Miss Nesbit and her husband, who at one time was her dancing partner, were married in 1916.

"Married Life" Not Worth While

Blames Wives' "Nerves"

"Weak nerves," said a New York doctor recently, "in my estimation wreck more happily married lives than any other cause."

Besides making the sweetest disposition sour and irritable, nervousness is a terrible drain on your vital forces—saps your youth and your strength and dulls your beauty. What a difference from the bright-eyed, vibrant girl he married. No wonder married life seems unbearable!

But you can get rid of your nervousness—speedily too—and become the steady-nerved, radiant woman you once were. Try the effect of Tanlac after meals and before going to bed, and if it doesn't soon make a new woman of you—doesn't rid you of that tired, strained feeling—go back and get your money.

Go to your druggist now and get a bottle of Tanlac. Millions of folks have started back on the road to renewed health and happiness with this world famous tonic and there is no reason why you, too, can't begin today to rebuild your worn-out tissues and revitalize your entire system.

DENEEN IN CITY; TALKS TO ALBERT CAMPAIGN CHIEF

Visit Believed Due to Mayoralty Race.

BY PARKE BROWN.

United States Senator Deneen, head of the Republican group backing Ald. Arthur F. Albert for the mayoralty, returned to Chicago from Washington yesterday.

In a brief interview he said that he was called here by "several matters," but it was reported among the politicians that he came back to look over the mayoralty situation and determine whether it is necessary for him to take a hand in it. He said that he had time only for a talk with Roe O. West, head of the Albert campaign committee, but that he would hold some conferences with political associates today unless he is called back to the capital.

Another Theory Expressed.

The theory around other political headquarters was that the senator returned to ascertain if the Litsinger-Dockstader incident had had any serious effect on the public standing of his group, particularly with reference to Ald. Albert, who was sponsored by Edward R. Litsinger.

One report was that the question whether Albert should withdraw had been discussed among the Deneen lieutenants and that the senator had been asked to return and take part in the discussion.

On this point Senator Deneen said that he knew little about the Springfield faro game episode beyond what he had seen in the newspapers, and on those grounds asked to be excused from commenting upon it in any way.

It has been understood for several days that some of Albert's superiors in the Deneen organization have favored taking him out of the race. It has been said that even Litsinger is now willing to have his candidate step out. But Ald. Albert has insisted that he will continue his fight.

"I'll never withdraw," he has said to newspaper men. "I'll run if I only get my wife's vote, and I'm sure of that."

B. G. A. Indorses Judge Lyle.

The Albert backers were said to have been disappointed during the day by an announcement that the directors of the Better Government association by a vote of 19 to 1 had indorsed Judge Lyle for the Republican mayoralty nomination in preference to Ald. Albert, whose indorsement by the association had been sought by the Deneen managers.

The directors not only expressed their preference by an overwhelming vote, but after a prolonged investigation they pronounced the charges filed by Ald. Albert's managers against Judge Lyle—the same charges Albert and other are making in their campaign speeches—"unsupported, irrelevant and partisan."

Almost without exception in the past, this association has backed the Deneen candidates for big public office.

Review Albert's Charges.

Lyle headquarters was inclined to concede that Ald. Albert had done an unusual bit of name calling in a statement in which he referred to the leaders of the Lyle campaign, County Chairman Snow, George F. Harding, Edward J. Brundage, Charles V. Barrett, and Dr. John Dill Robertson, as the "hungry five," a nickname applied frequently to "dot leetle Cherman lead."

Albert's statement in its details pointed out that Brundage, in 1928, had been on the pay roll of the sanitary district, as had George F. Barrett, a brother of Charles V. Barrett, in the Supreme court litigation over the withdrawal of water from Lake Michigan.

"But as a matter of fact," said Chairman Snow with a smile, "Ald. Albert is mistaken in the number he uses. If he will leave his lonesome headquarters and visit our busy ones he will realize that we are growing every day.

"President James of the west park board opened his offices here today. That shows six groups behind Judge Lyle now and the number may increase still further."

In his speeches during the day Judge Lyle continued his policy of refusing to indulge in personalities. Speaking at a luncheon of the Drug and Chemical association at the Hamilton club, he said he did not want to be considered as a pessimist in his attitude toward Chicago's future.

"Not only am I an optimist, a natural optimist," Judge Lyle said, "but I am, and like to think I am, a practical optimist, as distinct from those who live in a world of dreams and propose visionary schemes for hastening or attaining progress.

"For instance, there is nothing more practical and feasible than my program for driving gangsters out of Chicago and making our city safe not only for us who live here but also for the millions who will be our guests during the approaching Century of Progress Exposition."

Lyle headquarters announced further increases in his strength in the form of indorsements by ward organizations. West Park Commissioner James J. Cullen and his Thirtieth ward organization indorsed the judge at a meeting in ward headquarters, 4451 Madison street. For several years Cullen was the Deneen leader in the ward, but this time indorsed Barrett and now has followed Barrett into the Lyle camp.

John T. Dempsey, county committee representative of the Thirty-eighth ward, announced that his organization had indorsed Judge Lyle unanimously.

D. W. Jellema, county committeeman from the Ninth ward, whose organization indorsed Judge Lyle earlier in the week, resigned his city hall position as chief clerk of the board of local improvements.

Official figures on last Tuesday's registration boosted the unofficial returns from 1569,838 to 173,313. The official figure included 107,253 men and 66,060 women. The total number now registered—subject to erasures during the revision tomorrow night—is 1,437,547.

MRS. BAUR RENAMED HEAD OF WOMAN'S REPUBLICAN GROUP

MRS. BAUR.

Mrs. Jacob Baur yesterday retained the gavel of the Woman's National Republican Club of Chicago, being unanimously elected to succeed herself at the annual meeting at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. The election followed a luncheon at which George O. Fairweather, assistant business manager of the University of Chicago, was the speaker.

No opposition to the recommendations of the nominating committee arose, the ticket being elected as submitted. Other principal offices are filled by Mrs. William R. Cubbins as first vice president, Mrs. Harry Hart as second vice president, Mrs. Harry C. Holloway as third vice president, Miss Marcia Noble Foss as secretary, and Mrs. Clyde L. Day as treasurer. Twenty-two directors were elected for two years.

First copies of the club's new cookbook, to which favorite recipes were contributed by nationally known Republican women, were on display. An auction of the first copy was held with the understanding that the proceeds would go into the club treasury but the book was to be forwarded to Mrs. Hoover. Mrs. Harry Hart bought it for $10.

Various phases of the procedure by which the tax rates are set were explained to the members by Mr. Fairweather.

FISTS FLY AT HEARINGS OVER COUNCIL RACES

Objections to the nominating petitions of 34 more candidates in the aldermanic campaign were heard by the election commission yesterday at a session enlivened by a fist fight and charges that communists were seeking to establish a political organization.

The fist fight occurred in the corridors outside the election commission rooms in the city hall when George W. Blackwell, Negro member of the state legislature, was attacked by David R. Poindexter, an aldermanic candidate in the Second ward, whose petition had been challenged by Blackwell. Two friends of Poindexter, Joseph Jackson and Sylvester Shankle, Negroes, were arrested with him.

Blackwell before the board had charged that Poindexter was a communist candidate. "Yes, and I have a dozen more like him," said Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington, representing a group of sitting aldermen in their protests. "And I, too, have a couple," remarked Attorney Frank J. Tyrell, representing other aldermen.

All the protests were taken under advisement by the commissioners after they had listened to the 34 cases. The principal objections were based on improper form of the petitions, the number of signatures, validity of the signatures, and similar charges. The hearings will be resumed today.

GIRL JAILED FOR BEING OUT LATE FREED BY JUDGE

First of Rehearings on Vice Convictions.

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—After serving eighteen months in Bedford reformatory, although she was only sentenced for a year, Lena Burlatt, 17 years old, of Brooklyn, today was set free and a charge of being a wayward minor was dismissed by Justice Norman S. Dike, who sat in the Supreme court, Brooklyn, as a committing magistrate.

Lena was one of thirty-nine girls taken recently to the Jefferson Market prison in Manhattan from Bedford after it was found that many of them had been sent there illegally. When the others were taken back Lena's counsel, Bernard Austin, obtained a writ of habeas corpus, keeping her in the city until a court decision on her detention could be made.

Late Hours Her Crime.

Justice Dike expressed astonishment at the fact that the girl was not only charged with nothing more serious than being out late at night, but that she was sent to Bedford without a hearing and that no stenographic record of the procedure, conducted by Magistrate Leo Healy, who committed her, existed.

Lena was just sixteen July 1, 1929, when her mother had her taken to the Adams Street court. She pleaded guilty, the commitment showed, and on July 20, 1929, was sentenced for a year.

"I feel a grievous error has been made by the magistrate who sent this girl away," Justice Dike said.

Q.—Was there ever any charge that this girl was a prostitute? A.—No.

Q.—Just simply a charge that she stayed out late at night? I shall discharge the prisoner and I trust this decision will have an important bearing on the cases of others who doubtless are illegally detained and who have been illegally and improperly imprisoned.

Plans to Stay Home.

Lena, almost a child, her face wreathed in smiles at the prospect of liberty, ran to her mother and they hugged.

"What are you going to do now?" she was asked.

Looking directly at the questioner she replied, "I'm going back with my mother."

"No more late hours?"

"No. Look. Mother bought me a wrist watch and now I'll know what time it is. I'll be home early every night."

Justice Dike's ruling established a precedent which, if followed, will bring about the release of many girls committed as wayward in the magistrates' courts upon their own confessions without the formality of a hearing.

JEAN HARLOW, FILM ACTRESS, GETS DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Jean Harlow, film actress, obtained a divorce today from Charles F. McGrew II. of Chicago. McGrew did not appear at the hearing.

Attorneys said the couple reached a property settlement out of court, resulting in the husband withdrawing his cross complaint. Miss Harlow will receive a home in Beverly Hills, an allowance of $375 a month, and an automobile.

CANAL LAWYER'S CHECK MYSTERY BOBS UP AGAIN

Laventhal Is Quizzed at Bar Hearing.

Attorney Jacob M. Laventhal, one of the fifty-five lawyers formerly employed by the sanitary district who are being investigated by the Chicago Bar association, testified yesterday at the hearing before Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor. Laventhal appeared before a Criminal court jury in 1929 to help clear up the mystery of fourteen of his checks which, he says, he never received. He told some more about the checks yesterday.

The disciplinary action against the lawyers is being heard by Judge Taylor, sitting as commissioner for the Illinois Supreme court. The association charges that the lawyers, all of whom served under Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the district, accepted money without rendering commensurate service.

How He Got Work.

Laventhal was questioned by Attorney Willard Matheny, representing the association, as follows:

Q.—Who did you first speak to about getting employment with the district? A.—I spoke to Isaac A. Doff, then Democratic ward committeeman of the 35th ward. He sent me to see Tim Crowe. That was in the summer of 1927. I was told that they would arrange work for me.

Q.—What happened then? A.—I never received any assignments except in April of 1928, when I was given a few cases to look up.

Matheny then introduced fifteen checks of the district made out to Laventhal. Six of the number were for $177 each, dated in 1927, and nine for $208 each, dated in 1928.

Q.—Do you recognize the signature on these checks as your writing? A.—On only one of the checks.

Q.—Whose signature is on the other checks? A.—Mr. Doff's.

Q.—Do you know his handwriting when you see it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you authorize him to sign these checks? A.—No, I certainly did not.

Q.—Did you ever receive any money for the checks which you did not indorse? A.—No, I didn't.

Q.—Did you ever investigate to find out why you were not getting your pay checks? A.—No, I wasn't doing any work, so I didn't expect any pay.

Learns About Other Checks.

Q.—When did you first learn that there were other checks made out to you other than the one you indorsed? A.—When I was called before the committee of the bar association.

Q.—Where do you maintain your bank account? A.—At the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

Q.—Did you ever keep an account at the State Bank of Chicago? A.—No, I never have.

Mr. Matheny explained that the check signed by Laventhal was cashed at the Harris Trust and Savings bank, while those signed by Doff were cashed at the State Bank of Chicago. Under further questioning Laventhal said that Doff had come to him and told him that he would have to sign the pay roll as a regular employé of the district.

"I signed the pay roll every month at Mr. Doff's suggestion," Laventhal said. "However, I didn't know that it meant a check was being made out to me."

Laventhal said that the checks must have gone directly to Doff. Doff was tried in June, 1929, on a charge of forging Laventhal's name to the checks. He was acquitted after testifying that he had Laventhal's permission to sign his name.

During the questioning of Laventhal Attorney Thomas J. Symmes, representing twenty-six of the respondents, asked that Laventhal's testimony be stricken from the records as immaterial and prejudicial to the cases of the other respondents. Judge Taylor took the motion under advisement and allowed the evidence to stand.

$24,000 Lawyer Questioned.

The other witness at the hearing was John F. Higgins, the highest paid of the legal department's assistants at that time. He received $24,000. He said he had been employed to appear before the legislature to protect the sanitary district's interests.

"An Izaak Walton bill—a sort of fish and game measure—had been passed by the general assembly in 1926," he said. "It was only awaiting the signature of the governor before it became a law. This bill, so innocent on its surface, would have put the sanitary district out of commission."

He said that the late George Brennan came to him and promised to pay him well if he would go to Springfield and represent the district before the legislature. Prior to that time, he said, he had refused an appointment on the legal staff.

Saw End of District.

"Gov. Small had come to the parting of the ways with the sanitary district," Higgins continued. "A report was current that he would abolish it and incorporate it as an adjunct of the state. I was asked for an opinion.

"My opinion was that the legislative could do so, but if they did the district couldn't continue to function as a taxing unit. I worked a long time on the opinion and made several trips to Springfield to confer with Gov. Small. I examined more than 1,400 bills during the 1927 session of the 1927 session of the legislature."

Higgins said that he had been underpaid.

WOMAN IS HELD IN ACID ATTACK ON 2 RELATIVES

Mrs. Alice Johnson, 30 years old, 410 North Peoria street, was held yesterday charged with pouring acid on her father, Hulit Herrell, 73 years old, and her brother, Columbus Herrell, 40 years old, as they slept. The two men are in the county hospital, where it was reported that Columbus may lose the sight of both eyes.

The police were told that Mrs. Johnson and her father quarreled on Wednesday night when he criticized her for being out late "running around." She slapped his face. Her brother, Columbus, slapped her face. She fled and returned later in the night with the acid, it is charged.

SPANISH RULER FIGHTS FOES ON VOTE BOYCOTT

[Copyright; 1931; by the New York Times.]

MADRID, Jan. 29.—In a communique tonight, evidently directly inspired by King Alfonso, notice was served by Premier Berenguer and his monarchist supporters that the announced elections will be held in Spain on March 1, regardless of the opposition of political parties, which are threatening abstention.

The communique shows that the king is prepared to fight and some feel that he seeks to shift responsibility for the election quarrel onto the shoulders of the political leaders who are refusing to participate.

The duke of Alba, a close personal friend of King Alfonso and minister of state in the Berenguer cabinet, said tonight: "We have promised the country elections and we are going to hold them. We cannot make those who do not wish to do so take part, but we can and are going to hold them without the abstainers."

YOUTH SPURNED BY WOMAN; HE ENDS OWN LIFE

Despondency over a love affair prompted Willard Helck, 26 years old, to commit suicide by gas in his apartment at 1200 Sherwin avenue, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday. Helck was found dead Wednesday night. In his arms he held a pair of woman's slippers. Near by was a note addressed to "Bobbie."

Mrs. J. E. Lancaster, 24 years old, 1411 Chase avenue, to whom the letter was addressed, was the principal witness. She testified that Helck had many times professed his love for her. Last October she secretly married, she said, and since then Helck had tried to influence her to divorce her husband and become his bride.

She last saw Helck Tuesday, she testified, and at that time he again pleaded with her to divorce her husband. She refused and he told her, he said, he would wait until 4 p. m. the next day for another answer. None came and he committed suicide.

STRAWN GLOOMY ON PLAN TO SELL TAX WARRANTS

He Demands Collection on 1929 Levies.

While public officials yesterday still clutched at hopes that money to operate the local governments during 1931 can be readily obtained through the sale of tax anticipation warrants, Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizens' committee, emphasized the difficulties that will have to be surmounted in finding a purchaser.

Stating that he spoke as a citizen and not for the banks, Mr. Strawn asserted that it "requires a strong strain on the imagination to envision the sale of the 1931 warrants when there is no honest effort to assess and collect the 1929 and 1930 taxes." The credits of the governments, he said, have been destroyed by the dawdling and delay in getting the taxes.

Urges Tax Collection.

One of the things to consider, according to Mr. Strawn, is that the 1929 taxes should be promptly collected so that warrants now outstanding can be redeemed, thus releasing money to the banks to buy 1931 warrants. Although the 1929 taxes are due in April, indications are, he said, that they will be delinquent perhaps as much as two months.

"I know of no way to finance the municipalities except through the sale of tax anticipation warrants for the year 1931," said Mr. Strawn, "and under existing conditions I know of no one who would buy such warrants. No one will buy warrants unless he knows the approximate date when he may expect to be paid.

"I think that I may assert confidently that neither the banks nor any one else will buy any more tax anticipation warrants from any of the taxing municipalities in Cook county unless there is more convincing evidence that the taxing officials are endeavoring to comply with the law and assess and collect taxes."

Calls Situation Serious.

The financial predicament in which the city, county, school board and other tax expending bodies now find themselves as they approach the depletion of cash funds and near dependance on the sale of warrants is a serious situation in Mr. Strawn's opinion.

"I am not a pessimist," he said, "but I envisage a very serious situation when the time arrives—and it will be shortly—when there will be no money to pay policemen, firemen, school teachers or any other public officials. I fear that nothing short of a catastrophe will awaken our citizens to a realization of existing conditions so that public opinion will compel a change.

"The citizens' committee, with the assistance of the legislature, succeeded in rescuing the city from financial chaos last spring; and the legislation adopted we believed to be entirely adequate to enable the city and county to carry on. We also believed that at the present session of the general assembly the reform in the taxing machinery would be made.

Raps Officials for Laxity.

"We now find ourselves in a more serious predicament because the officials do not seem sufficiently interested in the matter to have insisted that the taxes should be assessed and collected as the law requires. On the contrary, they seem to think that they have no responsibility about the city's finances and that they can keep on playing politics and that the citizens' committee or the banks will again come to the rescue.

"The citizens' committee is not disposed to interfere. Having put the house in order once, of what avail is it to undertake to do it again when the officials whose duty it is to look after the finances seem to have no interest in the subject.

"We also have in the city patriots who organize tax strikes. By not paying their taxes so that the outstanding warrants can be redeemed they aid in heaping up the interest that the local governments have to pay, detracting from the amounts usable for public services. They should keep the governments functioning while attempting to put through reforms."

Aldermen Meet Experts.

Amid the turmoil caused by the financial problem, Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of a council subcommittee that is searching for a plan to consolidate a number of the local governments and reduce taxes in a measure by that method, held a meeting in the council chambers with two score university professors, tax experts and representative citizens.

As a basis for discussion, Ald. Massen handed to each a tentative plan that would vest in one local governmental authority the powers now exercised by the sanitary district, forest preserve district, and the Lincoln park, south parks, and west parks commissioners. The territorial extent thus to be governed would be all of Cook county, with territory lying within thirty miles of the city's boundaries within Illinois to be added later.

The control of this consolidated authority would rest with a board or commission of which the aldermen and the county commissioners would be ex officio members. The board or commission would maintain health services, police forces, drainage and water supplies, and regulate vehicular, air, and water traffic in the metropolitan area.

Ald. Massen found the individual members of the gathering in favor of consolidation of activities in the metropolitan area, although divergent views on the methods by which it can be obtained were expressed. As a result, his subcommittee will go forward with the preparation of a plan to be used as a basis for awakening in the public the need for unification.

Consolidation alone is no remedy, in the opinion of Prof. Herbert D. Simpson of Northwestern university. He pointed out that there is a unified tax assessing agency in the county, and asked:

"What good is that?

"The real nature of the task is not just combining jurisdictions, of which we have had too much in Illinois, but to so locate and concentrate responsibility as to secure a unified and responsible governmental administration."

Approval of the purpose of the aldermanic group was given by W. B. Storey, president of the Santa Fe railroad, although he stated that the tentative suggestion throws enormous power in the hands of one governing body.

Of interest to the aldermen was the statement of John O. Rees of the joint committee on taxation that he has every reason to believe that there will be a decrease in the county valuations in 1931, as the next reassessment of valuations follows a depression.

Others who attended the meeting and spoke in favor of consolidation were President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university, D. G. Monroe of the University of Chicago, Douglas Sutherland of the Civic federation, Joseph K. Brittain of the Chicago Association of Commerce, D. F. Kelly of the Fair, Prof. Simeon Leland of the University of Chicago, Charles A. Livingston of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, Prof. A. R. Hatton of Northwestern university, Mrs. Henry H. Hilton, president of the Chicago Women's club, and William A. Dudley of the Greater Central District association.

Urges Cleaner City

Mrs. J. Mrs. William Westerlund, founder-president of the association, announced that, since its organization two years ago to promote a beautifying program in the city for the 1933 World's Fair, the group now has more than 1,000 members.

LOESCH SAYS DRY REPORT PROVES CASE FOR REPEAL

Wickersham Conferee for Ending Amendment 18.

Basing his conclusions on the facts assembled by the Wickersham commission, Frank J. Loesch, member of that commission and a leader of Chicago's forces battling crime, last night declared the 18th amendment a failure and urged repeal of the dry law.

Mr. Loesch's speech, delivered before members of the Commercial and Industrial clubs at a joint meeting in the Chicago club, is one of the first extended utterances from a member of the Wickersham commission on the subject of prohibition since the report of the fact-finding group was submitted to congress and made public ten days ago.

Although the meeting was private and newspaper men were excluded, the main points of Mr. Loesch's speech were learned later from a number of those who heard him.

Should Go All the Way.

"We ought to go all the way," Mr. Loesch is reported to have declared in discussing the procedure necessary to put an end to the evils that have resulted from the dry law. He spoke of the eleven years of experiment with the 18th amendment and declared that this was sufficient time in which to discover the feasibility of the law.

Prohibition, he said, will be the outstanding issue in the 1932 presidential campaign. Other than this remark he refrained from discussing the political significance of the Wickersham report, according to those who attended the banquet.

The chief value of the report, Mr. Loesch said, was the assembling of facts on crime and the abuses of the dry law since its enactment. He did not criticize the individual views and interpretation of the facts by the various members of the commission, but drew a pen picture of each of the members and described their backgrounds and qualifications.

Prohibition and Crime.

Mr. Loesch dwelt at length on the subject of crime and its connection with prohibition. As president of the Chicago crime commission and special prosecutor directing the attack on crime and its connection with politics during the long investigation into the Granady murder case, stealing of ballots at the polls, padded pay rolls, and graft in public office, Mr. Loesch spoke from a background of experience.

He told of the necessity of stopping the revenue of the criminals and declared that the greatest source of this revenue was illicit booze. The organizations of hoodlums and criminals, he said, can be destroyed only when their bootleg liquor profits are taken from them. So long as the eighteenth amendment exists in its present form the nation is helpless in its battle against criminals, he declared.

COAST GUARDSMEN CAPTURE ANOTHER RUM RUNNING SHIP

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—While coast guard officials were today closing their hearing on the capture of the Canadian rum runner Josephine K. and the killing of her master, Capt. William P. Cluett, coast guards reported the capture of another rum runner off Montauk Point.

At the same time there came an unconfirmed report from East Hampton, L. I., that a trawler, name unknown, had been fired on and seized off shore by a coast guard fleet consisting of two four stack destroyers and two patrol boats. Residents asserted they saw the "battle." Late tonight, however, coast guard headquarters said it had no report of any such capture and doubted that it had occurred.

The motorboat Cinderella was captured at 1 o'clock this morning off Amagansett, L. I., fifteen miles west of Montauk Point, and taken to New London. Three men were seized along with 600 sacks of liquor and 99 kegs of malt.

The evidence given in the coast guard boat inquiry on the Josephine K., will be considered, it was announced, in closed session. The board's findings will be forwarded to Admiral F. C. Billard in Washington.

The high point of the hearing today was a speed run between the Josephine K. and the coast guard cutter 145 which had captured her. It apparently disproved assertions that the Canadian rum runner was a fast vessel and that the 145 had to fire on her to keep her from racing away. The test showed that neither boat was especially fast.

BLAST STARTS OIL REFINERY FIRE; TWO HURT

Edmund Rohan, 43 years old, 514 South Kostner avenue, a night watchman, and Barney Gonbeck, 48 years old, 3459 Milwaukee avenue, a fireman, were injured early this morning in an explosion and fire which caused damage estimated at $5,000 to the Commercial Oil company refining plant, a two story brick building at 4600 Ferdinand street.

Rohan, on duty in the plant, was knocked to the floor by the explosion. Burned and nearly overcome, he crawled to a glass paneled door, smashed his way through it, and gave the alarm. He was taken to St. Anne's hospital. Gonbeck was cut by falling glass as he and other firemen fought the flames.

The roof and one wall of the plant fell. Tanks of crude oil caught fire, but 60,000 gallons of gasoline stored in the ground were saved after a 2-11 alarm had brought additional fire apparatus to the scene. Water played on the burning oil had little effect and chemicals finally were used to subdue the flames.

Deputy Fire Marshal Daniel J. Carmody ascribed the blast to the spontaneous combustion of stored oils after a preliminary investigation.

POLICE CAPTURE GIRL'S ATTACKER IN STREET CHASE

Five minutes after he is alleged to have assaulted Miss Loretta Bose, 26 years old, 223 South Damen avenue, last night Nick Fulton, 27 years old, was arrested by a Warren avenue flivver squad. He was identified.

Miss Bose had just stepped from her room when her assailant forced her back by pressing a revolver into her side. He took a small flashlight from her desk, struck her over the head with the butt of his gun, and attacked her. As he fled Miss Bose followed him. Outside her home she met Arthur Mitchell, 2415 Cortland street, a friend, and pointed out the fleeing man. He chased him and picked up Policemen Walter Rustin and Otto Jicha on the way. Two blocks away the policemen seized Fulton.

Salesman Ends Acid Stomach

"I cannot help telling how good ACIDINE is," says J. F. McCarthy of Dorchester, Mass. "I had been troubled with an acid stomach for the last ten years and as I am a salesman, I think my condition used to hurt my production. Now after using two boxes of ACIDINE I feel O. K."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japinase, that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops greasy headaches, sleepiness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at Walgreen's. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

HOOVER FORCES SCORE POINT IN RELIEF BATTLE

Controversy to Continue in House Today.

he attended the congressional hearings on the relief proposal.

Mr. Scott, ridiculing imputations by some senators that the Red Cross was playing politics, said the organization was not equipped for handling the nation-wide general relief program outlined by the senate measure. To have undertaken the proposed program of nation-wide relief would have required the setting up of agencies in various states which would duplicate those now functioning, dooming the task to failure, in view of the small fund proposed by the senate, he declared.

Tells of Drought Relief.

Moreover, Mr. Scott said, such organizations as the Salvation Army, Catholic and Protestant charitable organizations, and scores of community chests were caring for general relief work, so that the big task of the Red Cross was to carry on its relief program in the drought stricken areas where the Red Cross is the principal welfare agency.

For this drought relief, Mr. Scott said, the Red Cross is raising a $10,000,000 fund by voluntary subscriptions. This sum, in addition to the $5,000,000 emergency fund provided by the Red Cross itself, would be ample to carry on the program in the drought areas without aid from congressional appropriations, he said.

Mr. Scott pointed out that where congress was advocating only a $36,000,000 fund for general relief work throughout the nation, the Red Cross was raising more than half that sum for the drought stricken areas alone. He said the organization would have no more than ordinary difficulty in raising the fund, nearly half of which already has been subscribed.

Shows Plan Is Inadequate.

With 5,700,000 unemployed in this country, as estimated by the federation of labor, Mr. Scott said, the $25,000,000 congressional appropriation would provide only slightly more than $1 a person, assuming that each unemployed person represented a family of four.

Under the Red Cross plan for extending relief to the drought sufferers, the local chapters and their branches in the stricken areas have full control. After determining the amount and character of the relief required, Mr. Scott said, the national organization makes cash grants to the local chapters as needed, in addition to the local subscriptions from friends and neighbors of the sufferers. In addition, in many localities, the Red Cross is serving hot luncheons to the children in schools.

No Cash, But Arkansas House Votes 15 Millions for Starving

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Arkansas' farmer legislature, sitting in its gold tipped, marble lined capitol, tried hard today to do something toward state relief for their starving farmers, although they have been solemnly warned by Gov. Harvey Parnell and Controller Howard Reed, and in a recent report of outside experts, that this state has reached its limit in bonding power, and could raise no money for any new plan.

With nearly one-fourth of the population being fed by the Red Cross, and the farmers crying for money to put in their crops, the house of representatives cast aside all advice and passed a bill by a vote of 77 to 14 providing a $15,000,000 state bond issue for the drought sufferers.

Representatives Charles Fleming of St. Francis wept as he described conditions in his county, where 4,200 are being aided by the Red Cross. He declared that only through state aid could thousands of lives be saved.

People Are Humiliated.

Representative Hall of Van Buren said that "our people have been humiliated by men of national prominence, and it is up to us to take care of them."

The minority warned that the bonds could not be sold and that this was a futile gesture. Gov. Parnell, in his message to this assembly, warned them to put no new heavy tax on the people and said that bonds authorized by the state last year to the amount of $5,000,000 still are unsold in the hands of the bankers. The senate is expected to kill this bill, or the governor to veto it.

Later in the day appeared a measure which is more likely of passage. This came out of the agricultural committee of the house, and a companion bill was introduced in the senate. It provides for a bond issue of $1,500,000 to pay six per cent interest, guaranteed by a ½ mill tax on property. To make sure of getting the money it would be transferred immediately from the highway fund, where so much of the state money has been sunk. It would set up a loan fund for farmers, working in conjunction with the federal intermediate credit bank plan.

The burden of the comptroller's report, the governor's message, and taxing bodies is that nothing can be expected from a dried up stream of income.

It seems plain enough that the Red Cross will have to keep on feeding nearly 400,000 persons in this state.

Governor Asks U. S. Relief.

Gov. Parnell is asking for national loans or national relief in some form.

In the meantime he has evolved a scheme for a $20,000,000 bond issue for "farm to market roads" which is to be secured by an increase in the gasoline tax, which already is 5 cents, with the lowest car license $15. These new bonds are a provision for the future and would not be effective for two years.

The state now has an authorized debt for highways, confederate pensions, institutions, and school fund of more than $165,000,000. Experts called in here to prepare a survey for the governor have found the financial situation critical. The total revenue from the population of 1,800,000 for 1929-'30 was only $22,414,721.

Gov. Parnell's idea, as well as that of most other people here, is that as the government did not hesitate to appropriate millions for the starving Belgians and Russians it should not quibble about stepping in here.

Ohio to Push Road Work.

Columbus, O., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Immediate relief for the unemployed and drought sufferers of Ohio through the pushing of highway construction was provided by the Ohio general assembly when both houses, without a dissenting vote, adopted a bill to take advantage of the federal government's offer of aid in building federal routes. The state expects $6,500,000 from the federal government to match an equal amount which the legislature appropriated yesterday.

NEGRO DOCTORS IN N. Y. ATTACK ROSENWALD FUND

Dispatches from New York last night stated that the Manhattan Medical society, composed of Negro physicians in Harlem, has denounced "Jim Crow" hospitals and the Julius Rosenwald fund in an open letter to Edwin R. Embree, head of the fund, and also suggested the removal of Dr. B. C. H. Harvey, dean of the medical school at the University of Chicago, because, the letter stated, he advocates colored internes for colored hospitals.

Dr. Harvey stated last night that he had not received any communication from the colored medical society, but suggested that their complaint may have been based on a recent article he wrote for the journal of the American Medical society, in which he discussed the advisability of colored internes for white hospitals.

MONROE'S HOME, VIRGINIA SHRINE, DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The home owned by President James Monroe when he was elected to his first political office was seriously damaged by fire here tonight.

At one time it appeared that the small, gray, one story frame structure, which is one of Fredericksburg's most prized historic shrines, would be destroyed, but volunteer firemen confined the flames to the upper part of the building.

An old Negro woman, a slave during the bombardment of this city by federal troops in 1862, and now more than a hundred years old, was carried from the blazing house.

The building was erected about 1750.

FALLS 4 FLOORS TO DEATH.

Tony Brinovec, 26 years old, 548 North Dearborn street, operator of a freight elevator in a building at 318 East Illinois street, stepped into the open shaft yesterday and fell four stories to his death.

MIDDLE WEST CRIES FOR RAIN FOR LIVE STOCK

Both City and Farm Water Reserves Vanishing.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—The rural middle west is crying for moisture, in the face of a mild January whose lack of moisture is drying up both farm and city water reserves and adding each day to the hazards of maintaining live stock until spring rains arrive.

This condition was emphasized today by farm delegations from nearly every county in Illinois, gathered here for the annual meeting of the state farm bureau. Tales of staving off heavy losses of animal life by the daily hauling of water, in not only southern but central parts of the state, were being exchanged.

Representatives of railroads and rural organizations from Indiana, Missouri and Iowa attending the meeting here verified that the record drought of 1930 was being carried into 1931 with every rainless or snowless day.

Must Come in Few Weeks.

"If we don't get either snow or rain for another few weeks, all the spring rainfall that can come will not save the middle west from distressing conditions when the time comes for planting corn and other crops," declared H. W. Wheeler, farm adviser in Lawrence county.

Otis Kercher, heading a delegation from Vermilion county, said many farmers around Danville were hauling water, and that only mild climatic conditions had saved farmers from hardships in feeding and watering their live stock. His comments were typical of men from Macon, Henry, Peoria, and other central Illinois counties.

"We left our hired men digging post holes for fences and they were unhampered by frost," said a delegation from Adams county. All the area around Quincy hasn't had enough moisture since last June to thoroughly wet a sidewalk, according to H. C. Mast of that city, who said he had traveled in Brown, Pike, Richland, and Calhoun counties during the winter, finding the same conditions everywhere he went.

Farmers from Clark county, across the state eastward, gave just as doleful reports.

"Worst on Record."

R. J. Plaster, agricultural representative of the Big Four railway, describes the situation in southern Indiana, Illinois, and Kentucky as the worst on record, with streams and wells dry for months after having been used during the dry summer and fall. Batesville, Ind.; Hillsboro, Mattoon, Harrisburg, and Anna, Ill., are some of the towns where water supply is being closely guarded against possible shortage. Railroad men are expecting to replace the usual January extra equipment for floods and storms with tank cars to supply some of these towns with water, it was said.

Not since 1901 do the weather bureau records in Springfield record as dry a winter as this one to date. Already short 12.13 inches in 1930 here, there is a shortage of 1.78 inches more for the month of January, compared with a normal January precipitation of 2.10.

Almost Year in Some Places.

Following a warm 1930, with the average daily temperature 1.3 degrees above normal, January so far has been 6 degrees above normal here, the mildest since 1923. Some sections of the state, the bureau records, have had no appreciable rainfall for almost an entire year.

SENATE RADICALS' ATTACK ON MILITARY TRAINING IS DEFEATED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—A radical Republican attack on compulsory military training in American colleges and universities failed today when the senate voted, 62 to 7, against an amendment which sought to withhold war department funds from nonmilitary schools where military training is required by faculty ruling.

The objection to compulsory military training voiced by prominent educators and college heads were cited by Senator Frazier, who claimed that public sentiment against the compulsory feature was growing.

"It is incongruous," he declared, "that a government which has so often gone on record for disarmament—by sponsoring the Kellogg pact, for example—should be spending more than two million dollars a day for its army and navy."

BONUS DEMANDS HEARD BY HOUSE, SENATE GROUPS

War Veterans' Leaders at Sessions as Witnesses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Insistent demands for immediate cash retirement of bonus certificates of world war veterans were voiced today before the senate finance committee and the house ways and means committee in the face of continued administration opposition.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills, who yesterday opposed the proposal before the senate committee, reiterated their objections today before the house committee. Mr. Mills was subjected to a cross-examination by Representative John Garner [Dem., Tex.], minority leader, and other Democrats.

Taylor Presents Resolution.

Witnesses before the senate committee included John Thomas Taylor, legislative spokesman for the American Legion; Thomas Kirby of the disabled American veterans, and Representatives Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], Robert H. Clancy [Rep., Mich.], William P. Connery Jr. [Dem. Mass.], and John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.].

Mr. Taylor presented the resolution adopted by the executive committee of the Legion indorsing "the principle of immediate retirement" but he was unwilling to interpret the declaration.

The house members appearing before the senate committee favored some form of the pending legislation.

Garner Clashes with Mills.

Representative Garner clashed with Undersecretary Mills before the house committee over the purpose of congress in adding 25 per cent to the original value of the bonus certificates. Mr. Garner contended that this was to make up for the failure to provide adjusted compensation for a period of seven years after the war while Mr. Mills insisted that the 25 per cent was to make up for failure to pay cash at once.

Mr. Garner took the position that if cash is paid at the present time the full 25 per cent extra amount should be included while Mr. Mills described the proposal as a "sweetening" which would make it certain that the veterans would exercise the option to take the cash.

Mr. Mills in reply to a question by Garner said that a deficit for the present year is accepted by the treasury as inevitable and that there is no intention to recommend an increase in taxes to make up the 375 million shortage.

Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.] interrogated Mr. Mills sharply on past estimates of the treasury as to deficits. He enumerated various years in which there had been large surpluses in the face of treasury warnings of deficits.

Ohio Senate Asks Congress to Act.

Columbus, O., Jan. 29.—(AP)—With only one dissenting vote, the Ohio senate decided today to memorialize congress to adopt legislation for immediate cash retirement of world war veterans' adjusted service certificates.

Then read the statement of Mr. Jerome Tallman, 30 S. Honore St., Chicago. Think it over, and then decide what you will do about this remarkable medicine. Now read what Mr. Tallman says:

"I cannot remember the time when I did not suffer from stomach trouble, and with awful indigestion pains after meals. I had bilious attacks one after another; black spots appeared before my eyes, and of all the medicines I tried not one helped me. But after four bottles of Konjola I feel better than in years. All the old misery is gone, and every day I think how lucky I was to have found Konjola."

Konjola does work swiftly, yet it is best to take from six to eight bottles for best results. Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such ingredients.

HEFLIN ASSAILED AS POOR LOSER BY ALABAMA HOUSE

Tells U. S. Senate Honest Election Beat Him.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The Alabama house of representatives today adopted a joint resolution expressing "its condemnation of the very poor sportsmanship exhibited" by Senator J. Thomas Heflin "in being unwilling to admit like a man that he was defeated in a fair election."

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 91 to 3.

Representative Coates of Clark county introduced the resolution, which said "no man in Alabama during the last quarter of a century has received greater gifts within the range of the electorate of this state than has J. Thomas Heflin."

Here Is Resolution.

The resolution read: "The said J. Thomas Heflin has, during the greater part of his tenure of office as United States senator, made Alabama the laughing stock of the Union by his bigotry, lack of religious tolerance, and the lack of many of the courtesies expected between one gentleman and another. . . ."

Referring to Senator Heflin's announcement in the senate yesterday that he would contest the election of John H. Bankhead to succeed him, the resolution stated: "In plain language, J. Thomas Heflin accuses the Democratic executive committee of the state and the various county executive committees and all election officers in the state of Alabama with stealing, in that he says fraudulent use was made of the absentee ballots.

"In view of the fact that we are representatives and senators from the 67 counties and 35 districts, having been duly elected in the same general election in which the said Heflin was so overwhelmingly defeated, we wish the world to know that we resent the implications that the sovereign citizens of the state of Alabama were not fair or honest in the conduct of elections where we ourselves and our friends are so vitally affected."

Heflin Loses Senate Fight.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Sharp verbal clashes between Alabama's two Democratic senators—Heflin and Black—marked a futile attempt today by Heflin to obtain authority for the senate campaign funds committee to impound the ballot boxes from the election last year in which he was defeated.

The Alabama senator's efforts were blocked by his own refusal to allow the boxes to be impounded by the senate elections committee instead of the campaign funds committee. He contended the former was unfriendly to him.

Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.] twice blocked consideration of the Heflin resolution to give the campaign funds committee authority.

The temper of the debate was heightened by announcement that the Alabama house of representatives had passed a resolution criticizing Heflin's sportsmanship for contesting the election of his opponent, John H. Bankhead.

The action of the Alabama house was read to the senate by Black.

"I hope my sportsmanship will never be good enough to allow me to submit when the ballots of the people of any state are stolen," Heflin replied.

PARIS, Jan. 29.—Because his actress wife, Jane Aubert, appeared in a recent film in a costume, which he regards as offensive to "conjugal decency," Nelson Morris, Chicago millionaire, today filed suit for $16,000 damages against the Franco Film company. A hearing has been set for Feb. 6.

JUSTICE PARKS AUTO TOO LONG; FINES HIMSELF

Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter of Evanston called his court to order yesterday afternoon and ordered that all defendants step to the bench. He was the only person in the room.

Magistrate Porter took from the desk the single arrest slip and addressed himself:

"Judge Porter, you are charged with having parked your automobile in front of the State Bank of Evanston, in a fifteen-minute parking zone, for longer than that time. What do you plead?"

Then the magistrate answered, "Guilty."

"The customary fine for that violation," Justice Porter said wearily as he wrote down $1 and costs on the court record, marking it "paid."

ARREST BUTCHER AFTER BOMBING OF HIS MARKET

Charles Smith, 418 South Central avenue, owner of a butcher shop at 2820 Madison street, was arrested by police from the state's attorney's office yesterday following the placing of a bomb in the entrance of the shop early yesterday morning. Police held him for investigation without placing a charge against him.

The explosion tore a two foot hole in the cement floor of the doorway, smashed the door and plate glass windows, and wrecked the interior. Tenants of neighboring buildings were aroused from their sleep and windows were smashed.

HOUSE PASSES BILL INDORSING PRICE FIXING

Legalizes Contracts for Trademark Sales.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The house wrote another chapter in the history of retail price fixing legislation today by passing the Capper-Kelly bill to legalize such contracts between producers and dealers on trademarked products.

There was no record vote on passage, but a joint plea by Chairman Parker and Representative Rayburn, Texas, ranking Democrat, to return the measure to the commerce committee, was rejected 210 to 147.

Flooded with Amendments.

A flood of amendments, including such subjects as "unemployment apples if same are wormy during periods of depression," led Rayburn to describe the proceedings as "a farce and a fraud."

"No one can tell now what the effect of the bill will be," said the Texan.

The bill brought before the house permitted a contract between the producer of a trade-marked article and the purchaser which would fix a price for resale of the product and at the same time guard the rights of all retailers in a community. Before passage, a group of amendments designed to protect the retailer against frozen stocks were adopted.

Devious Exemptions.

One by Representative Cox [Dem., Ga.] would permit the retailer to sell at his own price after giving the vendor opportunity to repurchase his products. Another by Representative Fort [Rep., N. J.] would permit the retailer to abrogate the price contract if in financial difficulty. A third, by Representative Burtness [Rep., N. D.] would permit him to sell below the stipulated price but not less than 20 per cent over the purchase price.

An amendment by Representative McSwain [Dem., S. C.] adopted, 140 to 94, exempted "such necessities of life as flour and flour products, agricultural implements, tools of trade, canned fruits and vegetables, all clothing, shoes and hats."

WESTERN INDIANA WINS FIGHT ON TRACK REMOVAL

I. C. C. Orders Them to Remain.

The Illinois Commerce commission yesterday entered an order authorizing the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad to continue use of three lead tracks which connect tracks in the Dearborn station proper with those in the Dearborn station annex and cross Plymouth court and Taylor street.

The city council had ordered removal of the tracks under the contention that the commerce commission had no authority to authorize railroad grade crossing within the city limits. Removal was ordered also on the grounds that the continued presence of the tracks was an obstacle to the so-called Noonan plan, which provides for the opening of a number of alleys and streets in that vicinity. The railroad countered the order with a petition to the commission.

Will Use Other Tracks.

The commission order also authorized the continued usage of four existing station tracks crossing at grade a public alley between Taylor and Polk streets, and six station tracks crossing at grade the first east and west alley south of Polk street between Plymouth court and the first alley east of that location. Continued operation of the existing tunnel under Plymouth court, which links Dearborn station with the annex, and contains power and communication lines as well as air, water, and steam pipes, was likewise authorized.

The city ordered removal of the tracks when the railroad began construction of a building just east of the annex for the handling of mail. In the hearings before the commerce commission the railroad showed the construction of the new building had been necessitated by an order of the United States railway mail service, demanding increased facilities for the handling of incoming mail.

Victory for Railroad.

The order was a complete victory for the railroads involved. The commission ruled that the city and the various intervenors had not proved removal of the tracks a necessity for public convenience. Planking between the tracks, the commission found, served to provide a thoroughfare, and on the other hand public necessity and convenience did demand increased station facilities.

The commission in its order retained jurisdiction in the case.

FLU EPIDEMIC KILLS 120 IN ONE WEEK IN SPAIN

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Influenza has been spreading rapidly over Europe in the last two weeks, and, although it is generally of a mild type, the epidemic shows no indication of abatement.

The most serious recent report came from Spain, where 120 persons were reported to have died in the last week. In Greece the epidemic is so widespread that all schools, theaters, and movies have been closed and public meetings have been forbidden.

An epidemic of much the same type has raged through the United Kingdom, and today all the national schools at Cork were ordered closed. Two hundred and forty-two deaths were reported in England last week.

86 Dead in Hamburg.

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Eighty-six persons have died in Hamburg this week, seventy of inflammation of the lungs, and sixteen of influenza in an epidemic of grippe and kindred ailments.

Bulgar Queen Seriously Ill.

VIENNA, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Information from Sofia says the condition of members of the Bulgarian royal family who are suffering from grippe is causing some anxiety. Queen Ioanna is seriously though not dangerously ill. The condition of Princess Eudoxia, sister of the king, is causing some apprehension, while Prince Cyril is progressing favorably.

FLU IN CHICAGO OF MILD TYPE, KEGEL REPORTS

Although there has been a large increase in the number of influenza cases reported so far in January as compared with the same month of last year there is no immediate danger of a serious epidemic of flu in Chicago, according to Health Commissioner Kegel. Health department records show that in January, 1930, there were 53 cases reported and 37 deaths while so far in January of this year 552 cases have been reported with 54 deaths.

The ratio of deaths to the number of cases reported shows, Dr. Kegel said, that the influenza in Chicago is of a mild type. Many of the cases reported, he said, probably are only heavy colds.

"There is nothing to worry about as far as influenza is concerned," said Dr. Kegel. "The cold, damp weather has caused an epidemic of mild colds throughout the city."

CHURCHILL QUITS SHADOW CABINET OF BRITISH TORIES

Splits with Baldwin on India Policy.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 29. — Winston Churchill, "fire eating" lieutenant of Stanley Baldwin, apparently ended a brilliant political career tonight when he resigned from the Conservative chieftain's "shadow cabinet," otherwise known as the inner council of the Tory party.

The break between Baldwin and Churchill has been smouldering for some time. That a split was inevitable was seen Monday night when Mr. Baldwin publicly repudiated Mr. Churchill's attack in the house of commons on the result of the Indian conference. During the dispute, the Conservative party pledged to carry out Prime Minister MacDonald's declaration of a qualified dominion status for India if returned to power at the next election.

Letter of Resignation.

Mr. Churchill's resignation was contained in a letter addressed to Mr. Baldwin. It read:

"My dear Baldwin—Now that our divergence of view on Indian policy has become public I feel I ought no longer to attend the meetings of your 'business committee,' to which you have hitherto so kindly invited me.

"I hope and believe our sincere and inevitable differences upon policy will not affect the feelings of friendship which have grown up between us during the last six years. I need scarcely add that I shall give you whatever aid in my power in opposing the socialist government in the house of commons and shall do my utmost to secure their defeat at the general election."

Mr. Baldwin accepted the resignation in a reply in which he stated that he agreed Mr. Churchil's decision "is a correct one in these circumstances."

Out of Next Tory Cabinet.

Mr. Churchill has regularly attended meetings of the "shadow cabinet," which consists mainly of former ministers under the Conservative party's rule. They are called together regularly by Chief Baldwin for consultation over party policies and political tactics.

Mr. Churchill's resignation means that he will not become a real cabinet member when and if the Conservatives again win control of the government. He was called to the post of chancellor of the exchequer immediately after his election to parliament under the Conservative banner in 1924.

The retiring political leader has also had a brilliant career in the army and as a journalist and author.

The bridegroom is a member of one of the oldest Italian titled families. An ancestor was created Count Castelbarco in the year 1192.

EROS IS NEAREST TO EARTH TODAY SINCE DISCOVERY

Planet Mere 16 Million Miles Away.

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The "telegraph pole" of the sky, the tiny planet Eros, will be closest to the earth tomorrow, Jan. 30.

Sixteen million miles away, the nearest since his discovery more than 30 years ago, Eros' "telegraph pole" peculiarity will help to reweigh the moon. It also will help measure more accurately the distance between earth and sun.

None of these spectacular things will be done tomorrow. The studies began a month ago and continue until the end of February by nightly photography. Even for a powerful telescope tomorrow Eros will be only a point of light. To the unaided eye he will remain invisible.

New Calculations Made.

The closest approach time was originally set for tonight several years ago by the British astronomer, Crommelin, but Americans since have refigured the time as tomorrow and messages today from Harvard, Mount Wilson, and the United States naval observatory say Jan. 30 is the time.

The speck which is Eros can be seen with a small telescope low in the northeastern sky tomorrow evening, but it will not be easy for any one except experts to pick it out.

Eros' nickname, the telegraph pole, despite the fact that he is not round, is not due to his shape, but to one of his "apparent" motions. This is the same phenomenon which causes a telegraph pole to appear to rush past the window of an auto or railroad car, and actually to be moving backward as compared with distant objects in the landscape.

Close Comparatively.

The "apparent" motions of the poles are due to their closeness to the moving car. In Eros' case 16,000,000 miles is close compared with the "background" in the celestial scenery, which is made of the fixed stars.

Astronomers can use Eros' changing position to check the slowest of all earth's motions, a speed of only 30 miles an hour, made by the world's revolution about the common earth-sun center. While the moon is making its great monthly circle, its pull causes the earth to make a little one, about 4,000 miles in diameter.

By checking earth's speed in this minor revolution, astronomers get more exactly the moon's pull, hence its mass and so its weight.

Eros has an elliptical orbit which comes in close to earth and swings out far beyond Mars. Now and then Eros and earth happen to pass their nearest points about simultaneously. This is what happens tomorrow. The next time will be in 1975 and the second in 2012.

9 RESCUED, 29 DEAD EXPLOSION TOLL AT INDIANA COAL MINE

Linton, Ind., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—The bodies of twenty-nine miners trapped late yesterday in an explosion that shattered the interior of the Little Betty coal mine, west of here, were brought to the surface today. Nine others were rescued. Two of those rescued are being treated in hospitals. Seven of the rescued were brought out at dawn today by a crew of workers who had battled deadly gases for hours in an effort to reach the scene of the explosion.

An official inquiry was begun by the state under direction of Albert C. Dally, Knightsville, state mine inspector. Gov. Leslie motored here to confer on plans for caring for the victims' families.

Except for bruises and superficial burns the rescued men seemed none the worse for their fifteen and a half hours' imprisonment more than a mile from the mine entrance. They were in a section of the mine that missed the full force of the explosion and were able to find enough air to sustain life.

Risking their lives to the perils of black damp, scores of volunteer rescue workers from surrounding mining towns felt their way throughout the night along the gas filled passages.

Ben Snyder, Linton, one of the miners rescued, feeling certain that his time had arrived, when deadly gases began to creep into the little room in which he and six companions sought protection, found a piece of slate on which he scrawled the date, the time of the explosion, and other notations, which formed an unneeded epitaph.

FIFTY GET JOBS CLEANING UP OLD POSTOFFICE SITE

Fifty workmen given employment by the governor's relief commission yesterday began cleaning up the eyesore between Harrison and Polk and Canal and Clinton streets, which the government bought and later abandoned as a postoffice site.

The men were put to work by the governor's commission under the supervision of federal authorities. Anthony Czarnecki, collector of customs and custodian of federal properties, chased a group of hoboes off the ground last November when parents complained that their children were associating with the vagabonds.

It was estimated that about one month will be required to level the site, which is covered with rubbish, bricks, sheet iron and parts of stone foundations. United States Senator Otis F. Glenn has taken steps to have a park made out of the ground.

Falls from Fender When Truck Turns Corner; Killed

Bruno Woznick, 54 years old, 3132 Mospratt street, was fatally injured yesterday when he fell from a truck as it rounded a corner at 31st and Mospratt streets. Woznick had been seated on the fender of the truck and lost his balance. He died at St. Paul's hospital.

Louis Salvator Formato, 47 years old, 3037 Milwaukee avenue, a tailor, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by H. E. Anderson, 3534 Grove avenue, Berwyn, at Lincoln street and Jackson boulevard. He died at the County hospital. The two deaths raised the Cook county motor toll to 99 since Jan. 1.

TURKEY TO HANG AND IMPRISON 78 AFTER 'HOLY WAR'

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Sentences ranging from death on the gallows to long prison terms were imposed today by a court-martial on 78 persons arrested in connection with a religious revolt at Menimen in December.

Twenty-seven, including five women, were acquitted. The court withheld the number sentenced to be hanged until Monday, when parliament will be asked to ratify the death sentences. The hangings, if the sentences are upheld, will take place at Menimen the next day.

Meanwhile the police were investigating 200 residents of Istanbul, mostly women of the higher classes, suspected of participating in secret dervish rites, conducted by the 96 year old sheik Essad, chief of the Makshibend dervishers. At least 400 other suspects are under arrest and awaiting trial. The old sheik is almost certain to be included among those sentenced to death. Hundreds were arrested in Menimen, near Smyrna, in the last week of December after a number of fanatical rebels had stirred up what threatened to become a revolution for restoration of the caliphate in Turkey.

CAFE MAN SHOT, THEATER ROBBED IN DAY'S CRIME

Find Gun Victim's Body; May Be Bandit.

of 1434 Dickson street, disarmed him and shot him in the groin with his own weapon. The next instant Dziatlek fell under fire from the guns of Zalewski's accomplices. Shortly afterward police seized Zalewski when he appeared for medical aid at the office of Dr. Ira Mix, 1433 North Ashland avenue. He confessed the attempted holdup and named his companions as "John" and "Joe."

The holdup at the Majestic theater, 22 West Monroe street, was committed by a Negro about 35 years old and 5 feet 11 inches tall. He waited at the foot of a stairway until Gustave Settergren, 3317 North Lawndale avenue, assistant treasurer of the theater, appeared on his way from the second floor to the box office. The gunman put a revolver against Settergren, took the box containing the $2,500, and several hundred dollars' worth of checks, and fled, disappearing in Monroe street.

Warn Business Men.

In his warning to citizens, Commissioner Alcock pointed out that Chicago was fairly clean of crime this winter. Police were on the job and performing so efficiently, he said, that criminals have become desperate and resorted to spectacular attempts at robbery.

"But there are 450,000 men out of work in Chicago," said the commissioner, "and some robberies could naturally be expected. These large store robberies can and must be stopped. Storekeepers and owners of large businesses must help. No movement of money should go unguarded, and persons on the street should not carry large sums of money, nor wear jewelry at night unless well protected."

Stresses Danger to Life.

Mr. Loesch in his statement on the series of crimes said:

"Lives of innocent people have been endangered. Two were shot at Hillman's, two at Wieboldt's, and four at Baskin's."

Mr. Loesch charged that the police force is insufficient. The force is doing its best, he added. Merchants should take care to insure secrecy in their movements of money, he said, and pointed out that all of the recent big robberies bore indications that the bandits had inside information.

Mr. Loesch commented on the granting of probation to Hobart Smith, who confessed to the fake robbery of $10,000 in the Union station where he was employed. Smith made restitution. Smith should have been sentenced to prison, Mr. Loesch asserted.

MUSICIAN IS SHOT

Woodrow Herman, 17 years old, of the Stratton hotel, 6336 Drexel avenue, a musician, was shot in the leg early yesterday by one of two gunmen who leaped aboard an automobile in which Herman and two other musicians, Steve Bowers, 21 years old, of the Stratton hotel, and John Knight, 29 years old, of the Bismarck hotel, were riding. The shooting occurred at 55th street and South Park avenue and was the result of an intended robbery.

Attorney Joseph B. Gilbert and his wife, Rose, of 1253 Farwell avenue, were held up by three Negroes in the alley north of Jackson boulevard, between State street and Wabash avenue, last night, as they were parking their car. Mrs. Gilbert lost $4 and $100 wrist watch. Gilbert gave up $15.

Samuel H. Trude, 3753 South Hermitage avenue, nephew of Judge Samuel H. Trude, was kidnaped by two bandits last night and robbed of his automobile and $25 at Washington boulevard and Karlov avenue.

Mrs. Augusta Dose, 2528 Pensacola avenue, was robbed of $35 last night by a young man who stepped out of an automobile as she approached her home.

Two bandits stole $639 and missed $600 more yesterday in a holdup of Edgar B. Huggett, 7022 Creiger avenue, manager, and Miss Ruth Simmons, 2108 North Mason avenue, cashier, in the offices of the Beneficial Loan company, 24 North Crawford avenue.

ILLINOIS LABOR TO PRESS 8 HOUR LAW FOR WOMEN

Leaders Insist It Would Relieve Unemployment.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Organized labor again is preparing to press the woman's eight hour bill before the legislature as a measure it deems will help relieve unemployment. This session labor has recast its argument and is advancing the theory that modern labor saving machinery has created a problem to be solved by the shorter workday and week, the position expounded by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

These Are Major Measures.

Labor's legislative program at Springfield this time consists of five major bills. They are designated as:

1. One day's rest in seven.
2. Woman's eight hour day.
3. Old age pension.
4. Prevailing rate of wage for labor employed by the state.
5. Anti-yellow dog contract.

In addition an effort is proposed to revise the workman's compensation act, with a view of raising the Illinois level to the New York standard. Its advocates say it would increase recoveries from 30 to 50 per cent for those meeting with accidents while engaged in industrial activities.

Miss Nestor to Lead Battle.

Most of the bills are now in the assembly. Miss Agnes Nestor of Chicago expects to appear in Springfield within the next two weeks with the eight hour bill sponsored by her group two years ago. The old battle of more than twenty years' standing will be renewed between the Federation of Labor and the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

The new presentation of the women's eight hour bill as a measure to adjust employment to increased machine production, was set forth in a statement tonight by Reuben G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor. He is a state representative from the La Salle district and is chairman of the house committee on education.

"To hear the hue and cry raised by the Illinois Manufacturers' association against the women's eight hour bill," Mr. Soderstrom's statement reads, "one might think these opponents never did try out anything new. This is far from the truth.

"These employers have displayed no hesitancy to enter into mergers, consolidations, to institute speedup, efficiency, and mass production systems calculated to improve profits and business conditions for themselves. They do not hesitate to install new machinery, modern equipment, labor saving devices—so called—that release working women from steady jobs, and as a general thing, no places are found for those so released. This isn't saving labor, that's wasting it.

"Organized labor, as represented by the state federation of labor, has never opposed the coming of the machine. In fact, organized labor welcomes increased production in the hope that when industry with its new devices can produce as much in eight hours as it formerly did in ten or twelve hours then the eight hour day would be installed.

"The eight hour day for women is far less radical as a solution for the unemployment growing out of the installation of modern machinery than the radical changes in the modern way of operating plants where womankind are employed. The only sound solution for unemployment, which scientific management and modern equipment has created, is to reduce the number of hours per day and the number of days per week in proportion to the increase in the number of those who are unemployed.

"If there was any other solution, I believe the employers of our country would have submitted that solution to organized labor a long time ago.

"Under the Illinois law today an employer can work a woman 10 hours a day, 70 hours a week, 52 weeks a year, so far as the law is concerned. It's time the eight hour bill for women was passed in this state."

POLICEMAN IS INDICTED FOR KILLING OFFICER

CRIMINAL COURT.

Verlie Brunson, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Philip J. Finnegan.

Frank Hejl, who has been a policeman of Berwyn for eight years, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday for the murder of his superior, Lieut. John Cihak, on Jan. 24. Arrangements were made to have a speedy hearing of the case and to have the policeman sent to the Chester Asylum for the Criminal Insane. He probably will be arraigned and tried today before Chief Justice John P. McGoorty.

The lieutenant was shot while he was at the police station switchboard to make a call. Hejl was released from the Elgin asylum only a few months ago.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the systems after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

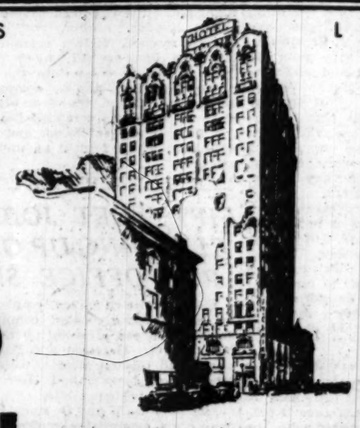
COAL • HEAT • COSTS LESS



The St. Clair Hotel, 162 East Ohio
Architects, Oman & Lilienthal

"You have PROVED that coal heat will save us 25% to 35%!"

Said the Owners of the St. Clair Hotel

LAST FALL the architect-owner-managers of large hotels and other important properties came to the Chicago Coal Merchants Association. "We have read your claims that coal heat costs less," they said. "Can you prove it? We are burning a fuel other than coal and our fuel bills have been $14,211.34 a year."

We accepted their challenge.

The boiler room of the St. Clair Hotel, where a liquid fuel had been burned, was agreed upon as the testing ground.

The Commercial Testing and Engineering Co., famous for fuel research and testing, were selected as judges.

Mr. Samuel Oman, of Oman & Lilienthal, architect-owner of the St. Clair, member of the Illinois Society of Architects and the American Society of Architects, writes: "Some weeks ago we challenged you to prove that we could save money by heating our building and the buildings under our management with coal. We asked for facts, not for assumptions. You gave them to us. We are satisfied beyond a shadow of a doubt that we can save between 25% and 35% on our fuel bills by heating our hotel with coal."

Coal heat saves 25% to 35%

Every precaution was exerted to make the test fair beyond bias or question. Identical boilers were used for both fuels. Conditions for each were matched in every way. The testing engineers were present constantly, checking and rechecking. Representatives of both the coal industry and of the other fuel were there.

At the end of the test periods, the economy of coal heat had been irrefutably proved!

It had been demonstrated that these architect-owners could save between $3,500 and $5,500 every year by burning coal—this after deducting the cost of ash removal, the entire wages of an extra man for twelve months a year, and a helper for five months (even though only a portion of their time would be needed in the boiler room).

The savings coal makes in your heating plant are proportional. Greater if anything; for only the largest buildings equipped with the most costly machinery can use the 4¾¢ per gallon grade of fuel "B" that was burned in the St. Clair.

You can insure these savings by buying your coal from a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association. Then you can be certain that in every ton you order there are 2000 pounds of the coal you specify, unmixed with a cheaper grade. For the Association's guaranty backs its members' pledge of full weight.

Make sure your Coal Merchant is a member of the Association by checking his name in the accompanying alphabetically arranged list.

BUSINESS CHIEFS SEEK BIG GIFTS FOR RELIEF FUND

38 Join Volunteers to Solicit Wealthy.

Thirty-eight prominent business men yesterday joined the volunteer committee which is seeking to reach the $1,000,000 quota set as the minimum to care for Chicago's destitute. The campaign being conducted by the governor's commission on unemployment and relief will close Feb. 11 and the new volunteers will seek large individual gifts in the hope that wealthy residents of Cook county will contribute the $805,467 needed to fill the quota.

Contributions to the fund yesterday totaled $18,922, bringing the grand total to $4,094,533.

Those who have been added to the soliciting force under Joseph M. Cudahy, chairman of the individual gifts committee, are: Charles F. Glore, Charles H. Schweppe, Elmer T. Stevens, Walter L. Brewster, Warren Lamson, Frederick Cuscaden, W. G. Mann, George T. Malcolm, Harvey Hill, W. G. MacLaury, Robert Beach, Eugene Stevens, Harry B. Barnard, Edward W. Sims, Benjamin B. Bryan jr., Ralph Hines, Walter T. Smith, Yale B. Judah, Frederick Coffin, Clarence S. Pellett, James H. Becker, Sol Klein, Willoughby Walling, Alan C. Dixon, Wallace Winter, Arthur Dahl, Joseph T. Ryerson, Ralph A. Bard, George W. Blossom jr., George R. Carr, Joseph Edward Otis jr., Charles Ward Seabury, Raleigh Warner, Craig B. Hazlewood, Walter A. Strong, J. L. Houghteling, N. W. Bullard, and J. S. Brocksmit.

The United Charities of Chicago gave assistance to the greatest number of people in 1930 that it has ever been called upon to help in the seventy-five years of its existence, according to Vice President Sewell L. Avery. Statistics of the year's activities were presented at a meeting of the directors of the organization in the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

"The family service and relief department, on which the greatest burden fell," Mr. Avery said, "aided 27,125 families, totaling more than 120,000 individuals. In 1929 we aided 13,287 families. In addition our legal aid bureau handled free of charge 26,105 legal cases for persons who were unable to pay attorney fees. These people otherwise would have been without justice."

Other activities of the United Charities were listed. A total of 3,720 homeless and stranded men, physically handicapped, insane, or aged, and men overcome by circumstance were given temporary relief and medical and institutional care.

GOOD FELLOW FUND PASSES $85,000 MARK

Thanks to gifts and pledges, THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund went over the $85,000 mark yesterday. This represents the total received since the fund was started last October following a call for Good Fellows to extend their Christmas basket giving to the maintenance of needy families during the winter months.

As more gifts are received the Good Fellow fund is able to assume the responsibility of more families who are in need of proper food and shelter. Every cent received by the fund is spent on these families. The cost of administering the fund is borne by THE TRIBUNE.

Contributors are assured that the families served are worthy ones, because they all have been investigated by the four coöperating social agencies, the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau (Catholic), the Jewish Social Service bureau, and the Salvation Army.

WIDOW WITH TWO CHILDREN APPEALS TO SALLY FOR JOB

"I have tried my utmost to get work, but without result," said a widowed mother of two children in her appeal yesterday to Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE.

"I have tried house to house selling, but without luck," she wrote. "I have been out of work for two and a half months, and I am behind with the rent. I would try my luck at most anything. I've worked in electric shops, on punch presses, and automatic machines, curving rails for toy trains and assembling. I can furnish good references."

A young man wrote that he has a wife and child and another baby is expected soon. He has been unable to find work for four months. A war veteran, out of work for 11 months, hoped that Sally could find him a job. He has two small children to support and is behind three months on the rent. He is a piano tuner and furniture finisher.

A widow with two sons said: "I need work badly. The younger boy was born after my husband died. I owe rent and bills and don't know what I am going to do."

Meanwhile the job offers, which Sally turns over to the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, are diminishing. If you know of a job telephone to Sally Joy Brown at Superior 0100.

FARMERS LIKELY TO SEEK A STATE INCOME TAX LAW

Agricultural Body Votes on Proposal Today.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Organized agriculture in Illinois will champion a state-wide income tax before the current legislature if the proposals of officials of the Illinois Agricultural association, announced and discussed in their annual meeting today, are adopted by delegates tomorrow.

This was seen as a departure from the association's previous stand that property taxation, which it claims "is approaching confiscation of farms and homes," be modernized by constitutional amendment to pave the way for an income tax for educational expenses only.

It was announced by J. C. Watson, the farmers' tax specialist, this afternoon, that the association would undoubtedly stand noncommittal on exemptions and rates in attempts to readjust revenue collection in the present legislature, but would be flatfootedly for a state income tax to be passed by the legislature under the existing constitution for all state expenses.

Earl C. Smith, for six years president of the farm organization, recommended in his annual address this morning that the association take this position when it votes on resolutions tomorrow afternoon.

Twice previously the association's income tax proposals have passed in the senate, but lost in the house.

Alexander Legge, federal farm board chairman, tonight told a packed audience of farmers that if they didn't take advantage of the opportunity of forming coöperative selling agencies to handle their commodities under present laws, they must suffer the consequences of world competition and world prices.

Calling to mind the fact that one-fourth of all corn that goes into American markets comes from Illinois, he complimented the farm bureau leaders of the state upon their progress in forming a state-wide grain sales agency. He declared that Illinois farmers were leading the nation in methodical formation of commodity marketing associations.

Mr. Legge said the stabilization activities of the farm board in wheat and cotton, while merely temporary in nature, had saved farm commodity prices from disastrously low levels. He maintained that the board had no intention of continuing its support of wheat prices another year.

Charles E. Ewing of Decatur, president of the National Live Stock Marketing association, asserted that organizen selling of farm products was imperative if the farmer expected to remain solvent during the "misfortunes of agriculture which have now involved the affairs of both industry and finance."

The association's convention ends tomorrow with a business session which follows a luncheon to be addressed by Gov. L. L. Emmerson. He is expected to touch on the association's position on taxation, it is rumored.

Chicago's distinguished decorator
Mrs. John Alden Carpenter
keys her menus to the personality of this rich coffee*

ONE of the greatest names in American decorating today is that of Chicago's own Rue Carpenter. Fearlessly original, blessed with a heaven-born sense of artistry, this woman's every touch sings out with startling beauty. The most talked-of interiors are hers: Elizabeth Arden's Fifth Avenue Salon in New York: society's bizarre Casino Club, and the sophisticated Arts Club in Chicago.
As an artist, and as the wife of a distinguished composer, Mrs. Carpenter's home on Rush Street is the rendezvous of the world's creative geniuses in music, literature, art. For these highly developed tastes, Mrs. Carpenter considers only one coffee suitable.
"I would rather let a man select my hats than let the cook select my coffee," declares this expert in creating atmospheres. "For coffee is such a personal thing. It can absolutely spoil or perfect the meal for everybody. I find Manor House so perfectly blended that it achieves a sympathetic spirit with every mood and with every moment. At breakfast its fresh fragrance is spiriting as sunlight. At dinner its full rich flavor engenders a perfect sense of harmony and peace. Never has this wonderful Manor House spirit failed me, for never has the Manor House quality varied in richness or in freshness."
If coffee to you is something more than just a hot drink . . . . if your success as a homemaker or hostess is a matter of any pride . . . . you cannot afford to serve anything less than McLaughlin's Manor House, the blend of connoisseurs.
Born a Winterbotham, Mrs. Carpenter's position would be socially impregnable, even had she not added a brilliant star to Chicago's crown of achievements. She is president of the exclusive Arts Club . . . is on the board of Passavant Hospital and the Illinois Children's Home and Aid . . . and gives her decorating art freely to the success of Chicago's Charity Balls. Just as she builds her tremendous effects in decorating around some one dominant color or form, so she climaxes her every menu with the richest, mellowest coffee her genius can discover. From breakfast on her cheerful green and white tray, to after-dinner coffee served in her exotic yellow drawing room, Mrs. Carpenter's coffee is always Manor House, the only blend served by 92% of Chicago's exclusive society women, whose hospitality has won international fame.
Tune in W·G·N every Sunday night, 7 to 8 o'clock, for the Manor House Dramatizations of the Grand Operas . . . with stars singing the principal arias.

THE RED CROSS DECISION.

Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, has told the house subcommittee that the decision of the central committee of his organization is not to accept the administration of funds for relief work if congress should vote them. He said the Red Cross could meet the requirements of the drought regions without a government appropriation.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, author of the $25,000,000 relief bill, says the decision is inhuman. The senator, in support of his measure, has had a great deal to say of the inhumanity of persons who question or oppose his plan and none of it has been very creditable to him. Concern for destitute citizens of the United States is not confined to the United States senate nor is the hardest part of the relief work undertaken there. It is assumed voluntarily by thousands of American citizens, many of whom view Mr. Robinson's proposals with the gravest doubts and most serious misgivings.

If the logic of Senator Robinson's humanity is to prevail, the end is nowhere in sight. It is the Red Cross decision not to assume responsibility for it. Representative La Guardia of New York presents the claims of humanity in his city as being quite as urgent as in Mr. Robinson's state. The Red Cross officials do not believe that the organization could undertake the distribution of relief in every locality in the country even if it were wise and necessary for the government to provide the money.

The local agencies in the drought region are inequal to the demands upon them. Therefore the Red Cross has taken over the relief and Judge Payne says that the resources of the organization are sufficient. That leaves other regions to accept responsibility for their own requirements and they are doing so. If this local authority is to give way to federal appropriations and Red Cross management, congress has not begun to touch the sum which will be required and the Red Cross is entirely inadequate for its administration. That seems plain enough.

Voluntary contributions for relief in the drought country can be devoted exclusively to this purpose, but government relief will find that discrimination in favor of a destitute person in Arkansas and against a destitute person in New York politically obnoxious. A fair extension of the relief to all the sources of taxation which provide for it would commit the federal government to a policy never before contemplated, one which has no apparent limits and which offers only alarming prospects.

REPEAL OF STATE PROHIBITION.

The clerical and dry contention at Springfield in opposition to the repeal of the state search and seizure act, the Illinois prohibition law, is that the referendum at the November elections was a negligible expression of opinion. The popular vote for the repeal was the largest given in the vote on propositions. It was larger than the vote which gave assent to any of the laws submitted and adopted. It was larger than the total vote on the revenue amendment.

The question of repeal was submitted in lawful form. The result is assumed legally to be advisory, to indicate the will of the people for the instruction of the legislators. The Democratic state party declared for the repeal. The Republican state party said it would abide by the popular voting. Thus notice was given to all citizens interested that the referendum would be accepted and legislative action would be based on it. The prohibitionists lost decisively.

The repeal of the Illinois search and seizure act will represent the sentiment of the state. It is a part of the process by which the liquor control laws of the country will be made over in line with the recommendations of the majority of the Wickersham commission. The Illinois law must be repealed if the state is to be in a position to make a fresh start in the management of this question when released from federal interference.

CHANUTE AVIATION STATION.

The extreme concentration of army aviation development at about three points is certainly a policy which needs conclusive support. The Illinois Chamber of Commerce, which is protesting the abandonment of Chanute airport and experimental work there, asserts that the argument of economy has little if any weight. But in any case economy is not a mere question of the pay roll and there is sound reasoning under the assertion that it would be not economy but waste to give up the advantages which the Chanute station has by reason of the aid to experiment the University of Illinois, near by, can give it. The university has one of the best engineering departments in the United States and is equipped to assist in the solution of aviation problems in a most effective way. To give up these facilities is not economy.

There are other reasons for the continuation of Chanute station. It is an ideal situation for a tactical base and for training. It commands Chicago in case of emergency and the upper Mississippi valley.

Objection from this district cannot be brushed aside as merely sectional self-interest. The reasons against abandonment are substantial and we think ought to prevail.

THE SENATE GETS THE WILLIES.

To the conspicuous ironies of our American political experience the United States senate is now contributing one of the most acute. The senate was devised as a brake upon the hasty and short-sighted legislation which it was feared the house of representatives would propose under the influence of popular clamor. The popular branch of the national legislature it was assumed must be, and in fact is, closer and more immediately responsive to public opinion and therefore to those quick and violent gusts of sentiment which we the people occasionally experience.

Yet in the present painful and difficult situation it is the senate which is headlong, while the house, at least thus far, has shown deliberation and restraint. It is the senate which is proposing to throw overboard well proved principles of American action and embark upon experiments in government responsibility and activity without due disinterested deliberation and with conspicuous disregard for ultimate consequences. In short, it is the body which once was called "the most august deliberative body in the world"—and then largely deserved the description—which is now acting like a hysterical old maid, while it is the popular house which has been showing a decent responsibility for the nation's welfare.

The explanation is, of course, not obscure. The senate for some time has been under the domination of a small group of radicals, whose inordinate power arises from the fact that neither party is really in control of the senate organization. In this situation they hold the balance of power, and even under stress of the present emergency there is not enough regard for the nation's good in the senate to offset considerations of personal or party advantage. In the case of some senators, like Robinson of Arkansas, hitherto considered one of the solid men of the senate, the pressure of a local crisis seems to have compelled a course of conduct of which, without pressure, he would not be guilty. This adds to the demoralization of senate action.

The more deliberate and bridly national conduct of the house we think can be explained on the grounds that the people themselves, though under great strain, have not lost their heads and are looking upon the situation sensibly and without distorting emotionalism. Throughout the country virtually all citizens are trying to help and are helping the needy. Inevitably there are exceptions, but we are confident that when the whole picture of America is surveyed it exhibits a sense of responsibility, a determination to deal with unfortunate conditions, and an initiative and resourcefulness in providing means, agencies and sound methods of relief of which we all have reason to be proud. This nation-wide activity, so creditable to the fine spirit and good sense of the American people, is ignored by the senators who are clamoring for government money and the heedless expansion of government responsibilities. Our reliance, it would seem, must be upon the house and its response to the same spirit and foresight of the people.

BAD MOTOR MANNERS.

Conditions in lower Wacker drive evidently call for some special attention from the traffic bureau, but are only an extreme or concentrated expression of motor manners in this town, which are about as bad as in any American city. What they represent essentially is a general repeal of the Golden Rule. In lower Wacker drive the result seems to be nearly a paralysis of traffic, but throughout the city inconsiderate driving is a general nuisance. Yet the Golden Rule is not so much a counsel of perfection as an at least approximately practicable rule for which it is everybody's selfish interest to show a reasonable regard. The driver who inconveniences others in order to get a special advantage at some moment is insuring his own punishment at another. This ought to be obvious, but we are a gambling people and fond of taking a chance. The net result is that everybody is inconvenienced and endangered a good part of the time.

Police regulation is essential, but it is not reliable. Most of the road hoggishness and heedless driving is out of the control of traffic regulators. It can be moderated only by the development among all users of the automobile of a public opinion openly hostile to bad manners, a matter of self-education and self-discipline. It is not, perhaps, merely fanciful to suggest in this connection that clergymen who are so zealous for the correction of conduct by laws and their administration might get better results in the long run by preaching the pragmatic values of the Golden Rule in our ordinary community relations.

Our bad road manners are not merely condemnable on grounds of altruism. They are stupid from the standpoint of self-interest.

The Other Side

CHICAGO AND THE WATERWAY.

[St. Paul Dispatch.]

Because the farm board has interfered with speculators in wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade their champion, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, now attacks the St. Lawrence waterway in retaliation. In the opinion of THE TRIBUNE the farm board has caused suspension of wheat exports by keeping Chicago prices above those in Liverpool and has thereby removed the prime need for the St. Lawrence waterway. For with wheat eliminated it declares:

"About all that we still have to export via the St. Lawrence are wild jackasses and the sons of wild jackasses. It is this country's misfortune that there is no market abroad for this distinctively American product."

By this argument THE TRIBUNE evidently hopes to accomplish Chicago's doubly sinister design of sabotaging the farm board in the esteem of the west and discrediting the waterway at the same time. Thus would the wrongs of the speculators be avenged.

But wheat is only one of the commodities that will move from the midcontinent out through the Gulf of St. Lawrence. That traffic will include agricultural implements, dairy products and machinery, tires, automobiles, meats, iron and steel products, as well as lesser objects of trade. Incoming goods will consist of rubber, coffee, tea, newsprint, and many other items.

Evidently the farm board's operations in wheat have infuriated Chicago wheat speculators until the wildest of the wild jackasses THE TRIBUNE blames for the marketing act are quiet domestic animals by comparison. The farm board is likely to be denounced in Chicago for everything from blocking the waterway to inspiring gang murders—for both of which offenses it is equally responsible.

DISEASES FROM GAME.

THE open season for game is at hand and there is certain to be an increase in tularemia in consequence. Most diseases which prevail in epidemics among lower animals are prone to limit themselves to those domesticated animals that live under artificial conditions which man imposes. Tularemia is the one outstanding American exception.

It prevails among wild rabbits of different species in all parts of the country, and there is evidence that it also prevails among deer, opossums, muskrats, woodchucks, mice, sheep, and quail to some extent; and may infect, though in an irregular way, coyotes, ground squirrels, and cats. On the other hand, domesticated rabbits escape. There is some evidence that when wild rabbits are found dead in large numbers, as has been observed more than once, the cause is tularemia. The chief danger to man lies in skinning and butchering the infected animals. Laboratory workers, butchers, cooks, and hunters are about the only classes who are greatly endangered.

Eating the meat of a diseased animal is not pleasant to contemplate, but so far as we know is not a dangerous proceeding. However, men are infected by the bites of many insects, such as deer flies and ticks, and still others. And now, confining ourselves to the perils of human life:

A man who has been infected is generally taken sick on the fourth day after exposure. The disease begins with a chill, with great aching including headache, and followed by fever. He notices that the glands of a given location are swollen and painful. Observing more closely, he may note a wound on a finger and red streaks running from this wound to the enlarged glands. Probably this will be the first notice he has taken of the wound. Becoming suspicious, he remembers skinning some rabbits three or four days earlier and he may remember a scratch on a finger as having been an incident of the skinning operation. If there is need for any help in diagnosis a laboratory makes an agglutination test and settles all doubt.

As a rule, the illness lasts three weeks and is followed by a slow convalescence and recovery. No isolation is required by law, though reporting to the health department is necessary. There is no treatment except meeting symptoms as they arise. Lancing the enlarged glands is apt to do harm. The blood of a person who has had tularemia will give a positive laboratory test for the remainder of life. This suggests that blood serum from persons who have had tularemia should cure the disease.

ENJOYING CHILBLAINS.

White Mountaineer writes: I have enjoyed chilblains for thirty years in succession. They thrive best on three sure cure treatments a season. Would you advise sulphuric acid, toe extraction, or migration to Abyssinia for the season? I shall miss them so when they go.

REPLY.

Try the paraffin bath treatment recently covered in this column. It pains me to give this advice.

DRUGS FOR SLEEP.

W. S. Y. writes: Is it harmful to take an occasional dose of a drug to make one sleep?

REPLY.

It is. The drugs used for the purpose of making one sleep are somewhat habit forming. They are also harmful to some degree. Certain ones are quite harmful. Others are less so. The cure of insomnia consists of training in relaxation. Short cuts are apt to be ineffective and sometimes they are worse than that.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By Ed.

AN OPEN FACED LETTER.

Dear Mr. Mussolini: Don't get too excited over what Gen. Smedley D. Butler said at the banquet in Philadelphia about you running some one down with your car. If you knew more about our banquets you would know that our after dinner speakers have a way all their own of dramatising a little story and putting it over so that it will go big. That little story about you could be told in a hundred different ways, depending on who gave the dinner. They'd each fix it to suit themselves.

Now, suppose it's some kind of an industrial dinner. This is the way a Captain of Finance would tell it:

. . . Business is coming back, my friends [applause], coming back like an Alpine avalanche. And speaking of the Alps reminds me of Italy. I have a friend who has just returned from Italy and who was an eyewitness to what I am about to relate. And I may say right here that Italy, too, is getting on its feet financially and buying more and more American goods of every description. [Cheers.] The gentleman to whom I refer and who told me the story is a warm, personal friend of Mussolini and went driving with him in a very handsome automobile which, though, was nothing like as big as dozens of our American cars which are getting bigger and better every few minutes. [Applause.] However, my friend says Mussolini took him in the car and they went to the Coliseum and those parts of Rome in which the Forum still remains. My friend says there is great opportunity there for American builders, as well as building material of all description, and that some good high pressure salesmen from America could take large orders in a short time. [Cheers.] Mussolini's car, unfortunately, drove into an old gentleman, who only saved his life by making a flying leap to the sidewalk. "Don't stop," said Mussolini to the chauffeur, "that was only the king. What Italy needs is fewer kings and more machinery." [Applause.] And where can Italy obtain the vast quantities of machinery she needs? Here, right here, in America; everything, from a monkey wrench to a ninety story building, all ready to crate up and ship at any time. That's the new spirit of Italy, gentlemen; fewer kings and more of our manufactures. I thank you. [Great applause.]

And this is the way they'd tell this same yarn at a banquet of the Friends of the Apennines:

. . . Ladies and gentlemen, one word more and I am through. I can say no more of all those ancient marvelous glories of Italy such as the world has never seen and which are appreciated out of Italy only by us of the Friends of the Apennines. [Cheers.] But I want to conclude by telling you a little story to show how much they love their classic treasures in Italy. A friend of mine was driving around Florence with the great Mussolini. They reached a point where on one side of the street stood a beautiful statue of white marble. Suddenly the machine skidded and headed straight for the statue. Luckily, on the other side of the street was a crippled match girl. My friend and Mussolini both screamed: "Look out for the statue! Run the machine into the match girl!" The chauffeur tugged at the wheel and whirled the machine away from the statue and straight at the match girl, who, however, nimbly side-stepped and got out of the way. But it shows, this touching little incident, how the Italians themselves, even the greatest of them, will do all in human power to preserve those priceless, those marvelous works of art. Can we do less? [Applause.]

Now a Wet after dinner speaker would have told the story like this:

. . . Now, my friends, I want to speak seriously for a moment; seriously, and in way of warning. Whither, whither, I say, are we drifting? What, I ask you, will happen here on any city street or country road if the dry menace remains unchecked? Do you know what tyranny means when it is allowed to go on and on and on? I will tell you. Mussolini today in Italy has the demon-like power, the absolute power over his subjects that the drys are aiming to secure over us. I have it on unimpeachable authority from a friend of mine who was riding with him in his great automobile in Rome. Turning a corner the car was driven over a man sitting in an open air café. "Drive on," shouted Mussolini to the chauffeur, "what does it matter!" Ah, my friends, do you want to see the Anti-Saloon league careening in its great car down beautiful Michigan avenue, or some quiet country lane, laden with remorseless Drys, and when you or your wife or your daughter is made to leap for life to the pavement to hear the cruel cry from the Drys, "Drive on, what does it matter just so we have our own way!"? That is what we are coming to, gentlemen, and the day is not far distant. [Terrific applause.]

A speaker at a Dry banquet would do it this way:

. . . We must be on guard. Oh, my fellow citizens; oh, my friends, day and night we must watch with unceasing vigilance. [Applause.] Do you know what the return of the saloon would mean? I will tell you. A friend of mine who has been in Italy told me what you may expect. He was driving with Mussolini, the premier of Italy. Italy, I may say, my friends, unfortunately remains yet in the iron shackles of the Demon Rum. [Groans.] The saloon is in power in Italy, and as propaganda they have fitted up all government automobiles just as the old time saloon was fitted up—bar, mirror, bottles of liquid poison, sawdust on the floor, everything. My friend was riding in one of the saloon cars with Mussolini himself. Going at a terrific speed down the street the car left the road and plunged into a humble cottage. The inhabitants managed to get away with their lives, but their home was wrecked, their furniture destroyed, their little savings ground into the dust and lost forever. That's what the saloon did to this little Italian home. And, instead of stopping to give aid to the wretched couple who saw the work of a lifetime destroyed by the saloon, Mussolini said to the chauffeur: "Drive on; never mind about that dump; let's have a drink." Yes, my friends, that's it! That's the attitude of those wretched humans that want the saloon back. They'll say the same about your wrecked homes over here: "Never mind about the dump; let's have a drink!" [Great applause.] I thank you.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 30, 1915.

ROME.—A royal decree has been issued calling to the colors Italian soldiers of the first category, born in 1888 and belonging to the field artillery, and also the Alpine troops and the soldiers of the third category born in 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1894, belonging to the Alpine troops.

PARIS.—German attempts to cross the Aisne at Soissons have been complete failures. Twice today the kaiser's men attempted to advance, but were held in check by the French. The German war report for the day tells of another disastrous air raid on Dunkirk, but the official French report insists that little damage was done.

LONDON.—Dispatches from Bucharest say Rumania is expected momentarily to enter the war and to send an invading army into Austrian Transylvania. Mobilization is nearly completed.

PARIS.—The army bulletin asserts that from Aug. 2 to the beginning of December the German army lost approximately 2,000,000 men. Admitting that 500,000 injured men would be able to return to the firing line, the bulletin says the definite loss, therefore, may be estimated at 1,500,000 men.

NEW YORK.—John R. Lawson, executive board member for Colorado of the United Mine Workers of America, appeared before the federal commission on industrial relations and attacked the testimony of John D. Rockefeller Jr. Mr. Lawson told of the shooting of striking miners in Colorado, the shattering of miners' homes, of how hundreds in 1903 were dumped into the desert without food or water, while others were driven over the snows of the mountain ranges.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 30, 1901.

CHICAGO.—An investigation of the financial affairs of the endowment bank of the Knights of Pythias during the last four days resulted in the discovery of a shortage of $8,000. The defalcation is charged to a trusted clerk, whose name is being withheld. The investigation is being continued.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad.—Twenty-five American men are defending their families and property at Pitch Lake, Venezuela, against the attacks of the insurgents. This news was received at Caracas, a trustworthy engineer bringing the report of the perilous situation and an appeal to the United States legation at the Venezuelan capital for help.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Field Marshal Count Gourko, famous Russian soldier, died here at the age of 76.

TOPEKA.—The Kansas State Temperance union subscribed over $100 to buy a gold medal for Mrs. Carrie Nation, saloon wrecker. Mrs. Nation sent a signed message to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE today which said: "I cannot leave our beloved Kansas till she is free."

CHICAGO.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt will give a reading on Friday at Fullerton hall, similar to those she gives on afternoons in her theater in Paris. The affair will be in the nature of a public reception for her.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 30, 1881.

PARIS.—The Temps publishes the following as the Chilean conditions of peace: The cession of Aziofagasta to Chile; the surrender of the allied fleet and the payment of an indemnity of $30,000,000 whereof Peru shall assume $20,000,000 and Bolivia $10,000,000; Chile to occupy Callao and work the guano deposits and the copper and saltpeter mines until the payment of the indemnity is made.

DUBLIN.—Ireland is ablaze over the result of the Land league trials, and "Parnell Is Free" is emblazoned on a thousand banners in towns and villages to which the league has extended its operations. Bonfires are burned in every village. The ten to two disagreement of the jury in the face of the tremendous pressure of the court is everywhere accepted as having the force of an acquittal, and a virtual protest against the government's proposed coercion bills.

CHICAGO.—H. V. Bemis, owner of the pacing gelding Sorrel Dan, has challenged the owners of Maud S. and St. Julien for a race, mile heats, best three in five, for a stake of $2,500 each, the race to take place on the track of the Chicago Driving park during its meeting, July 19 to 23. He says the Driving park will add $7,500.

ANOTHER JUDICIAL APPOINTMENT.

Oglesby, Ill., Jan. 24.—The tug of war over the appointment to the federal bench of Ernest A. Michel, recommended by the blind Senator Schall of Minnesota and denounced by Attorney General Mitchell, is not without its touch of Hooverian humor and knavish boasting. As an example of the latter, witness this passage from Mr. Mitchell's remarks in your issue of today:

"President Hoover has raised a standard of judicial appointment in which political 'usefulness' does not enter. He has refused repeatedly to be bent by such motives. I am sure the people of Minnesota approve of this attitude. When it comes to judicial office they want men about whose qualifications there is not room for difference of opinion, not men appointed to pay political debts."

Back in October, 1929 [memorable month], a vacancy occurred for which the holy clerks and whoopers-up dominated by the Anti-Saloon league had a candidate. His name was Richard J. Hopkins. He was an admitted dry agitator and there was grave doubt even in Kansas as to his ability. Hopkins got the job and still sits on high.

It would seem that Mr. Michel and Senator Schall are not learned in the ways of appointments in these benignly bureaucratic times. The Anti-Saloon league does this business with enviable finesse no matter the howling and crying in the wilderness. EDWARD HAND.

LABOR SAVING.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Manufacturers when adopting labor saving machinery should reduce the price of their products sufficiently to create new markets. Had they, by price reduction, sought enough new consumers so that the increased output would enable them to install the new machinery and also continue employing about their normal man force, it would have proven the wiser policy.

The remedy is the reduction of prices drastic enough all along the line for the consumers to get the benefit. Then every one can begin employing consumers instead of discharging them.

I am not taking issue with the economists who claim labor saving machinery creates more jobs than it destroys, but only calling attention to the fact that full advantage was not taken of the opportunity to reduce prices and create new markets. If the competitive system is going to survive we must take full advantage of the possibilities of mass production and mass distribution at the lowest margins of profit.

FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Taking into consideration the number of heads of families that are out of work, would it not be a good idea to give them work as judges and clerks of election at the coming primary? All precinct captains that are on the job know just who is working in their territory and who need the money most. WALTER SHEEHAN.

A 4 PER CENT DONATION.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Wage earners generally have responded nobly to the appeal of Gov. Emmerson's commission, I believe that these contributions were voluntary for the most part, but as the request for such donations came through the employers in a special letter to each employé many donated to keep in the good graces of the employer and for the "honor of the house." In other words, donated voluntarily out of fear. How much? One day's pay out of the month or about 4 per cent. In the majority of cases this means 4 per cent of the wage earner's total income.

On the other hand, is there not some way to "high pressure" our Chicago millionaire friends? I refer to those who have not contributed or have donated, not according to their means, but according to their meanness, and not in the ratio of 4 per cent of their income.

Am I overestimating when I presume that there are 2,500 people in Chicago with incomes of $50,000 or more? Ten thousand five hundred times $50,000 equals $125,000,000. And 4 per cent would be $5,000,000.

About this matter of feeding the hungry, a good many thousands of us will thank you if you will pass the message on to our wealthy friends. An appeal to their sporting instincts might get them to help us out. We do not envy their wealth or position. In fact, in many ways we are better off than they are. We bought Liberty bonds in a greater ratio than they did and we had to sell ours at a discount while they could hold theirs. And we are not kicking now, only there ought to be a way to make these birds come across.

D. A. B.

THE COST OF CANDY.

Evanston, Jan. 25.—I notice in today's TRIBUNE a correspondent writes regarding the price of candy being 70 cents per pound, notwithstanding the low price of sugar. Here in Evanston we are charged 80 cents per pound for caramels and $1 per pound for taffy by one of our candy firms.

We are told that chocolate has not come down, but the above candies, as well as many other varieties, have no chocolate. The main ingredient is sugar, which has sold at the lowest prices in history during the last year or more. All other ingredients used in the manufacture of candy are cheaper, with the possible exception of nuts and chocolate. Labor is cheaper. CLARA RICE.

ONE WIFE AT A TIME.

Oak Park, Jan. 26.—It was very interesting to read about a countryman of mine who claimed to be 109 years old, and more interesting to learn that he has had 78 wives during his lifetime, as stated in today's TRIBUNE. I should like to mention that Armenians do not marry more than one wife, like some other oriental people, and if the said person, Tatos Nooryan, had entered into his matrimonial venture at the age of 27 he must have married one every year until he was 105 years old, which is simply ridiculous. ASK LEGISLATION TO MAKE STATE BUILD CITY ROADS

Highway Chiefs Also Back Right of Way Bill.

The Association of County Highway Superintendents of Illinois, in a report made public yesterday, urges legislation making it the duty of the state to build highways into and through municipalities of all sizes to meet the needs of traffic.

For Chicago, according to Maj. George A. Quinlan, Cook county highway superintendent, this proposed legislation would call on the state to finance and to construct modern motor thoroughfares with continuous grade separation such as the outer drives or the elevated highways advocated for the west side by the Chicago Plan commission.

Funds Not Spent in City.

At present, the state highway department collects almost half of its revenue from the motorists of Chicago, but does not spend any of its money on pavements within the city. The routes designated for paving by former Gov. Small's administration under the $100,000,000 and the $60,000,000 bond issues terminate at the city limits. The motor fuel tax laws assign to the state's share of the gasoline excise to these routes.

The Association of County Highway Superintendents also is sponsoring a bill that would make it the duty of the state to acquire additional right of way needed for improvement of existing state bond issue pavements. The present policy of requiring local authorities to furnish right of way would be continued in building new state highways.

Most of the delays in the construction of projected grade separations and in widening the pavements have been due to this right of way policy, which was adopted during Gov. Lowden's administration, when present conditions were not foreseen. Interstate, where land is sold by the state, the road building under this method has progressed with comparatively little trouble. In the metropolitan area, where land is valued by the front foot, the policy has been virtually unworkable.

High Cost of Right of Way.

In Cook county, according to Maj. Quinlan, the cost of the right of way for road improvements has in some places been as much as five times greater than the cost of laying the concrete. E. L. Gates, Du Page county highway superintendent and chairman of the legislative committee of the superintendents' association, said he had similar problems in his territory.

"The state's right of way policy," said Mr. Gates, "was adopted on the theory that the construction of a pavement benefited abutting property sufficiently to compensate for the land that was needed for right of way. The theory was and is sound where a concrete road is laid serving a farm heretofore marooned by mud. The policy also applies fairly well where a new road is being built that will open undeveloped land for subdivisions.

"But the conditions are entirely different when it comes to improving an existing pavement. For example, the residents along an eighteen or twenty-foot pavement can not be asked to dedicate seventeen feet of their front yards so that the pavement can be widened to forty feet.

Object to Express Traffic.

"A narrow pavement serves the resident of abutting property. A wide pavement means more traffic roaring and pounding by his front door day and night. Residence on one of these express highways is no more desirable than living on a railroad track. A suburban resident wants to live convenient to a railroad and convenient to a modern highway but not so close to either as to be exposed to its dirt and noise and its danger to children and pets.

"It's the motoring public that wants the wider pavements, the improved alignment on curves and the grade separations at the intersections of the busy routes. It's the motoring public that should pay for the required right of way."

Boy Shot Accidentally by His Brother Is Dead

Raymond Hamelitz, 16 years old, son of Frank Hamelitz, a farmer near Elgin, died yesterday of a bullet wound received Monday from a .22 rifle in the hands of his brother, Francis, 14 years old. Raymond was pinning targets on the side of the barn for Francis to shoot at when a bullet went wild.

Auto Show Notes

Today and tomorrow are the last days of the 31st national automobile show. The hours are 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. The place is the Coliseum. It is the opportunity to see under one roof the 1931 offerings of forty motor car manufacturers.

As the show draws to a close, sales are being maintained at the pace set during the opening days. More cars are being sold than during the 1930 show. The public is buying, and automobile executives consider this an indication of a general business revival.

The competition in merchandising motor cars this year seems to be centering on rival transmission improvements. There are free wheeling, synchro-mesh, dual high, multi-range, and silent second to attract buyers. The improvements are all designed to give quiet, prompt, and easy performance in modern rapid and fast accelerating traffic.

Herbert H. Rice, treasurer of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, told the Exchange club at a luncheon in the Hotel Pearson yesterday that road developments in South America, Rusia, India, Africa, China, and Japan will offer tremendous markets for American motor cars in the future.

Chicago's first showing of Ford's new commercial car and truck body types will open in the 131st armory on Monday morning and continue through the week.

At the special show of the Chrysler line in the Congress hotel the management reports that the increase in sales is even greater than the increase in attendance this year as compared with last year.

Chevrolet, encouraged by an increase in sales during the last few weeks, is stepping up production in its plants. W. S. Knudsen, president of the company, is planning to produce a million cars in 1931.

NET OF EVIDENCE WOVEN ABOUT ST. PAUL BROKER

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A net of circumstantial evidence was woven around James A. Connolly, St. Paul, Minn., broker, today as the government continued its effort in federal court to convict him of misusing the mails in the sale of negotiable bonds taken in middle west bank robberies.

Cashiers of robbed banks were followed on the stand by brokers of all parts of the country as prosecutors traced the hundreds of stolen bonds from Connolly. It was brought out that the St. Paul man refused at all times to repurchase bonds after he had sold them to purchasers who learned after the transaction they were stolen.

In several cases, it was testified, demands were made upon him to reveal from whom he obtained the bonds and in each case he refused.

AUTO EXECUTIVE TELLS BENEFITS OF WIDER ROADS

Cites Chicago Area as an Example.

BY HAL FOUST.

L. A. Miller, president of Willys-Overland, after a company banquet last night in the Palmer house, told a group of his dealers and salesmen they must give active support to the promotion of street and highway improvements so that the automobile will remain a vehicle of convenient, rapid, and pleasant transportation for business and recreation.

"The motor car you sell," he said, "is worth no more than the buyer's opportunity to use it. If there were no pavements in this country, you would not be able to sell a single car.

"Here's a concrete example of what I mean. The radial highways around Chicago for several years were blocked with traffic every Sunday and holiday. It was difficult for an automobile salesman to present a prospect with an attractive picture of taking the family for a motor holiday in the country.

Radial Highways Widened.

"The Chicago Tribune, through its editorial columns, conducted a vigorous campaign for the widening of these pavements. Last year the Illinois highway department broadened those radial roads so they will accommodate four lanes of traffic.

"The Tribune fought this battle in behalf of its readers, the motoring public. But you automobile salesmen can now take advantage of these road improvements in selling cars. The wider roads have made a motor car of more value to a Chicago owner."

Paul Hoffman, vice president of Studebaker is another motor car manufacturer attending the national automobile show at the Coliseum this week who is an active advocate of improved traffic facilities.

"After all," he commented, "we're selling transportation to the public, and not statuary."

The advertising council of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday heard George M. Graham, vice president of Willys-Overland, declare that the advertising profession is the main arm of the automobile industry and that advertising is playing an important rôle in the revival of business.

Premier Bennett Leaves Ottawa for Washington

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Premier Bennett entrained for Washington at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. The United States minister to Canada, Col. Hanford MacNider, boarded the same train for the United States capital. Premier Bennett was also accompanied by W. D. Herridge of Ottawa.

LYNCH N. DAKOTA SLAYER OF SIX IN SAME FAMILY

Schafer, N. D., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The governor of North Dakota moved tonight for summary action against members of a mob from his home county who had snatched a confessed slayer of six persons from the McKenzie county jail and hanged him nearby.

Gov. George Shafer, who spent his boyhood in isolated McKenzie county, sent three state officials to Schafer and lashed out at the lynching of Charles Bannon, 22, as a "shameful act."

The mob gathered at the jail about 1 a. m. and crashed its way into the slayer's cell. When the mob dispersed the body of Charles Bannon, youthful slayer of the A. E. Haven family, was left hanging from a bridge.

Young Bannon died pleading that his father, James F. Bannon, also held for the killings, be not harmed. The youth, in his confession, had declared that he alone was responsible for the Haven family massacre.

BAKERS CONFESS ALL USE FINGERS ON CAKE DOUGH!

But How Else Can They Do It?

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

"If you want to make a really fine cake, don't be afraid to use your hands. That tip was given yesterday by retail bakers, members of the Associated Bakers of America, meeting in the Hotel Sherman.

All of the bakers interviewed on the subject blushed, stuttered, and then admitted all—yes, they did use their fingers in making cake dough, or bread dough, for that matter.

"But they are clean," they expostulated. "If we wash our hands once a day we wash them a hundred times. And how else are you going to get light, perfect dough?"

Sensitive to Heavy Dough.

A good baker keeps his hands as soft and white as a woman's. They are sensitive to any heaviness in dough. They can tell at a touch whether the consistency is what it should be, whether, when done, the cake dough will be a golden brown, fluffy product, irresistible to all.

C. E. Riley, a demonstrator for a yeast company, whose job it is to visit bakers and tell them offhand any recipes that are unknown to them, supplied the following recipes:

Date Torte.

7 oz. brown sugar.
7 oz. butter and shortening, half and half.
5½ oz. quick oats.
4 oz. bread flour.

Cream shortening and sugar together, and add flour and oatmeal. Rub it with tips of fingers as you do to make pie dough, with a light touch. After it is mixed, take half of the mixture and pat down in a pan. Spread filling on. Then sprinkle the remainder of the mixture over the top and bake in a moderate oven until brown. The filling:

Stir and cook until it is a thick butter. If you are serving a good sized family, or guests, double the recipe.

Pecan Cookies.

1½ lbs. icing sugar.
¾ lb. butter and shortening, half and half.
3 eggs.
1 spoonful vanilla flavoring.
¾ teaspoon salt.
½ pint milk.
1½ lb. cake flour.
¾ oz. baking powder.

Cream shortening and sugar, add beaten eggs, one at a time. Add milk, add flour and baking powder mixed, and vanilla. Drop out half a spoonful at a time on lightly greased pans, and sprinkle thickly with chopped pecans. Bake in a moderate oven until golden brown.

Ice Box Cookies.

1 lb. butter and shortening mixed, half and half
1¾ lbs. cake flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt

Cream sugar, shortening, salt, and vanilla well. Sift flour and mix well with shortening. Take ¼ part of the dough and color chocolate by adding 2 oz. bitter chocolate, melted.

Take one small piece of the white dough, one of chocolate, and mix lightly and roll up in a strip 1½ inches in diameter. Freeze, and when frozen slice thin. Bake in a slow oven.

Chocolate Brownies.

1½ lbs. icing sugar
½ lb. butter and shortening, half and half
½ lb. pecan pieces
15 oz. cake flour
4 oz. cocoa
3 eggs
½ oz. baking powder

Cream sugar and shortening together well, adding eggs two at a time and beating. Add flour, baking powder and cocoa sifted together and lastly add nut meats. Spread the mixture about one inch thick on greased and papered pan. Bake in a cool oven.

REFRIGERATOR CARS A BOON TO CHICAGO

7 of Every 10 Unload Foodstuff Here.

BY E. B. SWINGLE.

Seven in every ten carloads of food commodities arriving in Chicago are unloaded here for local consumption. With a total arrival of around an eighth of a million cars in a year, Chicago realizes a direct benefit from a railroad refrigerator system that has been developed in the last 45 years.

Latest reports indicate that the United States has about 175,000 modern refrigerator cars rolling along tracks, according to Horace M. Wingey, New York representative of a builder of many of these cars.

First Tried in 1857.

The first attempt to cool a carload of food while en route to market was with a consignment of meat sent from Chicago to New York in 1857, he has found. The experiment was not regarded as highly important because no records were kept of what condition the meat was in when it arrived in the east.

He finds the car used was an ordinary box car with no insulating material in walls, roof, or floor. A small shelf or platform was built in each end and 1,500 pounds of ice were placed at front and rear of the car. Evidently no special future was found in this project, for it was about 10 years later before another similar experiment was recorded.

A Success in 1885.

It was not very successful, Mr. Wingey reports. Four cylindrical tanks, one in each corner, were filled with brine. That part of the shipment near the ends of the car was frozen en route, while the food in the center of the car was found to be overheated when it was opened on arrival.

The year 1885 is considered the first appearance of a refrigerator car that fulfilled the purpose of the industry of distribution. The design approached the present standard ice refrigerator car. Nearly 1,000 were built in 1885 and the perishable fruits and vegetables began moving to market in a new-found 12-months industry.

"Large cold storage warehouses were erected, ice manufacturing plants were built throughout the country, railroad terminal facilities were highly improved, motor trucks came into operation—all of which have contributed to a well rounded program of perishable food distribution," comments Mr. Wingey.

175,000 Cars Used Now.

"We find ourselves confronted with the huge task of growing, transporting, preserving, distributing, and consuming over a million carloads of fresh fruits and vegetables annually, which now requires a fleet of nearly 175,000 refrigerator cars."

He indicates an ever widening horizon for the railroads in supplying foods in fresh condition at all times of the year. Some of the commodities he believes the nation will be enjoying more than ever through improved refrigerating methods and transportation systems are frozen raspberries, strawberries, cherries, peaches, and blueberries, frozen fish, fresh apples, apricots, cantaloupes, cherries, oranges, peaches, pears, plums and prunes; fresh cauliflower, lettuce, and celery; fresh beef, dressed lambs, dressed hogs, fresh pork loins, and packing house products; fresh eggs, fresh butter, cheese, and frozen eggs.

Chicago Nutritionists Tell You How.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

An innovation in budgets is the food budget prepared by several nutritionists in the Chicago area. According to their statistics, a week's supply for a family of five (two adults and three children of 6, 8, and 10 years) can be purchased at the market prices of today for $8.75.

With many families living on a limited income this winter the amount that can be spent for food has been restricted. With this in mind the dietitians have made every effort to prepare a list containing a combination of the most nutritious and economical foods available.

Foods Listed in Budget.

Foods which are listed in the budget are cereals, milk, vegetables and fruits, fats and oils, sugars, meats, cheese, and eggs.

Milk is rated as the most important of the protective foods because it furnishes more than one-half of the entire day's needs in protein, minerals, and vitamins. Considering its value in nourishment, it is the most economical single food to be had. Twenty-five quarts of milk, costing $3.10, have been allotted to the family for the week.

Cereals, including white, graham, whole wheat, and rye bread, and oatmeal, cornmeal, and rice, amount to $1.06.

Cheap Vegetables.

Under the heading of the nourishing vegetables that can be purchased at low cost are Irish potatoes, onions, tomatoes, spinach, cabbage, carrots, turnips, green peppers, parsley, and lettuce. Apricots, lemons, prunes, raisins, oranges, apples, grapefruit, and bananas make up the list of fruits. The cost of the provisions of fruits and vegetables for the week is $1.65.

Fats and oils, such as butter, lard, oil, peanut butter, and bacon, total 49 cents weekly. Sugars, including granulated sugar and molasses, cost 44 cents. One dollar and sixty-four cents covers the allotted amount of eggs, cheese, meat, and beans. Veal, liver, kidney, herring, and salmon come under the heading of meats.

Classed with the miscellaneous foods are coffee, chocolate, cocoa, and spices, which cost 37 cents for the week.

Daily Requirements.

An outline of the daily food requirements for each individual on the special budget plan has been made up by the nutritionists. It is as follows: One quart of milk for each child, and one pint for each adult; at least two servings of vegetables [other than potato], one preferably raw as in salad; two servings of fruit, one of which should be a citrus fruit or tomato, at least one portion of grain cereal such as breakfast cereal or bread; one serving of protein food such as cheese, egg, fish, meat, fowl or additional milk, and to add sufficient calories such additional foods as butter, potatoes, desserts, and more breads.

A display of the foods included in the above low cost diet was shown recently by one of the public service offices of the city. A practical demonstration of recipes using the ingredients in the budget was also given at the same time. Should the demand prove great enough similar exhibitions will be held throughout the country.

ADD HEALTH TO HOT BREADS

How breads are tempting. But often they lack roughage. The absence of bulk from foods often results in constipation.

But now you can have hot breads with roughage. Simply add a cupful of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to the recipe. This delicious cereal furnishes the bulk needed to assure proper elimination. You will find many appetizing recipes on the red-and-green ALL-BRAN package.

Equally tempting as a ready-to-eat cereal with milk or cream. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, use with each meal.

ALL-BRAN also furnishes needed iron for the body. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CLIMALENE

The Water-Softening Cleanser

A NEW, no-fade way in washing fine things has been found.

A way where you use even ordinary laundry soaps and yet hold the most delicate color fast; the most filmy of material safe from wash tub or washing machine wear.

Laboratory Proved

To prove these points, we wash fine things all day long. French lingerie, for instance, we wash 40 to 50 times with this preparation and strong soap or washing flakes. Even the most delicate colors do not fade.

We pay $5 for fine stockings of light tint color. Then TRY to fade them with repeated washings. And only after we've failed in fading them does this amazing preparation go to you.

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene. A scientific discovery that acts in two ways.

It takes the harshness out of so-called "hard" water; the hardness that makes extra rubbing and the superfluous use of strong soap necessary to get things white and clean.

It turns that harsh "hard" water INSTANTLY into water so soft that it does the work with ONE-FOURTH the amount of soap you now use.

Then, due to bland cleansing qualities in itself, Climalene DISSOLVES all dirt and grime. And thus again cuts the amount of soap you use. And cuts washing time—either on board or in washing machine—50% or more. Consider what that means in saving wear and spoil.

You just add two tablespoons to a tub of water. That is all. Use any kind of soap or soap flakes—the same soap you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it in 10c and 25c packages.

SECRET OF LONG LIFE REVEALED! FOOD! THAT'S IT

'I Allus Eat What I Like,' Says Centenarian.

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.

Far be it the intent here to fling, or hurl the frailest aspersion on old age, or any age for that matter, but what must be told ought to be told.

According to calendrical computations, there still are seven days to every week, 30 or so days to every month, and generally 365 days to every year—but the years don't mean what they used to. They don't. It's quite the thing nowadays to see youngsters of 70 summers swagger briskly down the boulevard as if they had discovered the mystic secret so long sought by Ponce de Leon. And quite different from other generations who wearied patriarchs, doddered weakly in the neighborhood of 45 or 50 years, began seeking fitting tombstones.

Modern Youth a Misnomer.

Modern youth really is a misnomer when applied to the alleged younger generation. It's a nomenclatorial shoe fitting the foot of the older generation which finally has discovered that 30 or 40 years no longer mean a full and completed life, and that "thar's gold in them hills" beyond the bibical allotment of three score and ten. It's a fact that the individual of 70 or 80 no more elicits expressions of fond amazement that he has dragged himself so far across the bogs and mire of human existence. When he reaches 90 or thereabouts, he then, perhaps, attracts a mite of attention, and when he curves around the century mark he gets his picture in the paper.

Really, there's no especial trick to living so long—that is, if one escapes automobiles and public executioners, the latter of which, incidentally, is a negligible factor in Chicago.

Reasons for Growing Old.

We don't breathe such a thought as a modern Methuselah. There's more of a reason for growing old than simply that of living long enough—to hear him say. In fact, there are hundreds of reasons, among them total abstinence from tobacco and generous use of the weed; marriage and single blessedness; life on the farm and life in the city; lots of work and little work, and—food. Food—that's what must be considered when studying the fact that John Wanamaker or Jim Whatzat has achieved the misty and gilded pinnacle of 100 years.

"To what," was asked of one centenarian, "do you attribute your marvelous and astonishing longevity?"

"To the fact," he replied, "that I ate of what I liked, when I liked, and where I liked. For breakfast I've a mango and buckwheat cakes, fried potatoes, cereal, eggs, and coffee. For noon I allus et a heavy piece of roast beef, some browned potatoes, gravy, bread and butter, apple pie and coffee. In the evening I generally had a steak, French fried spuds, soup, cabbage, pickles, relishes, yams, cake, fruit, and coffee."

Lays It All to Moderation.

Then there was another youngster who rose to distinction because tomorrow "he'd be 100 years old." To what degree, he was asked, did food contribute to his astonishing and marvelous longevity?

"Moderation's the word," he responded. "Never ate too much, never ate too little, but just enough—no more, no less, just enough.

"In the morning I'd never take too much. A little toast, maybe, and some milk. For dinner, p'rhaps a bowl of soup, some corn, and maybe some chicken or mutton pie. At night I'd most likely have a snack o' meat—never fried—a tiny bit of butter, some bread, a vegetable and some milk. Moderation my boy, moderation."

Abstains from Coffee.

Another time there was the infant of 101 years who also was queried as to the aid of food in his astonishing and marvelous longevity.

"By never drinking coffee," he answered sharply.

Not long afterward another citizen of distinction by virtue of his enduring pace with time swore by all that was healthful and holy that coffee, and nothing else but, had carried him across the ten decades which he now boasted.

The faddist who attributed his astonishing and marvelous longevity to a vegetarian diet must not be neglected. Nor the white haired, windy individual who fed chiefly on meat—or everything, as he said, from humming birds' wings to bear meat. "And I'm chock-full o' vitality," he bragged.

Minds His Own Business.

And finally there was the grumpy old frost who looked like louring Mr. Creakle, and whom the years, though they had withered, had not softened.

"To what," he was questioned, "do you attribute your astonishing and marvelous longevity?"

"To minding my own business," he retorted.

"Ah, yes, but there must have been other things, too," was urged.

His frostiness thawed a wee bit.

"Well, I never smoked, if that's what you mean. I never drank, and I never gambled."

"Anything else?" he was asked.

The answers had to be drawn from him, and they were given grudgingly, like bad teeth being yanked by the muscular effort of a dentist.

"I suppose so," he replied miserly.

"Now food," began the next interrogation, "food must have contributed somewhat to your astonishing and marvelous longevity."

The interviewee paused a moment, pondered thoughtfully, weighed the question carefully in his mind, and then beamed triumphantly over the following rare smatter of philosophy which no doubt was the nurtured fruit of the wisdom of his years:

"I shouldn't be surprised if it did—somewhat!"

Good Cold Water Saves Book Fan from Barman's Manual

BY FRED PASLEY.

Thumbing the pages of an exquisitely bound octavo volume in the book section of a loop department store this week, I became immured in cogitation upon the frailty of the flesh, being impelled to the conclusion that the baser passions of thirst and hunger inevitably triumph over men's spiritual or better nature.

For more than ten years now, I reflected, the civilizing influences of temperance have been abroad in the land, graven upon the tablets of congressional statutes, yet here was I in the sanctuary of belles lettres, in the Bodleian font, as it were, to which lawabiding citizens repair for intellectual inspiration, holding in my hand "The Bartender's Guide, or the Scientific Manual of Drink Mixing, Both Plain and Fancy."

Confirms Worst Fears.

I was loath to accept the evidence of my senses, but cursory examination readily confirmed my worst fears. As I progressed through the heinous recital I was amazed at the effrontery of the author in revealing without a qualm, apparently, the most intimate details of his relationships with cocktails, fizzes, rickeys, old-fashioned sours, mint julep, high balls, champagne floats, absinthe frappes, brain dusters, ticklers, and other morning after pick-me-up devices.

He devotes a chapter to Punch, declaring the subject of such importance "that it may be placed first on the list of dainty beverages." Only the best ingredients must be used. "By madeira," he writes, "is meant 'Rare Old East Indian,' and not marsala. There must be no inferior sherry, Gladstone claret, cheap champagne, or potato brandy." He then describes the best milk punch known to him:

Read It and Sigh.

"Over the yellow rind of four lemons and one Seville orange pour one pint of rum. Let it stand, covered over, for twelve hours. Strain and mix in two pints more of rum, one pint of brandy, one pint of sherry, half a pint of lemon juice, the expressed juice of a peeled pineapple, one pint of green tea, one pound of sugar dissolved in one quart of boiling water, the whites of two eggs beaten up, one quart of boiling milk. Mix well, let it cool, and then strain through a jelly bag and bottle off."

After asking, "What is a Peg?" and then explaining that a peg, at least in India, signifies a whisky and soda, since the visit there of H. R. H., the prince of Wales, he arrives at the Ascot Cup, which, as it name implies, is to be served only when entertaining at race meetings. The recipe:

Here It Is Horsemen.

"Dissolve six ounces of sugar in half a pint of boiling water, add the juice of three lemons, one pint of old brandy, a wineglassful of cherry brandy, a wineglassful of maraschino, half a wineglassful of yellow chartreuse, two bottles of champagne. All these should be mixed in a large silver bowl. Add a few sprigs of borage, a few slices of lemon, half a dozen strawberries, half a dozen brandied cherries, and three bottles of seltzer water. Put the bowl, having first covered it over, into the refrigerator for one hour before serving."

Without more ado, he then puts the questions: "How many people, I wonder, are aware that champagne and Guinness' Stout make one of the best combinations possible? You may search the wide world for a cookery book that will give the information; but the mixture is both grateful and strengthening."

Further on, under the heading, "Tiger's Milk," I encountered: "Half a wineglassful of hard cider and Irish whisky, a wineglassful of peach brandy——"

"May I serve you?" interrupted a girlish brunette, seemingly popping up from nowhere.

"No," I replied crisply, and hastily strode away.

Cold Water Relieves.

With what feelings of relief I arrived at THE TRIBUNE office to refresh myself and lave my conscience at the automatic drinking fountain may be better imagined than described. As the pellucid jet d'eau gushed forth at my touch from the orifice in the marble basin and the cooling draught purled down my throat there rang in my ears the words of John B. Gough:

"Pure now as when it left its native heaven, giving vigor to our youth, strength to our manhood, and solace to our old age . . . In the moonlight fountains and the sunny rills, in the warbling brook and the giant river, in the deep tangled wildwood and the cataract's spray—cold water is beautiful everywhere."

Partaking of another swallow, I sat down at my typewriter to perform my appointed task with renewed determination and the certain knowledge that right makes might and truth crushed to earth will rise again.

MILK AND BUTTER MOST RELIABLE OF HUMAN FOODS

Humble Dairy Cow Proves Hard Times Blessing.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Ever since those simple faring, nomadic days of biblical times dairy products seem to have had their place in the family diet, no matter how frugal or sumptuous might be the menu.

This rather plain comment might have been passed up were it not for the fact that hundreds of experts, federal and otherwise, have been finding its truth so forcible in preparing low cost budgets for the food supplies of the Red Cross in destitute southern areas and by the budgeteers of community chests and other charitable enterprises the nation over during the present winter.

The United States department of agriculture coöperating with various bureaus of home economics and with federal drought relief agencies, has recently completed studies of the cheapest, most nourishing meals. And they are insisting upon from 23 to 28 quarts of the old reliable cow's milk in every week's budget for a family of five.

Trace Disease to Lack of It.

One of these investigators, while in Chicago, heartened dairymen by making the declaration that surveys of rural areas short of foodstuffs almost without exception found pellagra, a disease induced by deficient diets, existing in families without a cow or access to milk and butter. Even in families with a cow the reported cases of ailments from inadequate diet, when traced, disclosed the individuals to be nonmilk drinkers.

In the current files of the National Dairy council in Chicago a score of food budgets are being assembled from city charity agencies, where the pencils are being sharpened to make food funds do their utmost, and each discloses the need for dairy products and fruits and vegetables as the "protective necessities," as measured by modern science.

That so many families in Chicagoland have not realized the true economy of milk products in these times of frugality was indicated also by officials of the Pure Milk association here. They advance the claim that the rigid standards being met by dairymen supplying Chicago's milk now serve to insure the consumer of one of the cheapest foods he can buy, food value considered.

Visits Dairy Herd.

These conditions were emphasized in the writer's mind last week in a random visit about the county of Cook. Just outside the city of Harvey he came across the Glenwood School for Boys. Here flourishes an outstanding herd of dairy cows with a record that is tinged with romance.

W. A. Michael, now superintendent of the school, was for many years its herdsman. When he came to the institution he found a dingy barn containing a few cows being given little better care than many farmers might tender their hogs. He interested the boys, who come from city and town, through court rulings or because of minor deficiencies, in cleaning up the barn. They started to record what each cow produced, what she ate, and whether she was a "boarder" or worth her keep.

The lads in their eagerness were given turns about in doing the chores and they learned the essentials of balancing diets in a practical fashion. Soon the herd showed changes, much for the better. Then one day the school's directors voted a new barn for the cows and later the milk was bottled in the milk plant, to the educational advantage of the boys.

Learn to Love Milk.

"Today we have 207 boys and they are drinking 310 quarts of milk every day," proudly declared Mr. Michael.

"Only three of the lot failed on their allotment, these fellows selling a pint to some other to get candy money. Each one took to milk like a lost brother, because the boys loved the cows and had learned the interesting things about dairying."

Through coöperation with the University of Chicago, a group of home economics students helped to weigh every boy, his food, and to help the school's cooks and dietitian in perfecting a practical, wholesome, yet economical eating service. And the boys show it.

But here is the novel part of the whole institution's food program. They are charging the dairy herd's output at the city wholesale price, thus making it a profitable undertaking, and at the same time supply a fully adequate diet for the boys at 32 cents each per day. When many state and county institutions find it necessary to allot as high as $1 per day, and give less of fruits, vegetables, and dairy products, Mr. Michael maintains he has pleased his youngsters, his board of management, and himself as well.

It looks as though the humble dairy cow was still proving her worth as the source of an inexpensive, flavorful, and nourishing line of food products—milk, butter, cheese, and ice cream.

LETTUCE SEASON IS ALWAYS HERE FOR CHICAGOANS

It can no longer be said that lettuce in any month of the year is "out of season" in Chicago, whether nearby truck gardening fields are producing or whether they lie dormant under a blanket of snow.

The states of California and Arizona see to it that large northern consuming centers keep well supplied. The first named state is first in production, while Arizona produces more head lettuce than any other state in the union excepting California.

Two crops reward the industrious Arizona lettuce grower. The Salt river valley territory and Uma and Pinal counties in that state annually see a lettuce crop maturing and being harvested in November and December and followed by another in March and April.

CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE STILL FAVORITE

Blends Appetizing Flavor and Aroma.

BY META GIVEN.

Chefs, the most famous of them, still serve corned beef and cabbage, and in the best of hotels, restaurants, and dining cars it is eaten by choice. Corned beef and cabbage combines two attractive colors, two appetizing flavors and aromas that blend perfectly, and two interesting textures [if the meat and vegetable are properly cooked] which appeal to the most of us.

But the consumption of corned beef and cabbage has never reached its peak. Because many people find that cabbage is indigestible they never choose it. In most instances the cabbage is cooked until the color is faded, the texture is destroyed, and the pleasing delicate aroma is exchanged for a strong, disagreeable one. The trouble is that the method of cooking used does not preserve all of the fine qualities of the cabbage.

Easily Obtained.

Corned beef of good quality may be found at any butcher-shop. It is a product quite uniform in quality. This formerly was not true when every butcher corned his own beef. At the present time much of our beef is corned by the packers. The principle of corning, however, remains about the same.

Corned beef is made from plates, rumps, and briskets of beeves. The membranes on the inside of the plate and flanks as well as the gristle are trimmed off. The meat is first soaked in fresh cold water to which salt is added to draw out any blood which would otherwise get into the curing brine.

Then the meat is transferred to a pickling brine which consists of sugar, salt, and saltpeter dissolved in water. Sometimes garlic is put in, but this is done only on special request. The meat remains in the pickling brine for two or three weeks to cure, the time depending upon the size of the pieces of meat. This pickling or corning process develops a fine red color and the typical corned beef flavor.

Method of Cooking.

To my mind the upper end of the briskets is one of the choicest pieces of corned beef. It has a good proportion of lean and fat. The best way to cook corned beef, I think, is to put it into cold water, bring it gradually to the boil and boil rather vigorously for about ten minutes. At the end of this time remove all scum that has collected, then lower the flame so that the meat may simmer, cooking slowly until meat is tender. If the meat is of good quality it should cook in about two hours. The slow cooking not only breaks down, but also softens the connective tissue. And softened meat gives freer access to the digestive fluids.

Add cabbage to the pot of corned beef about twenty minutes before serving time. Cut a small, well cleaned head of cabbage into eighths and after it is added leave the lid off. This is against precedent, I know, but the reason so many people "taste" a boiled dinner is that the cabbage has been overcooked and has become hard to digest. Try it this way and see. The cabbage will have a fine green color if green cabbage is used, a beautiful white if the white Danish variety is used, and it will not cause indigestion. It won't hurt to try anything once, you know.

STRAINED HONEY! WHAT COULD BE SWEETER?

But You Should Thank the Bee for It.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Say what you will, there is nothing new under the sun; only variations on old themes.

A few thousand years ago beside a starlit fountain—its lilies luminous with pale moon magic, petals from the blossoming branches overhead falling like fragrant drippings of liquid light—feminine hearts, a number of them, fluttered to the refrain sung by a famed singer of sweet songs, "Thy lips, O, my spouse, drop as the honeycomb; honey and milk are under thy tongue and the smell of thy garments is like the smell of Lebanon."

Many Illinois Apiarists.

The melody syncopated on the banjo or the ukulele, and your modern youth who would a-wooing go in manner musical lurches forth on his litany, "You're the cream in my coffee," and,

"That busy buzzin' bee
Up in the apple tree
Don't make no sweeter honey than you."

But honey that flowed in the land of promise is as the honey stored away in an Illinois farmers' apiary, and nothing more pleasant than their first sweetening have men found with which to compare their inspirations for high ecstasies.

Reveal Secrets of Hives.

Modern scientific developments, beginning with the microscope in the seventeenth century, have unlocked age-old secrets of the hive that challenged the imagination of the ancients—Aristotle, Pliny, and Cato, Aristomachus, whose study of the bee extended over 58 years, and Phyliscus, whose writings are lost.

A centrifugal machine which extracts nectar from the comb has placed pint and quart jars and gallon and five gallon tins of strained honey on a shelf in the world's cupboard. We might pause to observe that, also from thence in days of wistful memory, Uncle Sam, like his Anglo-Saxon cousin, was not averse to lifting down a keg of sparkling mead to slake his thirst.

A Source of Energy.

The housewife who is well versed in the various phases of her art will tell you that domestic honey, thanks to our pure food laws, is among the not too many thoroughly honest, unadulterated products on the market; that it is free from the qualities producing numerous physical ills which lurked in the first cargo of sugar cane shipped from the South sea islands; that, like other carbohydrate foods, it is a source of energy; that it may be safely substituted for sugar on a recipe for each cup of honey used a corresponding cup of liquid ingredient, water or milk, is reduced by one-fourth, and also that cookies, cakes, and confections made with honey "stay fresh."

Apiarist and naturalist will tell you that honey producing has become a major food industry in the United States; that the seasonal yield from a prosperous hive averages between 30 and 60 pounds; that the flavor, aroma and color of honey is influenced by the blossoms supplying the bee; and they may add that an orchard teems with fruit or is barren in proportion to the number of blossoms touched by bees carrying the fructifying pollen.

THEIR SPELLING MAY HAVE BEEN BAD, BUT THEIR COOKING—AH!

Southern cooks of colonial times may have used what today appears as queer spelling, but memories of the meals they served to bewigged gentlemen of the times continue to dominate portions of the modern American menu.

Recently a relic explorer thumbed the pages of a colonial cook book and found a recipe for "Frickasie a la Grandmother" with the following wording:

"Take ye fowls, cut them in pieces and clean them. Season with pepper and salt, a little mace, nutmeg, cloves, some parsley, a little bit of onion.

"Let them lay two hours, then flour them well, fry in sweet butter hott before you put them in. Fry fine brown. Wash ye pan and put them in again with a pint of gravy. Let them symmer in ye gravy. Take the yolks of three eggs with a little grated nutmeg and a little juice of lemon, and two spoonfuls of wine. Shake it over the fire until it is as thick as cream, pour over ye frickasie, and so serve it to ye table hott."

MILK CALLED BEST DENTIST OF THEM ALL

The importance of correct diet for the preservation of the teeth is pointed out in a pamphlet being distributed by the Chicago Dental society to its members. The purpose of the pamphlet is to interest parents in preserving the teeth in growing children.

During the prenatal period, milk, the most important calcium food, should be used by the mother in some form on the average of a quart each day the pamphlet advises. Vegetables, cereals, butter, cheese, and eggs also necessary.

"The expectant mother who does not drink sufficient milk which will furnish the child with the required calcium must pay with a supply from her own teeth, with the result that they may become defective," the pamphlet says.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 30, 1931.  17

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Lorrabee, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frameup by Gray, neighboring rancher and banker. Everything he owned, except the home ranch, was mortgaged. Dix, an orphan, keeps from his grandmother and his young brother, Chuck, the true state of affairs. Gram has her heart set on seeing Chuck a doctor. Chuck has artistic tastes and his indulgent older brother has a hard task paying for his college and social material demands.

Mike McGuire tempts Dix with the idea of changing the brand of the cattle from O-T to P ranch to a coffeepot, symbol of Dix's own.

Slim, an Indian helper, discovers a lost valley with a geyser on the Coffeepot ranch. His discovery leads to it, through what seems to be a blank cliff wall. It is an ideal range for cattle.

With rustling misgivings Dix begins rustling from Gray's herd, hiding the stolen cattle in the Lost Valley. A blizzard obliterates all traces of the crime. Another foray was made on a night just before a rainstorm.

INSTALLMENT XI.

NIGHT RIDING.

"This has got to settle it, boys," Dix soberly declared when the rebranding was done to his satisfaction and a new lot of Coffeepots went twitching their smarting hides across Lost valley to make a tour of investigation before they settled down to accept their new home. "We mustn't crowd our luck too far. We got away with it so far, and I'm willing to let it go at that. Give me five years, and I can get back off this bunch every dime I owe on Owen's oil well. We can't take any chance on any more."

"The hell we can't!" Mart muttered to Tom who stood beside him watching on as Dix rode to the crevice. "Wonder if Dix ever stopped to think it didn't take Owen five years to rob him of all he had."

"You betcha my life!" Tom made hearty agreement. "Lots mo' room to this place. Lots mo' O T's walk eroun', walk eroun,' no place to go."

"Damn right. An' jest take a look at all this valley. Come June, there'll be grass goin' to waste, with what cattle there is here to eat it. An' yuh got to remember this: The O T outfit couldn't find a thousand cattle in two lifetimes quicker than they could find a hundred."

"Damn so. You betcha my life." Then old Tom scanned the sky and added slowly. "Bimeby mo' rain. Mebbyso nex' week."

So, like the wolves that came forth at night to run the hills, these two would raise a silent hunting call and ride the range before a storm, while the world lay asleep in his bed. Times when he found the two heavy-eyed from the saddle he would go after Mart, but with meager results. That poker-faced old cowpuncher never admitted anything.

"I tell you right now, Mart, you and Tom have got to cut out this night riding."

"Looka here, Mart, you darn chumps will bring the O T onto us like a flock of bricks if you don't quit it," he gave blunt warning and rebuke, one gloaming dawn when he went early to the stable and caught Mart in a little red hot stall rubbing his thin flanked roping horse with a folded gunny sack. "No need to deny it—you've been helling around on the range again!"

"Who, me?" Mart straightened to give his boss a look of deep reproach. "Now where you get that idee, Dix. If it's agin the law to groom a horse——"

"That's all right, but you can't make a monkey outa me. Clancy hasn't been over here twice in the last three weeks, squintin' at our stock without me did I see any mysterious riders on this side of the range. Every time he either pulled a fast one or else he's dumber than he looks. He came out and told me confidential that they'd tracked two riders and a big bunch of cattle over this way as far as the shale ridge, and lost the trail there. They plumb lost all trace about three miles the other side of the ridge. Next time I wouldn't put it past 'em to come with the sheriff and a search warrant."

"Well——" Mart spat reflectively into the straw bedding. "you can't take no life insurance till after a doctor's went over yuh with a fine tooth comb hunting fer some disease. I dunno but what a search warrant would be the best thing in the world for yuh, Dix. Time they combed the ranch fer stolen stock they'd have to admit they was all wrong and had made a big mistake to ever suspicion yuh in the first place." He spat again. "No, sir, you needn't worry about no search warrant Clancy Brown or Owen Gray c'n figger out."

"I never said I was worrying," Dix retorted. "But I tell you right now, Mart, you and Tom have got to cut out this night riding."

"There we would, if we'd ever been doin' it, Dix."

"Aw, go to thunder!" Dix growled exasperatedly, and left him. When Mart assumed that look of dumb innocence all arguments or expostulations were useless.

But, like affectionate pups whose ill-timed retrieving of old shoes and sox is source of embarrassment to the master who has taught them the trick, Mart and old Tom persisted in slipping away from the ranch on certain nights which old Tom pronounced favorable to their peculiar activities.

Sometimes a lone cow trotted into Whistling creek basin and eventually into Lost valley, following her complaining calf which would be roped to old Tom's saddle, its muzzled jaws slavering upon his overalls which Minny would have to wash. Now and then there would be a harvest of several animals assorted sizes, which would become perfectly convincing Coffeepots before many weeks passed.

Dix argued and stormed and swore vengeance if they didn't quit it; but there was no stopping those two, once they discovered how perfectly a certain long, rocky gully lent itself to their purpose.

Over and over Mart pointed out to Dix that, even if they were discovered on the range the spying riders would have to be right at their horses' heels to find out where they went. And when Dix reminded Mart that the O T outfit couldn't help guessing who it was that always disappeared so mysteriously close to the Coffeepot ranch, Mart only laughed.

Dix carried a capacity load of worry through that spring and summer. And his heart felt as if it were located just behind his Adam's apple when he made his beef shipment in the fall. The check came—and it was big enough to worry him because of the added suspicion it might arouse. For a week he kept it pigeon-hoied in his desk, pretending that he was too busy to make a trip to town, when all the while he knew in his heart that he was simply afraid to show himself at the bank.

However, when he did bring himself to the point of going, he walked up to the teller's window with a brisk step and his old whimsical smile, and leaned negligently against the gilded steel lattice gossiping for a minute or two with the assistant cashier after the deposit was entered in his pass book. He then remembered that he wanted a draft for twenty-five hundred and sent to Chuck. After that he paid the interest on his mortgage, and walked out and over to the one department store in town and bought a dress of green and an elaborate necklace of silvery looking wire links and red glass beads for Minny.

Having safely passed the first danger point, Dix relaxed a little and his nerves permitted him to sleep without those disquieting nightmares of being arrested and tried for cattle stealing.

By spring a definite rumor of mysterious rustling rose and persisted on the range, and a stock detective arrived in the country and rode round to the different ranches, asking questions and gleaning what information there was to be had. He came and spent a full day at the Coffeepot ranch, but, while he was friendly and carefully unsuspicious, he did not overlook anything on the ranch and Dix was glad that he had happened to corral half a dozen yearlings up at the weaning shed just the day before, under the impression that they might develop blackleg.

The stock inspector looked the animals over, gave his opinion for what it was worth, and went back down the pasture, never dreaming that he had stood within ten feet of the door to what he sought. He had a long and genial conversation with Mart and old Tom, but he did not learn anything that would be of the slightest use to him. He ate a fine dinner of fried chicken and new potatoes with green peas, and he rode back to Graypoint apparently convinced that here at least were honest men who kept a neat and prosperous looking ranch and attended strictly to their own business.

That fall Dix shipped two full carloads of beef from the Graypoint stockyards, his cars attached to a trainload of O T steers. There was no question about the honesty of his brands, and in due time he received the largest check he had ever indorsed in his life.

Good Morning!

"The Doorway to Hell" is another gangster movie, but it's far and away from being JUST another gangster movie. Of its kind, it is class!

The story's locale is Chicago and, in a way, there's nothing new about its revelations of organized crime. It sings, cruelly and plausibly, of life in the metropolitan jungle, where dog eats dog and hunters and hunted keep up their perpetual, profitless, rôle reversing scramble. Guns and men speak their pieces in taut and telling fashion and a baby faced beer baron—who wanted to quit the racket—finds that the only way out is a one way doorway—"the doorway to hell." Says the brief title at the end:

"The boy lit a cigar and walked through with a smile. They gave him the works and a swell funeral—and forgot all about him before the flowers on his grave wilted."

Uniformly excellent acting, poignant lines, and keenly intuitive direction make "The Doorway to Hell" the forceful melodrama that it is. The story is presented simply and strongly, with no padding.

Hard to imagine one so young as Louis Ricarno in such a spot as you find him, but Lewis Ayres, who did such great work as Paul in "All Quiet on the Western Front," makes the youth with the dogged chin, quick, sweet smile, disillusioned eyes, and brain that works at double quick time entirely believable.

Because of his love for his clean cut little brother at military school—under another name—and for his bride, all unworthy of devotion, Louis decides to give up racketeering. With his wife, at heart a hopeless hoodlum, he goes to Florida, where he tries to live "regular."

"I won't go back!" says Louis Ricarno, shoulders erect and the sunshine in his eyes.

But he does. To avenge the death of that little brother. . . .!

Smashingly effective are the contrasting pictures of the clean living, forward looking youngsters of the military school and the slinking, furtive eyed, futureless denizens of the jungle.

"The Doorway to Hell" is ironic, acutely humorous, terribly tragic, and, yes—romantic! For Louis makes his exit believing that his pal and his gal WERE—his pal and HIS gal.

Outstanding players are Robert Elliott as Detective O'Grady—he plays a detective better than anybody else in the world, I do believe!—Charles Judels as the pal, Dorothy Mathews as the girl, and Leon Janney as the little brother. The sweetest kid!

A scene that will stand out in your memory is the one where this conversation occurs between O'Grady and Louis:

O'Grady: "It won't do you any good to try and escape this time, Louis. Rocco and his gang are waiting outside in the street—with a handful of clouds."

Louis, after a quick peer out into the night: "I don't see any of them."

O'Grady: "You never will." And shortly after goes away from there.

Item: McVicker's theater is doing a land office business.

VERSES BY WIFE OF COL. LINDBERGH ARE SET TO MUSIC NOW

[Copyright: 1931: by the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 29.—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's poem, "Remembrance," has been set to music by an American composer, Maury Madison, who proposes to ask whether Mrs. Lindbergh will agree to hand over all rights and profits from the sale to the injured airmen's association, Les Ailes Brisées [the Broken Wings].

Mr. Madison has written a semi-classical melody for the poem and has had the words translated into French. Last week he offered it to Capt. Réné Chasle, president of Les Ailes Brisées, who, it is understood, is writing Mrs. Lindbergh to ask her permission to accept the gift.

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lindbergh wrote the poem, "Remembrance," while she was a student at Smith college.

No word, it was learned today, had been received either at Col. Lindbergh's office or at the Lindbergh home near Princeton, N. J., of the intention of the American composer, Maury Madison, nor had any letter asking for permission to sell the poem with music.

Poles of Sun May Be Colder, Einstein Hints

Views Solar Cyclones and Offers New Theory.

Mount Wilson Observatory, Cal., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Albert Einstein peeked at the gigantic cyclones in the sun's atmosphere today and gave astronomers a fascinating problem to work upon.

He suggested the sun might be relatively like the earth and its north and south poles perhaps considerably cooler regions than its equator.

In this brief thought he ventured a theory that gives promise, astronomers say, of solving some of the mysteries about the sun spots.

The visit of the great physicist to the world's greatest astronomical laboratory was the most momentous event of the Einstein visit in California. It was a small group that gathered in the monastery of the Carnegie institution of Washington's observatory station.

There were Dr. Walter S. Adams, director, and Dr. Edwin P. Hubble, two of the world's foremost astronomers; Dr. William Wallace Campbell and Dr. Charles E. St. John, astronomers of Lick observatory; Arthur S. King, astrophysicist; Alfred H. Joy, observer, and Ferdinand Ellerman, photographer of the observatory staff.

Accompanying Dr. Einstein was his scientific collaborator and companion, Dr. Walther Mayr of Berlin.

Astronomers Adams, Hubble, Campbell, and St. John were authors of astronomical proofs of Einstein's general theory of relativity.

Today's observations were at the 65 foot solar tower, in which Einstein was enabled to seek the effect of the magnetic fields of sun spots. These spots are known to be cyclones in the solar atmosphere. Einstein was intensely interested.

Einstein studied the observatory methods of plumbing the depths of the sun's atmosphere and measuring conditions at different depths. The observations that the sun spot cyclones were like earthly cyclones, because their apparent origin at the poles and direction of their travel was similar to earthly storms, aroused the curiosity of the German scientist.

Based on this, he suggested cooler polar temperatures might exist on the sun and offer the solution of the movements of these cyclones. It had been observed that the temperature of the sun's outer layer, the top of its atmosphere, was about 6,000 degrees centigrade, while in the recess of the sun spot cyclones it was some 1,400 degrees lower.

BIRTH RATE OF U. S. CALLED 25% LOWER THAN 13 YEARS AGO

Alarm over the decreasing birth rate in the United States was sounded yesterday by Dr. J. F. Kelly of the University of Chicago. Dr. Kelly addressed the annual meeting of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society at the Palmer house.

In the last thirteen years, Dr. Kelly said, the birth rate in this country has decreased 25 per cent, a decrease which history has never recorded before. He declared the birth rate in the United States to be below that of France at the present time. He based his statements on the 1930 census.

"But there is one thing in this country's favor," Dr. Kelly continued. "That is the ability of America to prevent infant mortality. This gives us a small gain in comparison with France. But if the curve of the birth rate continues to diminish, our population will begin to decrease despite the high percentage of babies saved by medical science."

Dr. Kelly devoted much of his address to the new conception of community responsibility for child education. He pointed out that the moving pictures, with 13,000,000 admissions weekly, exercise an influence on American children which "may undo all educational efforts for which about $2,400,000,000 is spent annually."

"Our thoughts have been focused upon material things," Dr. Kelly concluded. "We must learn to place the human being in the center of our consciousness."

C. V. Williams, superintendent of the society, urged the formation of a division of child guardianship in the state department of public welfare. He also advised changes in the Illinois law on the adoption of children. Bills providing for such changes will be introduced in the legislature next week.

"It is important that the bills be enacted into law," Mr. Williams said, "that the state may provide better care for thousands of children who are in need of assistance. In the long run this unemployment situation will make children the heaviest losers. Our laws should be modernized in their behalf."

Discussing possible changes in the law which provides that no child may be adopted while either parent is insane, Mr. Williams declared that the insanity of a parent should not prevent taking what is obviously the proper course in the welfare of a child.

"It is our policy to prevent the necessity of adoption wherever possible," Mr. Williams said. "Our first object in all cases coming to the society is to preserve the home and family. Even if that is not possible, we endeavor to protect the rights of a parent, helping him to keep the child and provide for its care."

Carroll H. Sudler was reelected president; Donald M. Ryerson and Chauncey McCormick, first and second vice presidents.

Other officers are Augustus A. Carpenter, third vice president; Bowman C. Lingle, treasurer; Lincoln C. Torrey, secretary; and Dimmitt C. Hutchins, counsel.

New directors are Mrs. Norman Thompson, Rockford; Mrs. William S. Miles, Peoria; Charles F. Eichenaur, Quincy, and Dr. Paul L. Schroeder, Chicago.

The society is a home finding and child protecting agency. It has at present 1,860 children under its care throughout Illinois.

THE STAGE

THE indestructible Mrs. Flake keeps right on extending her engagement in "Ladies of the Jury" at the Blackstone. The latest bulletin is that she will hold this comedy in performance for two more weeks. Then, as rumored, she will revive "Becky Sharp" for a week, beginning Monday, Feb. 16. This, she says, will constitute her farewell to Chicago in the rôle of Thackeray's heroine. She promises to return in other plays, but announces that this will be Becky's last time out.

The new régime at the Blackstone, headed by Tracy C. Drake, is now ready to announce its next attraction, which will be Kenyon Nicholson's drama, "Torch Song." Sunday, Feb. 22, is the date which has been fixed for the premiere. The play is now being prepared in New York by Laura D. Wilck, who produced "Thunder in the Air" for the Dramatic League of Chicago last year. The cast will include Joan Blair, Frank McCormick, Hallie Manning, and Roderick Mabie.

Fred Stone is following Mrs. Flake's example with his "Ripples" at the Illinois. He, too, is extending his stay in Chicago. Tomorrow night would have been his last, according to schedule, but the show's popularity is undiminished, so Fred and his daughters and the other frolickers in "Ripples" will remain here indefinitely. . . . Arthur Houghton of the Erlanger executive office came from New York to inspect "Ripples" a few days ago. He reported to the home office that the performance is 100 per cent better than that which New York saw. His opinion was indorsed by his wife, who used to be Sallie Fisher, Chicago's favorite prima donna in the days when "Dearie" was the song hit of the nation.

Gilbert and Sullivan revivals are in fashion again. The Shuberts announce a series of seven or eight of the famous operettas for a spring season in New York at popular prices. The prospectus covers "The Mikado," "Iolanthe," "The Yeomen of the Guard," "Ruddigore," "The Gondoliers," "The Pirates of Penzance," and "Patience." If everything goes well Chicago may see some of these productions.

De Wolf Hopper also has decided that the works of Gilbert and Sullivan need more attention from him. He is organizing a company of comic opera specialists to take a repertory on a spring tour through New England. He hopes to summer professionally in Newport. His assistants will include Ethel Clark, Oliver Reese, Forrest Huff, Detmar Oppen, and Anne Yago. . . . Mr. Hopper, now 73 years old, recently appeared in a student production at the University of Minnesota.

Beatrice Lillie has returned to these shores. She will soon make a vaudeville appearance at the Palace theater, New York.

Charles Hopkins is getting ready to stage A. A. Milne's play, "Success," at his New York theater. He has engaged Louis Calhern for the leading rôle. "Mrs. Moonlight," which has occupied Mr. Hopkins' stage since last fall as a successor to "Michael and Mary," will probably be sent on tour. This play may be a spring visitor to Chicago under Dramatic league auspices.

Women Urge Stronger Land, Sea Defenses

Hear Navy Lags and Army Is Skeleton.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Denying that uniforms and drums and marching men hold any particular glamour for them, but insisting that those marching men, their husbands and sons, ought not to be sent away to war unprepared, 600 women from 40 patriotic organizations throughout the land met tonight in Constitution hall to consider national defense.

"We are not dreamers; we are not alarmists," protested Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, chairman of this the sixth women's patriotic conference on national defense.

"We are the daughters and descendants of the makers and the defenders of the nation. The things of war are hateful to us. We would much rather come here to welcome the day when all armies could be disbanded and all navies converted to peaceful purpose; but we refuse to let our sentiments deminate us in these matters. We are the women who have a right to speak about national defense."

Then they settled back to listen to a United States senator and a former assistant secretary of war tell them of patriotism, and to hear the marine band play it to them.

The senator, David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, roused the women to heights of enthusiasm when he shouted his denunciation of a "paper navy," and hurled his scorn at our government for not backing up its signature to the London naval treaty by building the ships it has a right to build.

"I protest," declared Senator Walsh "against the hoodwinking of the country with the reiterated statement, that under the treaty our country attained naval parity with England, a navy second to none, when there was no honest intention of maintaining any such navy in fact, when, in reality, we had a navy of markedly inferior strength and did not intend to raise its strength."

Answering the pacifist dollars and cents argument that the navy is expensive, Senator Walsh pointed out that the cost of the navy to the average citizen in this country has been less than $3 a year, and added, "it's worth all it costs."

Tearing into another argument advanced by the six hundred peace seeking women who met here just last week, namely, that we have no fear of invasion, the senator said:

"Of course we don't fear any invasion. If we did, our present attitude toward national defense would be criminal. We desire peace. We are the only important nation today whose standing army is less than the number of policemen on its street corners.

"But the advocates of preparedness like yourselves are now fighting, not to increase, but to prevent further curtailment of our military establishment. You are fighting to counteract the pacifist propaganda aimed at its extinction."

Col. Charles Burton Robbins, former assistant secretary of war, in objecting to those who oppose military training for young men in schools, made this charge:

"How embarrassed some of our clergy would be, did they know that the move to abolish military training in our schools was financed, maintained, and encouraged by soviet atheists, yet such is the case."

The steps in the soviet argument, Col. Robbins outlined, are these:

Abolition of military training would kill the officers reserve corps, which presently will be composed entirely of graduates of these schools; killing off the officers reserve corps would eliminate one of the three land national defense divisions, the division which would officer the millions to be drafted in the event of war.

Col. Robbins likewise found danger in the statistics of the regular army. Although composed of 118,000 enlisted men and 12,000 officers, it is now so widely scattered in local garrisons and insular possessions that it would be impossible, he declared to mobilize even one division of 20,000 men within the continental United States, if an emergency arose.

He, too as for building ships, and he left this suggestion with the women:

"This organization could have no greater single mission than to insist that the definite five year building program of the navy be enacted into law and every ship built within the next five years which is permissible under the treaty."

Wickersham Urges Churches to Improve Their Machinery

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—George W. Wickersham told a group of churchmen tonight the Christian church had reached a crisis and must look to improvements in its organization.

"There never has been a time," the former attorney general and chairman of the Hoover crime commission said to the Church club of New York, "when it was more necessary for the church to examine its machinery and look closely to discover what possible improvements can be made in its organization than today.

"On every hand we see the loosening hold of religion on our social life.

"We demand too much of the clergy," he said. "We expect a church rector to be a pastor, preacher, social worker and executive, as well as a good companion."

Asserting that an entire generation of young people in soviet Russia was "growing to maturity espousing a militant gospel of the negation of God," he said this was a direct challenge which the laity look to the clergy to accept.

Negro Actor, Singer Tells Views on New Music

There will be no great American Negro composer until one appears who will turn back to folk materials and African rhythms. That is the opinion of Paul Robeson, foremost American Negro bass singer and star in "Othello" in a recent London production, who is here for a concert at Orchestra hall.

"Some members of my race want to forget how to sing spirituals. They prefer not to be reminded of their ancestral ways," Mr. Robeson said. "As for our modern American Negro musicians, they are copying the French modern school. But the French moderns are going to Africa for their inspiration. Europe is now trying to import vitality for its art and music from primitive sources."

Hoovers Give Reception for Lawmakers

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover held their reception to the members of the house of representatives tonight. This was the first such reception ever given by a President and first lady.

Speaker Nicholas Longworth and his wife headed the line to be received and led the way to the blue parlor. Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth held her own little reception as usual, all the way along and in fact as long as she remained at the reception. Mrs. Longworth wore French blue brocaded silk and diamonds.

Among the Illinois people were Representative and Mrs. Richard Yates and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Wishart Henderson of Scotland, who are visiting them. Mrs. Yates wearing pink velvet and Mrs. Henderson wearing black lace; Representative and Mrs. W. E. Hull of Peoria and their niece, Miss Virginia Harris. Mrs. Hull in green and gold lace and Miss Harris in white satin; Representative and Mrs. Carl D. Chindblom, the latter in dark blue velvet, the bodice a beaded top; Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, wearing white chiffon and touches of dark fur, and Miss Katrina McCormick in green velvet with a girdle of crystals. After the line had been received the guests danced in the east room for half an hour.

President and Mrs. Hoover gave a dinner last evening, with about two dozen guests, and after dinner they showed a moving picture in the east room.

The Misses Patten entertained at dinner this evening in honor of Miss Katrina McCormick and Miss Dorothy Fall, daughter of Mrs. Ogden L. Mills. Nearly all the company went to the White House afterwards.

Admiral and Mrs. Hutchinson I. Cone, the latter former Miss Julia Mattis, niece of the late Senator McKinley of Champaign, Ill., gave a tea this afternoon.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This should be a becoming design for a woman who isn't slender. The pattern has so many good points—the softly falling jabot collar hangs in a slender line, the deep vest is decidedly graceful and slenderizing, and the hip yoke—opened at the front—creates a panel effect at the front of the skirt, giving it length. Wool crêpe, crêpe morocain, and flat crêpe seem particularly suitable.

The pattern, 2890, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 18 inch contrasting.

Rounded Silhouette Takes Place of Flat, Extremely Thin One

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Word has got pretty well about that you can eat a good square meal a day now, take on a few pounds and still be out of the wallflower class at the party. A few pounds of flesh, in other words, is no longer impedimenta. An asset, rather. That long, lean, skinny one of a few seasons ago is gulping down milk and eggnogs with olive oil in them to help restore her to her old popular place.

Yes, it is written in the book, now, that you can have a few pounds and you needn't be ashamed to boast about them. Plump girls mustn't read this and believe the remark is aimed at them. It's the hollow chested, flat cheeked, hipless, stomachless girl of the chemise-gown era that should be interested. She's got to have something to belt in and corset, this year—something beside rib and bone.

It's interesting how everything rights itself if only given time and a lift from Fashion. As things stand at this moment, reducing has had a healthful quietus put upon it. Only those are reducing who should, and for the most part these are doing it with more wisdom than has been observed for some time past.

And the excessively thin are trying to plump up. To help the latter in their good and wholesome work, let's mention that milk still stands as a good fat maker. But let's also remind that there are ways of taking milk. It is best to take milk at the end of a meal on a weight gaining diet, so that the rest of the meal will be taken freely.

It is even better to take your milk between meals, in malted, eggnog or plain form. It's extra building material you want.

And we'd like to put in a good word for butter, here. Butter is just about the most fattening product you can take. It's the most easily digestible of all so-called fats. It will round out the curves. So add more to your toast, more to your vegetables, pile it on the meats.

And if you can take olive oil, take it raw. It's a grand curve promoter. And it is a lubricant that most thin people need greatly. Vegetable and salad items must be eaten generously in a fat gaining program just as in a thin fat reducing one, for one thing needed in rebuilding is to reëstablish a good digestive system before you attempt to pile on more and more fattening foods.

Live the Present with Children and Enjoy Every Minute

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We mothers often need to be told what we already know. Various things make us lose sight of our deeper knowledge—the chores of everyday, tiredness, nerves, money worries, or desire for personal leisure.

Here is a mother who reminds us again, as I have before, of something we all know:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans:

"A month or so ago a mother wrote you concerning her little 3 year old who always seemed to be in her way and under foot. I wish we could tell mothers to enjoy every moment of their little ones while they are still little and at home.

"A dear friend of mine has sent her youngest child of a large family to college this year. She has brought this home to me so clearly. She has outside interests, many of them, but the emptiness of her home without children is at times unbearable. She has taught me to be happy with my children, for after all, we only have them at home a few years.

"Many times I have to remind myself of this, because sometimes when my two children overrun our small house with playmates, demanding popcorn or fudge, I'd like ever so much to lock them out so that I can read or think. Then I think of the many years I'll have to think when they are grown up! These are the happiest days, now, and every mother should feel that way. What do you think?"

We must not dread the years ahead, of course. But we can be sure to enjoy our children along the way.

Bertha Alling, Chas. H. Brown Are Engaged

BY THALIA

MR. AND MRS. VAN WAGENEN ALLING of Lake Forest are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Bertha Alling, to Charles H. Brown, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Brown of Wilmette.

Miss Alling made her debut while she was a sophomore at Bryn Mawr and was graduated in 1928. Since then she has traveled quite a bit, and for the last year has been associated with Dudley Crafts Watson of the Art institute, serving as manager for his lecture engagements and arranging the personnel for his travel tours.

She is continuing her work with him for the present, being much interested in it, but probably will not be going on any more trips as her wedding is planned, tentatively, at least, for June. She is also a member of the Junior league and has been in some of the children's plays. Mr. Brown is a graduate of Amherst, class of 1918.

Mr. and Mrs. John McDonnell of 7350 Ridge avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor Katherine, to John Cylde Stewart, son of Bishop and Mrs. George Craig Stewart of Evanston.

The Woman's Athletic Club's and Several Other Programs.

Announcing . . . a Woman's Athletic club program, Miss Frances Homer giving "Original Dramatic Sketches" next Thursday morning at 11 o'clock . . . the International theater performances next Thursday and Friday evenings. Saturday morning and afternoon, and the following Monday afternoon at the Goodman, with Mrs. Howard Linn and Mrs. Laird Bell appearing in "Poil de Carotte," by Jules Renard, and "La Nuit d'Auberge," by Gabriel Nigond . . . the annual meeting of the Friends of Opera at the Casino on Monday, Feb. 9 (members only) . . . and a midwinter program of the American Opera society at Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's residence on Feb. 23 entitled "An Afternoon with Deems Taylor's Peter Ibbetson" (as you know, the opera is to have its premiere at the Metropolitan on Feb. 7, with Lucrezia Bori, Edward Johnson, and Lawrence Tibbetts in the principal rôles) . . . the first of a series of study groups under the auspices of the Lake Shore League of Women Voters, to be held at 11 o'clock next Monday morning at Mrs. A. A. Carpenter's apartment at 1130 Lake Shore drive (Mrs. W. W. Ramsey, congressional chairman of the Illinois league and vice president of the Cook county one, is to conduct the course, her subject being "How to Secure Better City Government") . . . the Junior League Symphony concert interpretive lecture this morning by Daniel Gregory Mason, dean of music at Columbia university, who will tell about his own composition, "Chanticleer," which he is to conduct at this week's concert.

Mrs. Ralph H. Poole New Ravinia Opera Club Chief.

At the annual meeting of the Ravinia Opera club at the Casino on Tuesday, Mrs. Ralph H. Poole was elected president, succeeding Mrs. Donald F. McPherson. The other officers are Mrs. William Sutherland, first vice president; Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. George A. Mason, Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, and Mrs. John W. Gary, second vice presidents; Mrs. William B. Hale, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank Harkness, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harvey S. Pardee, treasurer; Miss Isabel Cline, chairman of children's day committee; Mrs. J. Williams Macy, chairman ushering committee; Mrs. Harkness, Mrs. George Parker, and Miss Mary Marshall, nominating committee. After the meeting Mrs. McPherson gave a luncheon for the officers and town chairmen.

Travel talk. . . . Among those sailing on Saturday for the Mediterranean cruise on the S. S. Carinthia are Mrs. Joseph Defrees of the Windermere East, Mrs. Donald Defrees of Winnetka and her daughter Jean, and Mrs. Thomas R. Wyles of Highland Park and her daughter, Miss Anne Tricket Wyles . . . the Stuart Logans are going to New York the first of next week. Plans for Miss Phoebe's marriage to Joseph Terbell Jr. are still in abeyance, because of the senior Mr. Terbell's continued illness, but some decision will probably be reached next week . . . Mr. and Mrs. Mark Skinner Willing are going to Tucson on the Golden State Limited on Sunday . . . Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine of 1322 Ritchie court and Billy departed this week for a month or so in the west and southwest (they're going to Indio, Cal., and the Rancho Linda Vista at Tucson).

Winnetka Woman's Guild to Show Home Fashions.

Out in Winnetka . . . the Women's guild and auxiliary of Christ church is to have an exhibition of household fashions next Wednesday at the parish house from 10 to 5 o'clock, and on Shrove Tuesday, Feb. 17, the parishioners are having a Mardi Gras ball and minstrel show at the Miralago ballroom. The feature of the exhibition [distinctly not a bazaar] will be tables arranged with linens made by the Order department. Mrs. William B. McIlvaine is doing a formal luncheon table, Mrs. Ralph C. Brown a theatrical gauze luncheon cloth, Mrs. Arthur M. Cox a plaid breakfast set, Mrs. Alice Drake Miller a peach linen luncheon set, Mrs. Ernest S. The annual bridge and tea sponsored by the alumnae association of the Starrett School for Girls is to take place on Tuesday, Feb. 10, in the ballroom of the Shoreland hotel. The association is establishing a permanent scholarship fund in addition to its usual contribution to the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids. Miss Elizabeth Pape is president of the association and chairman of the card party.

GETS HIS CUE

John Drew Colt, 17 years old, has made the record complete. He's on the stage. He says it's heredity, and probably it is. He's tired of school, he always wanted to act. A message from his uncle, John Barrymore, accompanying an apple, went with him Monday night when he was a member of a blackface mob in "Scarlet Sister Mary" at the Harris theater. His mother, Ethel Barrymore [the former Mrs. Russell G. Colt], plays the lead, and her daughter, Ethel Barrymore Colt, made a début in the cast this season. In "Scarlet Sister Mary" is their cousin, Georgiana Drew Mendum.

The latest stage addition of the Barrymore strain is the nephew of the actors, John and Lionel Barrymore, and grandson of the actor and actress, Maurice Barrymore and Georgie Drew Barrymore. His great uncle was the actor, John Drew.

Society Women Asked to Help Chicago to Keep Streets Clean

Chicago as the "world's dirtiest city" was discussed yesterday by Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis before the Women's Chicago Beautiful association at the Hotel Sherman. Her understanding was, she said, that the last time the streets and alleys were really cleaned was in 1893 for the fair.

"If we could have pictures of some of you ladies," she suggested, "or the members of the Junior league, or the Service club, picking up castoff newspapers or cigar butts and presenting them to the persons who threw them away, that might have some effect."

Mrs. Samuel Slade, another speaker, was of the opinion that "if we continue as we are, I am afraid we will have steel covered buildings as well as bullet proof glass."

Chicago Art Show Opens; Prizes Given

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE most important exhibition of the season, as far as Chicago is concerned, opened yesterday in the east wing galleries of the Art institute with the formal presentation to the public of the work in the 35th annual Chicago artists and vicinity exhibit.

It is an exceptional showing with credit for its excellence going to such practiced painters as Frederic M. Grant, Gerald Frank, Marshall D. Smith, Charles P. Killgore, John A. Spelman, Edward T. Grigware, and Pauline Palmer. There are a few new names and a certain quantity of negligible painting, a little of it powdered over with modernist inaccuracy, but on the whole the exhibition is infinitely superior to any we have been given in the last several years.

The prize awards were announced yesterday afternoon. The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan medal and purchase prize of $750 went to "Bistro Bruel," by J. Theodore Johnson, and a muddy and dull painting it is; the Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan prize of $500 was awarded to the stunning "Black Panther," a sculpture by Edouard Chassaing; the Fine Arts building purchase prize of $500 went to the excellently handled "Country Store," a painting by Ruth Van Sickle Ford, and one that will go to the public schools.

Frances Foy won the Mr. and Mrs. Jule F. Brower prize of $300 with her thoroughly delightful and beautifully textured "Still Life with Dog." The William Randolph Hearst prize of $300 went to "Still Life," by Constantine Pougialis; the Chicago Woman's club prize of $200 to "Self-Portrait," by Solomon D. Yonan; the William and Bertha Clusmann prize of $200 to "Hockey," by June M. Knabel; the Joseph N. Eisendrath prize of $200 to "Nude," by Edward Boyd Johnson.

Flora Schofield won the Harry A. Frank prize of $150 with her painting, "The Prayer." The Clyde M. Carr prize of $100 for a work in landscape went amusingly enough to "Wabash Avenue Bridge," by Belle Goldschlager. The Chicago Woman's Aid annual prize of $100 to a woman artist whose work displays originality of thought and execution was awarded to Macena Barton for "Marie Armengaud." The Englewood Woman's club prize of $100 went to "Heavy Breathing Industry," by John E. Phillips; the Municipal Art league prize of $100 for portraiture to "Portrait," by Joseph Allworthy; the Mrs. John C. Shaffer prize of $100 for an ideal conception in sculpture to "Head of Woman in Stone," by Margaret Gentles; the Robert Rice Jenkins memorial prize of $50 to "Penguin," by Eunice Grubb.

The Municipal Art league purchase prize of $500, the Business Men's Art club purchase prize of $300, and the Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors' gold medal are still to be awarded.

Triduum Ceremony to Start Today at St. Vincent's

Ceremonies of a solemn triduum will begin this morning and continue through Sunday at St. Vincent's Catholic church, Webster and Sheffield avenues. The Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, will head the list of the prominent clergy who will take part in the ceremonies.

The triduum will be held by the priests of the Vincentian community, the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, and the students of De Paul university for the benefit of Chicago Catholics.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Cookies Scattered About.

It happened at quite an exclusive dinner party. Course: the dessert. The fancy cookies were passed to me on a large silver tray and, being the last one, I was to place the tray down. Horror of horrors! It slipped from one hand and cookies of all shapes and sizes rolled all over the table. To make me feel worse I recalled the murmur of several people, "How artistically these cookies are placed on the tray." A. D.

U. of C. Student Group Will Give Three Plays Tonight

The University of Chicago's annual playfest will be inaugurated tonight at the Reynolds club theater, 57th street and University avenue, with students appearing in a repertoire of three plays—"All American," "Symphony in D Minor" and "Tables for Ladies." Chief rôles will be played by Marianne Stevenson and Sarah Jane Lachrone. Each of the plays has been written by a student, and the entire program is a university affair. Those who have watched the rehearsals say the casts this year are unusually talented. The advance demand for seats has been the heaviest in the memory of faculty members, and due to this circumstance there will be extra performances on Saturday.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Needs Clothes for Jobs.

"I have been out of work for about five months and have a wife and 2 months' old baby to support. I think my chances of getting something to do would be better if I weren't so shabby, but everywhere I go for a job they look me over and then tell me they have nothing for me. Do you think you could get me some decent things to wear? I need an overcoat and suit, size 40 or 42; shirts, size 15½, and a pair of shoes, size 9. We need a baby buggy also. J. C."

This young family is having a desperate struggle, but employment would solve their problem. If the clothing you are discarding is in his size and is in fairly good condition, won't you give it to him and improve his chances of obtaining work?

Woman of 45 Tells Why Her Life Is Barren, Lonely

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"How can a woman, going on 45, get herself a husband?" That's today's stickler.

If "Poor Lola" had attempted to be funny in her inquiry, we might have been tempted to ask if one has managed without a husband for 45 years, why begin worrying about taking on one now? But her childhood and girlhood story is too tragic for that. And being 45 and alone in the world has no element of humor in it, judge it any way you will.

Left an orphan at 7, Lola was. An uncle, who took her over, was one of those old tyrants one might suspect could live in story books only. He wouldn't let her mix with girls of her own age, much less boys. He was hard and terrifying and the thought of disobeying him was something that never entered Lola's mind.

His wife died when Lola was 12 and she was taken on as housekeeper. Her pay was ugly roars. He hated her, Lola claims, but as she looked back on it later, realized that she was the cheapest housekeeper he could get.

So the girl grew up and when girls of her age were out having a good time she was acting like a frightened mouse bent on obeying the uncle for fear of his "roaring madness."

At the age of 23 Lola left the uncle, but so warped and inhibited had her nature become, though she wanted marriage, always has wanted it, men turned from her. "Men," says the pathetic Lola, "I found, do not show attention to a girl who flees from them."

Years went on and on—and no man seemed to be able to understand this woman, crying from the depths of her soul for a home, for a husband, for children. And 45 still finds her hoping a kind fate will give her the home and husband, anyway.

Well, women of 45 and over have married for the first time. Of course, widows of 45 belong in another category. Getting themselves a husband if they want one isn't so difficult an accomplishment. Single women of more than 40 must rely on luck, or unusually clever management.

The marrying chances are not even with those of a 25 year old, certainly. Still, it has been done and it can be done again and the rules for endearing yourself to some man at 45 differ little from those exerted at 25.

May Oppose Marriage of a Prince to Commoner

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Authentic reports were published Sunday that Prince Lennart wha to marry Miss Karin Nissvandt, but reliable sources stated today that King Gustave, the youth's grandfather, has refused his consent.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Object to Penniless Swain.

"Dear Miss Blake: My people object to the boy I love because he hasn't any money. Please advise.

"Lou."

Encourage the young man to save money. When your parents see he is doing everything to get ahead and trying to save his money they will feel differently.

Illinois Girl Made Happy

MANY times a child has everything to make her happy and still is dissatisfied. This may not be the youngster's fault. Often it is due to a condition easily corrected.

Take the experience of Mrs. T. V. Frankquist, 4619 N. Keating Ave., Chicago, who says: "Nothing seemed to please Betty Jane. She was fretful, feverish, suffered a lot from colds. She was constipated.

"We saw California Fig Syrup advertised and got some. It relieved her trouble promptly; made her bright and happy again. We have used it for two years."

Mothers by thousands praise this pure vegetable product. Children love it. Doctors recommend it to relieve constipation, feverishness, fretfulness, headaches; to open the bowels in colds or children's ailments.

Appetite is increased by the use of California Fig Syrup; breath is sweetened; coated tongue is cleared; digestion and assimilation are aided; weak bowels and stomach are strengthened.

For your protection, the genuine always bears the name California.

Plaid Straw Fashions Hats for Southern Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Sun hats for southern wear have brims that are anywhere from cartwheel to fireman-helmet size, and they forecast an epidemic of wider brimmed hats for northern summertime.

The most fashionable wide brimmed hats for the south are made of plaid straw to match the plaid accessories that are omnipresent in fashions. This straw is usually quite coarse—the paillasson weave, and the plaids are as varied as the clans of Scotland.

One of the most attractive plaid hats from Paris is shown in the upper sketch. It is in red, orange and white plaid straw, rough and coarse, and the brim is set half-way up the crown in front, showing the wide plaid ribbon that circles the crown above and below the brim. This ribbon ties in a sash-like bow at the back of the crown. The model is from Blanche et Simone.

Below is Patou's flower garland that he creates to go with ensembles in plain and printed silk. The hat, which is wide brimmed at the sides and back and quite deep brimmed in front, is made of the finest black panama straw. This brim is faced with printed crêpe de chine to match the dress with which it is worn. The pattern shows garlands of red and pink flowers on a black ground. The garlands of the same flowers, cut out of the silk, are sewed into a garland that circles the base of the crown.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feed your and sunk and feel punk, don't swallow a lot of mineral water, oil, laxative candy or gum and expect them to make you peppy, sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement does not get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your entire system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts that do wonders when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Refuse substitutes.

EXILE OF RUSSIA, PAVLOWA'S ASHES STAY IN LONDON

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The body of Anna Pavlowa, famous dancer, traveled on its last journey today in a strange land, covered with flowers from admirers she never knew and past crowds who knew her only as a legend. London was her home in recent years and in London she won her most dazzling triumphs, but it was made clear from the funeral service and the cremation today that Pavlowa was an exile from the country of her birth. By her own wishes her ashes will remain here "until the present régime in Russia ends."

The little Russian colony here did its best today to make the funeral Russian, but they didn't succeed. It was a somewhat tawdry farewell in a Russian church on Buckingham Palace road.

ILLINOIS WOMEN OUTLIVE MEN BY 2½ YEARS

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The average life span of women in Illinois exceeds that of the men by two years and a half, Dr. Andy Hall, state director of public health, made known today.

The fact that women, who are compelled by convention to care for the children, now study hygiene, diet, sanitation and all other phases of health improvement and disease prevention contributes to their longevity, Dr. Hall said.

"The average life span in Illinois," Dr. Hall stated, "is 55.2 years for males and 57.8 years for females."

By studying and following sound scientific advice, he said, men also could extend their days on earth.

GOVERNOR ASKS QUICKER ACTION ON WATERWAYS

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 29.—(AP)—In a letter to executives of six middle western states, Gov. Floyd B. Olson today stressed the present system of state commissions and associations in pushing the proposed great lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project.

Gov. Olson placed himself definitely on record as heartily in favor of the waterway, but said it was necessary either for new tactics to be adopted or to change the personnel now carrying on the work.

Six Governors Addressed.

The letters were sent to Govs. D. W. Turner, Iowa; George White, Ohio; Wilbur M. Bruckner, Michigan; Louis L. Emmerson, Illinois; Henry G. Leslie, Indiana, and Philip La Follette, Wisconsin.

The letter followed inception of an investigation into expenditures totaling $127,500 by the Minnesota great lakes-St. Lawrence tidewater commission since its creation in 1919. The governor said he intends to ask the legislature to refuse further appropriations for the commission, thus practically abolishing that body.

Believes Change Necessary.

In his letter Gov. Olson said nothing tangible had been accomplished toward completion of the waterways project despite the appropriation of "substantial" sums by the various legislatures and expressed the belief that a change was necessary.

"If nothing can be done," he wrote, "there is no necessity for further appropriations. Please advise me as to your sentiments with reference to the matter."

ELECTED FAYETTE CORONER.

Vandalia, Ill., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Henry J. Heckathorn of Shobonier was elected coroner of Fayette county at a special meeting of the board of supervisors here yesterday.

THURNBLAD BEATS HALL FOR BILLIARD TITLE

SHAMROCKS DEFEAT HORNETS, 3 TO 1; TIE FOR LEAD

STICK SWINGING AND FISTICUFFS ENLIVEN BATTLE

4th Victory in Row for Chicagoans.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Although considerable of the time was devoted to roughhousing, the Shamrocks didn't overlook the necessity of scoring points in their struggle with the Duluth Hornets at the Stadium last night. The Chicagoans registered profitably by 3 to 1, thereby stretching their winning streak to four games and at the same time moving into a tie with Tulsa for leadership in the American Hockey league. The Shamrocks attended to the big portion of their scoring by sinking two shots in rapid order in the first period after Duluth had assumed the lead with what proved its only point of the evening. Then, having nothing much to worry about in the way of scores, the Chicagoans concentrated on upsetting Duluth's plans for a rough game in the second period.

Penalties in Second Period.

In the course of this extra activity Orville Brydson and Hoot Gibson used their fists to no avail and what they started was carried on so earnestly that before the period ended there were 7 penalties inflicted.

The Shamrocks displayed no haste about getting either defense or offense working at the start of the first period and Duluth consequently kept things humming in front of the Chicago net. The latter, however, escaped damage until at 9:12 the Hornets registered the opening score of the evening.

This was done by Leswick, who took a pass from Forslund, shoved it down the middle between the two Chicago defense men and then, when about ten feet from the net, took a leisurely shot that skidded under Goalie Tim-lin.

Green Puts On Party.

For the next few minutes Red Green of Duluth tried to conduct a party of his own. He had one easy scoring shot that missed and then put himself sentenced to the penal colony on a charge of tripping. Then Green got going for the Shamrocks and staged two thrusts at the Duluth net but both were deflected. Wiseman also had a free poke at the Hornet goal when the rubber unexpectedly slid in front of him after a face off. His missed connections.

The Shamrocks leaped out in front in a hurry once they found the range. At 10:55 McFadyen received a pass from Bradley and nursed the puck up to the Duluth net before giving it a whack past Goalie Turner. Then he made it 2 to 1 for Chicago by jabbing the button into the goal after a pass from Wiseman had put the mister in position.

Brydson and Gibson Tangle.

A flare of fisticuffs which added a bit of spice to the party was put on when the second period was about five minutes old. Brydson and Gibson hadn't been getting along any too well and when they crashed against the wall the Chicago forward decided it was time to act. He swung an uppercut in vain. Gibson closed in rapidly and in an instant all the other players swarmed to the spot, so what might have been a good row revolved into a mere huddle. The two originators of the fuss were given major penalties of five minutes.

The heat stirred up by the Brydson-Gibson engagement caused the subsequent skating to become a bit rough. Green was taken from the Duluth team for tripping. Just after Green returned Merrill was ousted for hanging up Riley's stick.

Clayton Draws Penalty.

It was while Merrill and Gibson were detained in the penalty box that the Chicago gang counted to increase their lead to 3 to 1. In a scramble in front of the Duluth net Riley passed to Burland, whose short jab put the rubber into the scoring pit.

The final period started modestly, but a burst of reaction soon cropped out. The Shamrocks lost Clayton for two minutes for hugging a Duluth stick under his arm. Leswick of the Hornets was plunked on the forehead, but not by a puck shot of one of his mates.

Another bit of roughhousing broke out when McFadyen, Shamrock forward, was dismissed for the customary two minutes for applying his stick to the back of a Duluth man's neck.

The period developed no scores, but would have if it hadn't been for some particularly agile work by Timmins in front of the Shamrock net. Lineup:

FISH SAYS ARMY RECRUITS STARS; DEMANDS PROBE

Bases Charges on Case of Rhode Island Star.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(AP)—An investigation of charges that United States military academy authorities permit proselyting of football players has been demanded of the war department by Representative Hamilton Fish [Rep., N. Y.].

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the war department, said he would refer the charges to West Point for investigation.

Names Wrightson, Carroll.

The New York representative asked an investigation of the activities of W. T. Wrightson, a member of the Army Athletic association, and Paul Carroll, a Cadet, in connection with alleged efforts to induce Kenneth Goff, star Rhode Island State football player, to enter the academy.

Fish also asked that Wrightson's name be stricken from the rolls of the Army Athletic association.

War department officials said the charges had been denied by Maj. Philip B. Fleming, athletic director at the academy, on the ground that Carroll had acted personally in correspondence with Goff.

Lauds Newspaper "Exposé."

Fish said the Providence Evening Bulletin had published letters detailing efforts "of football authorities at West Point to secure star college players." He added the newspaper "has rendered a valuable service to amateur football and verified the statement that I have made repeatedly in the last three years that star college players are encouraged and solicited to enter West Point."

Fish said he had three letters from Wrightson protesting his former attack on football tactics at West Point.

"As long as these practices continue at West Point," Fish said, "I hope newspapers will continue to expose them and that sooner or later Harvard and Yale will wake up to the situation and sever football relations with West Point."

KID BERG FIGHTS PERLICK AGAIN IN GARDEN RING

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Jackie Kid Berg, British lightweight, tackles Herman Perlick, Kalamazoo, Mich., for the third time tomorrow night in the feature attraction at Madison Square Garden. Twice before Berg has beaten the better half of a pair of fighting twins.

The match involves the trick junior welterweight championship, which Berg won in England from Mushy Callahan, Chicago, a couple of semesters ago. The title is not recognized in this state, but the boys are scheduled to weigh 140 pounds, the class limit. Berg, with one match under his belt after a long vacation in England, is a prohibitive favorite.

Tony Herrera, Mexican lightweight, makes his Garden debut against Sammy Dorfman, New York, in one ten rounder, and Kid Francis, Italian featherweight, meets Peter De Grasse, Frenchman, in another ten.

M'Gowan Picked to Umpire White Sox-Giants Series

William McGowan, American league umpire, was delegated by the league yesterday to accompany the White Sox during their spring exhibition tour with the Giants. The jaunt includes 17 interleague battles. It is probable that a National league arbiter will be named to team up with McGowan.

Laufer Takes Medley Swim; Breaks Record

Walter Laufer set a Central A. A. U. record in the 300 yard medley swim last night in the Lake Shore Athletic club pool. Laufer, who represents the home club, swam the distance in 3 minutes and 48 seconds. The old mark, also held by Laufer, was 3 minutes and 51 3-10 seconds.

While Laufer was the only swimmer to set a Central asosciation record, the other four championship events were closely contested. Al Schwartz of the Illinois Athletic club won the 500 yard free style race. His time, however, was nearly a half minute from the record held by Johnny Weissmuller.

Don Horn of the Lake Shore won the 220 yard breast stroke. Marjorie Conavan, Illinois Women's Athletic club, was the victor in the women's 100 yard championship back stroke event.

The 300 yard medley relay race was won by Lake Shore's team of Laufer, Horn and Nelson. Laufer gave his mates a half length lead in the 100 yard back stroke. Horn held that advantage in the breast stroke laps, then Nelson went on to win easily in the final 100 yard free style. Chicago Athletic teams finished second and third. Summaries:

SHARKEY AGREES TO STADIUM'S BID FOR FIGHT HERE

Walker Likely Opponent in June.

Jack Sharkey, the Boston heavyweight, who was shuffled out of a return match with Max Schmeling for the world's championship, will fight in Chicago under the auspices of the Chicago Stadium corporation at least once and possibly twice before the end of the summer.

Nate Lewis, matchmaker of the Stadium, announced last night that Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, had agreed to terms for a bout here during the outdoor season and had expressed a willingness to appear once during the indoor season at the Stadium. While no opponent has been chosen for the Boston sailor, who lost a chance for the title when he fouled Schmeling in the fourth round of their fight in New York last summer, Lewis said it was probable that Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, would be his opponent in a June match, which probably would be staged at Soldiers' field.

Seen as Counter Attraction.

Lewis' announcement followed a report in New York that Sharkey and Walker had been matched by the Stadium to fight at Soldiers' field as a counter attraction to the Schmeling-Stribling bout, which is to be promoted by the New York milk fund next summer. Lewis said that Walker had been mentioned in the negotiations as a likely opponent for Sharkey, but no definite decision had been reached. Walker's nomination as the logical opponent for Sharkey depends on the outcome of his battle with Johnny Risko, the Cleveland bouncer, at Miami next month.

"If Walker should win decisively from Risko, he would command a great deal of attention in the heavyweight ranks," Lewis said. "Risko disposed of Jimmy Maloney, who whipped Carnera, and if Walker can score a clean victory over him, Mickey will have to be considered as a contender. On the other hand, if Risko whips Walker, Risko might be our choice for a fight here with Sharkey."

Sharkey Itches for Fight.

Buckley told Lewis that Sharkey, who has been idle since losing to Schmeling, intends to do considerable boxing during the next few months to get into shape for a determined heavyweight campaign and would be willing to fight in the Stadium in March if a suitable match could be arranged.

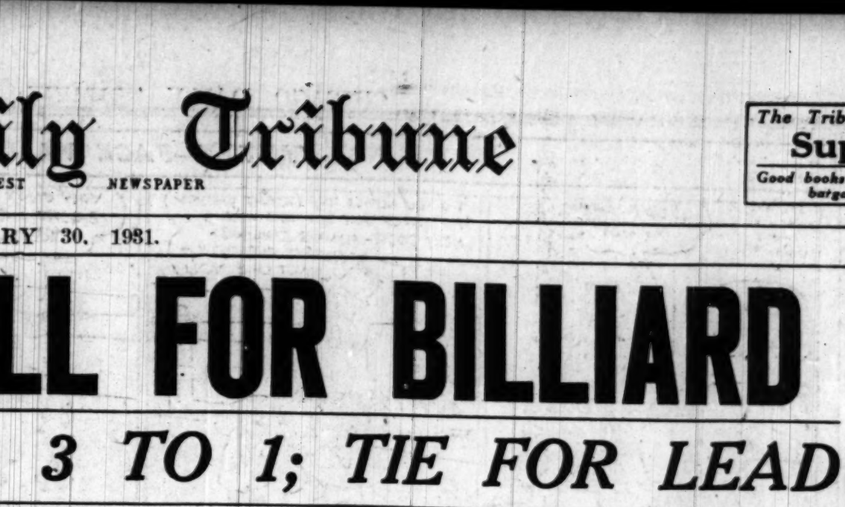
While Lewis would not say so, it is generally believed that the Sharkey fight, regardless of his opponent, is being arranged to "get even" with the interests that took the Schmeling-Stribling bout away from the Stadium after the Stadium corporation had offered Schmeling $500,000 to fight Stribling here. The Sharkey bout, with either Walker or Risko established as a title threat, might eclipse the Schmeling-Stribling contest, even with the synthetic title at stake, in public interest and outdraw the championship encounter.

Envisions 100,000 Crowd.

Produced at Soldiers' field on the night preceding the American Derby on June 19, the Stadium fight would draw in 100,000 or more customers, Lewis believes. The New York milk fund, which is promoting the championship bout, has not yet decided on the locale of its production, but with New York definitely eliminated, because of the New York commission's suspension of Schmeling, there is no arena available that would accommodate a crowd equal to the capacity of Soldiers' field.

Chicago has not been actually counted out as the site, but the Illinois commission has served notice that the fight cannot be held here unless Chicago charities benefit from the gate receipts. The Stadium has announced that it will go to court to prevent the milk fund from usurping its prerogatives by invading Chicago.

A BATTLE WITH CUES AS ONLY WEAPONS



Arthur N. Thurnblad, young Chicago star, lines up an open shot in his match with Allen Hall, also of Chicago, for the three cushion billiard championship of the world last night at Bensinger's. Thurnblad won, 50 to 43, in 53 innings.

Hall gets a bead on the ivory balls. He assumed an early lead over Thurnblad in their title match last night, but Art tied the score at 27 in the 27th inning. The players discarded safety shots in their hard fought match. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

TONIGHT'S MATCH.

Layton vs. Hall in playoff for second place.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Art Thurnblad of Chicago is the new champion of the world at three cushion billiards.

The tall, thin, nervous appearing Swede, so flabbergasted when he scored the winning point and the crown began settling down over his wrinkled brow that for an instant it looked as if he were going to faint, beat Allen Hall, also of Chicago, 50 to 43, in 53 innings in the deciding match last night.

He beat Hall because he literally played the heart out of the most youthful player in the tournament. He won because he threw all cares to the winds, and because when he rammed the ivory balls around the table his mathematical diagnosis of where they would land was perfect.

A Mathematics Shark.

Thurnblad, before he became a billiard player, specialized in mathematics. Then he became a draftsman, and the training he received in his classes as he prepared to become a draftsman were great assets to him as he fought his way to the title in one of the most exciting championship matches ever played.

It was a Thurnblad crowd which packed Bensinger's Congress billiard room all the way to the rafters. It cheered for him as he trailed Hall in early innings. Every move he made brought an ovation. And when Thurnblad, following three runs of four, tied the score in the 27th inning, for a minute it seemed that the volume of cheers for him might cause the walls of the amphitheater to bulge out into Congress street and Wabash avenue.

Follows Long Road to Title.

His trip to the championship was not accomplished in a day. It followed years of plugging. He played as an amateur for ten years before he cast his lot with the professionals in 1922. He played for two years as a professional before he ever attracted any attention.

Then, on Oct. 24, 1924, when Thurnblad was struggling along as the manager of a billiard and pool room in Milwaukee, Willie Hoppe traveled into that city on one of those exhibition tours in which the champion took on all comers.

Thurnblad, then only a little more than 20 years old, challenged Hoppe. The match was made and they were to play for 100 points. The gamblers in Milwaukee and a few from Chicago, who were trying to pick up some of the old soft percentage dough, bet 2 to 1 that Thurnblad wouldn't score 50 points.

The gamblers paid off and scurried into the background when Thurnblad wo.. the match, 100 to 52, in 102 innings.

Rises to Peak Again.

But from that day until last night, although he won a Chicago championship or two, Thurnblad never flashed greatness.

Although he appeared nervous, Thurnblad had to be the gamest sort of a fellow to win the championship. He trailed Hall throughout the early part of the match. He didn't really get going until the fifteenth inning, when Hall was leading, 16 to 6. Then he reeled off a run of 7. Six of these shots were of the most difficult kind. This pulled him up to within three points of Hall. But Hall, still confident; got a cluster of four and he had a lead of 20 to 13.

But that was the last easy breathing spell Hall enjoyed. For Thurnblad got a two in the 23d inning and scored three in each of the 24th, 26th, and 27th, to tie the count at 27. A half dozen times from then until the finish the score was knotted. "Kisses" cost Hall five points in five shots. But while all this was happening, Thurnblad was slamming away, figuring his shots as a draftsman and as a mathematician would make his draftings.

Run of Four Ends Match.

He drew out into a safe lead. He led, 45 to 42, in the 50th inning. He missed in his 51st frame. He got one in the 52d inning. Then he became complete master of the red and white ivory balls in the 53d inning, and clicked off four billiards, most of them from difficult angles, and the world's champion had been crowned.

Score by innings:

Safeties—Thurnblad, 7; Hall, 5.
Foul—Thurnblad, 1.

Thurnblad's triumph will bring him about $23,000. It gives him a $6,000 salary from a billiard firm. He got $1,200 as a cash prize. His share of the gate receipts will be about $1,000. He will collect about $15,000 in exhibition games during the year.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

SCHMELING AND STRIBLING.

NOW that Max Schmeling is back in this country, we may expect a few verbal brickbats between him and Young Stribling, his opponent of next June. We need not take them too seriously, but rather as part of the ballyhoo for that bout, wherever it may be held.

It was perfectly natural for Herr Max to state he expected to knock out the Georgian. What else would we want him to say? Certainly not that he would do his best, but that he feared Stribling might stop him. What fine publicity that would be! Stribling's answer was gentlemanliness itself, from the viewpoint of the ring. He merely stated he would talk with his fists. Suppose he had said, "Why that big Limburger, he should talk when he won his title while on the floor." So you see how proper and decorous this first exchange of verbiage really is.

Back in the old days, fighters really said things about each other and called names, frequently threatening to "lick" the other chap on sight. Before the Fitzsimmons-Corbett fight at Carson City in 1897, Fitz and "Gentleman Jim" did some real name calling. Newspapers did not really print what they called each other, because they were family journals.

It often has seemed to us there was more personal feeling between the combatants then than in these more refined days of big gate receipts. Perhaps there were more chaps then who milled because they liked milling. With larger earnings, present ambition of most champions is to earn enough to retire. Tunney is the most conspicuous example of that type.

Both Schmeling and Stribling are likeable chaps, above the average run of pugilists in education and intelligence. They'll possibly say a few things about each other before June, but it will not be personally abusive. That's not the vogue now.

Relief Implications.

The choral persisted that "Volstead" would pay,
Invoking an omen from false moral fasts,
Yet jails are bursting, the "hungry" hold sway,
And "pay" is an ogre of ruinous tax.

"Ain't What She Used to Be."

Dear Harvey: The scene is laid on the sunny side of a village grocery store; the time about 1890; dramatis personæ, a bunch of philosophers discussing the deterioration of men and women, especially women. The leading philosopher let's go of the following observation: "Boys, I tell you the fair sex ain't what it used to be. Why, where is the woman left who can kill a hog?" C. A. K.

Conversation.

Is not a conversation one strange thing?
To hear, I mean. A voice arises and
Its tones go smoothly on, quite like the wing
Of tireless bird, swift flying over land.
It settles down. Another voice begins,
Its flight across the sea or through the high
Far caves of some old mountain. Then it wins
Its way back home to rest contentedly.
Psyche.

BRUINS CONQUER RANGERS, 4-3, BY 3D PERIOD DRIVE

Chapman Gets Away for Winning Goal.

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Coming from behind to score two goals in the third period, the Boston Bruins defeated the New York Rangers tonight, 4 to 3, in a speedy National Hockey league contest. The belated triumph enabled the Bruins to continue their remarkable record of not having lost a game to the Rangers in more than two years.

A speedy play by Art Chapman, late in the period gave the Bruins the winning goal. With Boston a man short on a penalty, Chapman got away from a five man Ranger attack, outskated his pursuers and netted a quick shot.

The Rangers took the lead three times in the first two periods on brilliant individual dashes by Paul Thompson and Bill Regan and a clever three man attack in which Butch Keeling scored. Dit Clapper tied the score for Boston the first time and Cooney Weiland knotted it up again in the second and third periods.

LES CANADIENS WIN, 7-1.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The flashing skaters of Montreal's Les Canadiens buried the Philadelphia Quakers under a 7 to 1 count in a National Hockey league game here tonight.

The Quakers held the Canadiens in check in the first period, but the Canadiens opened up a flashing attack in the second and third periods to turn the game into a route.

Joliat, Gagnon, and Sylvio Mantha were the principal factors in the Canadiens' offense. Gagnon scored two goals and assisted in another. Joliat counted once and had two assists. Mantha tallied once and aided in another counter.

MAPLE LEAFS WIN.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs unleashed a fast third period drive to beat Ottawa, 3 to 2, in a National Hockey league game here tonight. The victory enabled the Leafs to gain undisputed possession of second place in the Canadian division.

A revamped lineup enabled Ottawa to hold a big edge on play in the first two periods and the Senators held a 2 to 0 lead as the third period began. In the final frame, however, Toronto knotted the count within two and a half minutes on goals by Conacher and Jackson, and 11 minutes later Jackson won the game with his second goal of the evening.

MAJESTICS OPEN TITLE PLAY WITH BRUINS SUNDAY

There will be a collegiate tinge to the clash of the Majestics and the Bruins Sunday night at the Broadway armory in the first game of a series for the city basketball championship. Charley Murphy, center at Loyola university for the last two years, plays the pivot position for the Bruins, while the Majestics boast four college men in their lineup. Maury Farber and Bud Foster both received all-conference mention while playing at Wisconsin, while Tommy Cunningham is regarded as the best basketball player ever produced at De Paul university. Herbie Lutz, one of the Majestics' reserves, played for two years with Crane college.

FORMER CHICAGO POLOIST RIDES WITH BROOKLYN

Capt. Warren Sackman, a former Chicagoan, will be in Brooklyn Riding and Driving club's lineup when the eastern squad meets the 124th Field Artillery Polo team, the North Shore club, and the Chicago Riding club, tomorrow and Sunday at the 124th Field Artillery armory. Sackman carries a rating of eight goals.

The three outstanding players during the series will represent Chicago in the national championship tournament at New York next month. The Brooklyn squad will defend its title in the meet.

Turf Association Passes Semi-Annual Dividend

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The American Turf association, operating the Louisville and Latonia race tracks in Kentucky and tracks at Lincoln Fields and Washington Park, Ill., passed its semi-annual dividend today. The directors said the action was caused by "falling off in earnings due to business depression." The last dividend was declared in August at a rate of $1.75 annually.

Day Loses Semi-Final Match at Miami Beach

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 29.—(AP)—J. B. Ryerson of Cooperstown, N. Y., and Kenneth Berry of Miami went into the finals of the Miami Beach men's amateur golf championship by winning their semi-final matches today from Pony McAtee, Jamaica, L. I., and Win Day, Chicago, respectively.

Four Maroon Squads Busy Tomorrow

Four University of Chicago teams will go into action tomorrow night, two in Bartlett gymnasium and two at Minneapolis.

The basketball team, revived by the return of Sid Yates, leader on offense, plays Minnesota in a return game. The Maroons beat the Gophers by one point here two weeks ago. Midway fans are inclined to minimize the 41 to 15 defeat at the hands of Michigan, pointing out that the outcome would have been quite different with Yates, their best scorer and floor man, in the game. He has recovered from his siege of the flu and should be popping away at the basket with his usual accuracy at Minneapolis.

Bartlett gymnasium will resemble a two ring circus with the track team meeting Purdue on the board track while the swimming team meets Ohio State in the natatorium. Both events are scheduled for 8 p. m. The track team defeated Loyola in their first meeting this season, but the swimming team lost to the Minnesota squad.

Coach Vorres takes his wrestlers to Minneapolis for their first tussle of the season.

TONY CANZONERI TO ARRIVE TODAY FOR HESS FIGHT

Tony Canozneri, lightweight champion, will return to Chicago today for the first time since he won his crown from Al Singer last fall. He will come here from his home in New Orleans to begin training for his ten round bout with Goldie Hess at the Chicago stadium next Wednesday.

Canzoneri defeated Johnny Farr last Monday in his first fight as the 135 pound champion. This bout and the work he has mapped out for himself at the Chicago's loop gymnasium are calculated by his trainer, Lou Fink, to put Tony in shape for Hess.

Holds Decision Over Hess.

On his last visit here, Canzoneri lost a hard fought ten round bout to Billy Petrolle. This was before he met Singer in New York for the title and just after he had finished winning over Hess in the east.

Tony says Hess is responsible for his defeat in the Petrolle fight. Hess took the fight on four day's notice, serving as a substitute, and flew from the coast to New York, arriving the day before the fight. Although he lost the decision he softened Tony for Petrolle.

Hess has agreed to come in over 135 pounds Wednesday. This will not force Canzoneri to risk his title. But Hess expects to wedge his way into the leading contendership by defeating Tony and then come back next summer or sooner for a title shot.

Other Boxers Arrive Sunday.

Jose Santa, Portuguese heavyweight, is expected to arrive Saturday morning to begin training for his bout with Knute Hansen of Kenosha, in one of the other three ten round bouts. Hansen will arrive Sunday. With Hansen will be Kid Francis, the sleek Parisian, who meets George Nate of South Bend, in another ten rounder. Marty Gallagher, the Washington heavyweight, who meets Larry Johnson, also is due on Sunday. This will bring all the principals on Wednesday's card into local gyms before Monday.

The new Oldsmobile is quick to start—it gathers speed rapidly—and it is unusually fast on the road. This finer all-round performance is the result of several important new features which have been added to Oldsmobile's dependable engine. Chief among these is new down-draft carburetion—the source of increased power, higher speed, and faster acceleration. Also, a newly-designed crankshaft-balancer assures unusual smoothness. And a new carburetor-silencer contributes to quieter operation at all speeds.

In addition, new grace and beauty have been added to Oldsmobile's distinctive appearance. Refinements in design give special emphasis to Oldsmobile's long, low, fleet-looking lines. And smart new tailoring and appointments add to the attractiveness of the new Fisher body interiors.

Contributing still further to the desirability of the new Oldsmobile is its remarkable ease of control. The famous Syncro-Mesh transmission—a feature heretofore found only in higher priced cars—permits silent shifting through all gears . . . from low into second, from second to high and from high back to second, as desired. And a new Quiet Second Gear, added to Oldsmobile's Syncro-Mesh transmission, assures smooth, swift acceleration which rivals high gear performance in quietness.

Examine these and other important features of the 1931 Oldsmobile when you visit the show. Consider the importance of these features in the light of Oldsmobile's new lower price . . . and decide for yourself how much they add to value.

MILLER TO TAKE INGRAM'S PLACE AS NAVY COACH

Former Notre Dame Star Is Promoted.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Edgar E. (Rip) Miller, all-American guard at Notre Dame in 1924 and line coach at the naval academy for the last five years, will succeed Navy Bill Ingram as head football coach.

Miller has been a member of the coaching staff at the academy since 1926, when Ingram first took over the head reins and turned out an undefeated team. He came to the academy fresh from the Notre Dame outfit which made history in the football world, being one of the line mules who made possible the record of the Four Horsemen of that year.

Officials Said He'd Return.

Naval academy athletic officials would neither confirm nor deny that Miller had been selected for the vacancy created when Ingram signed a contract to become head coach at the University of California, but did say he would return to the academy as a coach.

A high athletic official said, however, that Miller had been agreed on, but that the formal announcement of the appointment would not be made for several days. Miller was mentioned for head coach as soon as it was rumored that Ingram would not return, and Navy authorities were quick to make it known that Miller had agreed to return to the Middies. They would not at that time confirm the statement that the former Notre Dame star would succeed Ingram.

Bierman Considered for Post.

Bob Bierman, coach at Tulane university, was among those under consideration for the Navy post. Had Miller not been selected, overtures from Ingram and the California authorities to have him coach the Bears' line were expected.

Ingram and Miller had only fair success with the Middies last season.

INGRAM TAKES CHEVIGNY.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Jack Chevigny, Notre Dame backfield coach and former Irish star, said here tonight that he was going to become an assistant football coach under Bill Ingram at the University of California. Chevigny, whose home is in Hammond, was expected to return here next year, but rumors have persisted that California was seeking his services. He has coached here two years under Knute Rockne.

HARPER DEFEATS DR. HARRIS, 50-34, IN FIRST BLOCK

Robert B. Harper, Denver, defending champion, won the opening block in the national amateur championship three cushion billiard match against Dr. Andrew J. Harris, Chicago, at the Chicago Athletic association yesterday afternoon, 50 to 34, in 61 innings. He had a high run of five against Harper's four. The second block of the three block, 150 point match will start at 3:30 this afternoon. The final block will be played tomorrow.

Harper got away to an early lead and never was in danger. He executed many difficult shots, but many of his misses came on relatively easy chances.

West Parks' Ice Carnival to Be Held Tomorrow

The west parks will hold their annual winter sports ice carnival tomorrow at the Garfield park lagoon.

According to William J. H. Schultz, superintendent of small parks and playgrounds, more than 1,000 boys and girls, men and women will participate on skates and in costumes. The program will consist of speed races for boys and girls of all ages, ice boat races [boats made by boys from the different parks], and a dog and sled Derby [a dog pulling a boy on a sled for 200 feet].

The feature event will be the costume parade. Costumes which will be worn by the entrants in this parade have been made at the various west parks, under the supervision of recreation instructors. All contestants for this affair have been previously registered at one of the west park playgrounds.

DE PAUL SUBS MAY GET CHANCE AGAINST DETROIT

De Paul university's basketball team will face one of its biggest tests of the season tonight when it battles Detroit university at De Paul gym. The Demonds will be seeking their eighth victory of the year. Coach Kelly's anticipation of a great battle are not without basis when Detroit's record its surveyed. The Motor city five has been defeated in only one game by Marquette.

Stix Powers, De Paul forward and captain, dominates the offensive with clever ball handling and passing. Heine Coan, leading scorer in the De Paul lineup, is strong under the basket. John Ascher, rangy center, plays the back court in fine style.

The O'Connor boys appear as guards. Joe is the more valuable in passing, while Bud figures as a more dependable performer on defense.

However, the first string lineup is not at all certain of starting tonight. Coach Kelly declared last night that the reserves have been playing great ball in practice all week. As a result the Blue Demon shock troops may be first to test the Detroit strength.

If so, Larites and Doody will start at forwards, Pete Barskis will operate at center, and Hahn and Johnson will handle the guards.

The Demons have been inactive for more than a week and a half owing to examinations.

NEW YORK PAIR WINS 1ST ROUND RACQUETS MATCH

B. C. Pell and H. G. Mortener, members of the Racquet and Tennis club of New York, yesterday defeated Homer Dixon and Lucien Williams of Chicago in the first round of the national doubles squash racquets championship tournament at the Racquet club. The scores were 15-8, 15-8, 15-11.

The semi-final round will be played this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with the final match scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. The results of the first round matches were:

B. C. Pell and H. G. Mortener beat H. L. Dixon and Lucien Williams, 15-8, 15-8, 15-11.
W. F. Krahl and Arthur Tuttle beat J. D. Standish and L. L. Bladin, 15-9, 15-6, 18-13.
H. Linn and R. Gardner beat G. Blossom and C. E. Manierre, 15-5, 15-5, 15-5.
A. L. Corey and Palmer Dixon beat W. V. MacIlvan Jr. and T. Gregory, 15-4, 15-4, 15-5.

ZAHAROFF AND STEELE GRAPPLE MONDAY NIGHT

Two supporting matches to the George Zaharias-Jim Clinkstock feature were arranged yesterday for the five event wresting show next Monday night at the 132d Infantry armory, Madison and Rockwell streets.

Ray Steele, who defeated Fred Grobmier a few weeks ago, will meet Ivan Zaharoff, New York Russian. Another match will find Pat O'Shocker, Salt Lake City, against Jack Washburn, Hollywood heavyweight.

Promoter Minkley is trying to induce Karl Pojello, Lithuanian heavyweight, to appear in a special match on the card. Pojello was to have appeared here recently, but was unable to free himself from contracts in New York.

The semi-windup brings together Frank Brunovicz, undefeated here this winter in four starts, and Nick Velcoff, Bulgarian who has been headquartering in California.

Thus three newcomers to Chicago fans this season, Velcoff, O'Shocker, and Zaharoff, will show their wares.

Chicago Skaters Leave for National Ice Meet

Eddie Schroeder, Frank Stack, and Elizabeth DuBois, the season's leading speed skaters, will leave this afternoon for Ocnomowoc, Wis., to compete in the national ice skating meet tomorrow and Sunday. Frank Kalteux, Harry Berz, and J. P. Fitzgerald, Illinois Western Skating association officials, also will leave.

G. F. SWIFT BUYS RESIDENCE SITE IN LAKE FOREST

Two Other Deals in Same Suburb Reported.

BY AL CHASE.

G. F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., has purchased a residence site in the Green Bay subdivision of the Campbell Realty company in Lake Forest for an undisclosed consideration. The property is 350x200, facing south on Cherokee road. The brokers intimate that the new owner will build shortly on his property.

Another deal in the same subdivision, reported by Charles P. Campbell, president of the Campbell Realty company, is the sale of a site to Albert R. Mathian on which a $30,000 residence is to be erected by the Campbell firm. Plans are now being drawn in the Campbell office.

A third deal reported by Mr. Campbell is the lease of a residence on Waveland road to Herbert McLaughlin of the Manor House Coffee company.

Report Lease Activity.

Frankenstein & Co. report an active opening of the renting season, having closed leases aggregating $218,000. Among them are the following: For the 24 story Millinery Center building at 65 East South Water street, Spiegel Bros., five years, $56,000; Merit Hat company, seven years, $38,400; J. M. Bundscho, Inc., seven years, $33,800; Max Bernard, three years, $5,700.

For the Insurance Center building at Wells and Van Buren, Frankenstein & Co. report the following: National Miller Publications, seven years, $31,500; College of Advanced Traffic, five years, $19,500. They also report leasing the entire sixth floor at 183 North Michigan to the Merrimac-Kenyon corporation for a term of years. Harmon L. Waterstone was broker in all of the foregoing leases.

27 Story Flats 100 Per Cent Occupied.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the 5000 East End Avenue Building corporation, held at the Chicago Beach hotel, William F. Dineen was elected president. According to him, the various reports read by the officers of the corporation showed it to be in excellent financial condition.

"During the year's operation the original budget set aside was adequate to take care of all obligations of the twenty-seven story building without the necessity of a special assessment," said Mr. Dineen. "The interest and amortization payments were reported paid in full to date. The treasurer reported a bank balance of $4,071 and a tax reserve fund of $18,500 on hand for future tax purposes. Carroll, Schendorf & Boenicke, management agents, report the building 100 per cent occupied."

W. H. Schendorf was elected vice president; Charles S. Macaulay was named secretary, and James J. Carroll, treasurer. John G. Drennan, George H. White, and Meyer Fridstein were elected directors.

Enjoins Building of Cross State Railroad

Portland, Ore., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The Federal Circuit court today enjoined the interstate commerce commission from enforcing its order to the Union Pacific railroad to build a cross state railroad from Crane to Crescent lake. The decision, the first of its kind, was designed as a test of the power of the commission to force a railroad to build against its will. The ruling held the interstate commerce commission had exceeded its authority in ordering the Oregon - Washington Railroad and Navigation company, subsidiary of the Union Pacific, to construct the 136 miles of road from the heart of eastern Oregon westward.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Cotton goods were generally steady today; finished goods were in better demand. Burlaps were unchanged. Silk was less firm, with trading in silk goods showing an increase. Wool goods were in moderate demand for men's and women's clothing. Rayon yarn sellers reported a continued demand for multi-filament types for weaving and knitting.

SEARS-ROEBUCK BUSINESS IS 2D BEST IN HISTORY

Net 1930 Earnings Are $14,308,897.

BY O. A. MATHER.

As the result of last year's depression and declining commodity prices, the sales and profits of Sears, Roebuck & Co., premier mail order and chain store concern, declined considerably. Nevertheless, the volume of business was the second largest in the company's history, being exceeded only in 1929, and the cash dividend was more than earned.

Net sales for 1930 totaled $355,180,257, compared with $415,389,987 in 1929. Net income was $14,308,897, equivalent to $3.01 a share on 4,747,673 no-par shares. This more than covered the $2.50 annual cash dividend, which totaled $11,528,960.

In addition, stock dividends totaling 6 per cent were paid and these were capitalized at $4,611,525, which resulted in reducing the company's surplus by $1,891,587 to $77,365,008. Net income for 1929 was $30,057,652, or $6.62 a share on 4,537,654 shares of capital stock.

Wood Expresses Confidence.

In commenting on last year's operations, Gen. R. E. Wood, president, expressed confidence in betterment during the present year.

"It would appear that commodity prices, on the whole, are on the bottom," he said. "With a volume equal to 1930, both the mail order and retail business can make more profits in 1931. Overhead has been sharply reduced wherever possible and the employed personnel is 10 to 15 per cent less than a year ago. But no cuts have been made in salaries or wages and we have no thought of reducing wages, as we do not believe this is the correct principle to follow in meeting business depression.

"Despite a decline of 12 per cent in gross sales last year, the percentage of gross profit remained the same, a real achievement on the part of our merchants, who, in the face of rapidly declining commodity prices, took no unusual inventory depreciation. Each branch of the business showed a profit, the mail order, the retail stores and the factories."

Drop Stock Dividends in May.

Gen. Wood calls attention to the sharp reduction in inventories, which were $60,090,265 at the end of 1930, compared with $77,937,238 at the end of 1929. Inventories now are lower than in 1928, when the company did $43,000,000 less business than in 1930, and also less than in 1920, when $135,000,000 less business was done than last year. The balance sheet shows current assets of $129,873,613 and current liabilities of $32,983,923.

Confidence in the company's maintenance of its cash dividend was expressed by Gen. Wood, but stock dividends will be discontinued after next May. The number of stockholders increased 27,700 last year.

Bethlehem Steel Earns $23,843,406 During 1930

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Although the Bethlehem Steel corporation today reported fourth quarter net earnings of only 17 cents a common share, directors felt that the prospect of improvement during the current year was sufficiently bright to justify payment of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, mostly from surplus.

"I feel that we are going to have gradually improving conditions throughout 1931," said Eugene G. Grace, president. "We are not going to have as good a first half as last year; we can't expect to come up that fast."

Bethlehem Steel had net income of $2,291,000 in the final quarter of 1930, against $3,783,425, or 63 cents a share, in the previous three months, and $10,046,197, or $2.75 a share, in the comparable period of 1929.

Net earnings for 1930 were $23,843,406, equal to $5.26 a share of common on 3,200,000 shares, against $42,243,000, or $11.01 per share on the same number of shares in the record peacetime year, 1929. Net income in 1928 was $18,585,900, or $6.52 a share on 1,800,000 shares.

The company reported cash and liquid securities on hand as of Dec. 31, 1930, amounted to $57,818,962 against $196,019,079, including cash reserved for retirement of bonds, as of Dec. 31, 1929. Cash expenditures for additions and improvements to properties in 1930 amounted to $47,158,004. The estimated cost to complete construction authorized and in progress as of Dec. 31, 1930, was $14,820,449.

The report disclosed that gross earnings in 1930 totaled $258,979,253, compared with $342,516,207 in 1929.

Views on Current Quarter.

Mr. Grace said it was reasonable to expect that earnings for the current quarter would be appreciably better than those of the preceding quarter. The recently achieved stability of prices for steel products had been helpful, he said, and some impetus had been provided by the seasonal pickup in business. The company's plants, he explained, are currently working at 46 per cent of capacity, against a minimum of 30 per cent reached in December.

Mr. Grace, informed of rumors that Bethlehem is negotiating for acquisition of the McClintic-Marshall company of Pittsburgh, a large maker of structural steel, replied, "I cannot comment on it." He also declined to discuss the injunction restraining the merger of Bethlehem with Youngstown Sheet and Tube company other than to say the papers for the appeal to be taken were in preparation.

Will Maintain Wages.

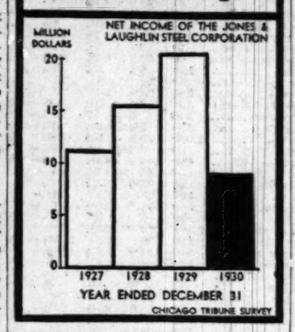
Regarding conditions in the steel industry Mr. Grace said improvement was not confined to any particular line, but that all lines were "a little better." He said it was the "hope, expectation, and policy of the management to maintain wages," because workers were making their contribution through part time labor.

Mr. Grace thought the total earnings for the year, which amounted to $5.26 a share, actually showed greater earning power than the $11.01 a share earned in the record year of 1929, as computed on the present capitalization. He said the lower price of steel alone reduced income by fully $6 a share and, in addition, operations for the year averaged less than 62 per cent of capacity, against about 92 per cent in 1929.

The earnings for the entire year fell short of dividends by only $2,356,594. Earnings of 17 cents a share in the final quarter were the lowest since the third quarter of 1924, when preferred dividends were not fully earned. Total 1930 earnings per share, however, were 20 cents above those reported for 1927.

Gulf States Steel company had net loss of $815,334, as compiled from the quarterly reports, in 1930, against net profit of $1,310,301, or $5.29 a common share, in 1929. For the last quarter of 1930 the corporation reports net loss of $614,046, against net profit of $223,440, or 95 cents a share, for the corresponding 1929 period.

Big Independent Steel Company Reports Its Earnings at 56 per Cent Less Than a Year Ago



DU PONT COMPANY EARNS $55,962,009 DURING LAST YEAR

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The annual report of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. for 1930, issued today, shows earnings applicable to common stock were $49,990,029, or $4.64 a share earned on the average number of 10,783,555 shares outstanding. This compares with $72,300,627, or $7.09 a share on the average number of 10,196,777 shares outstanding for 1929.

The net income for 1930 was $55,962,009, equal to 9.4 times the debenture stock dividends and was in excess of dividend requirements of both debenture and common stock by $2,900,197. Net income for 1929 was $78,171,730.

Commenting on business conditions as affecting the company, the report says:

"Some of the departments and subsidiaries encountered substantial reduction in volume, which was counteracted to an important extent by increase in others."

Crime Costs City Millions Yearly in Insurance Rates

BY SCRUTATOR.

Crime costs in Chicago!

In insurance rates alone the prevalence of theft and holdups requires payments running into the millions of dollars. These rates are based on experience tables, and they could be cut tremendously if conditions were even reasonably good. In many classifications of property and forms of economic endeavor the saving would be half.

To protect your property in Chicago against holdup, if you are in the hazardous lines, like jewelry and the retailing of furs, you pay a maximum of $66 a thousand. In New York the similar rate would be $30, and in Philadelphia $20. Los Angeles and Kansas City used to have similar high rates, Kansas City's being up with Detroit and Chicago as the highest in the country. They have improved; now what costs $66 here costs $40 in the coast city and the Missouri center.

Some Decline Risk.

Some insurance companies won't write burglary or robbery insurance in Cook county, even at the high rates. Two large ones won't insure the open stocks of merchants on their shelves against burglary. It's a matter of business with them. One concern reports that over a five year period it paid out 80 per cent of its premiums, collected to insure against interior robberies in the daytime, to cover losses. The statement is made that it would require a loss ratio of only 50 per cent for this company to make anything on the business.

Take the automobile and consider it. To insure one popular make of car in Chicago, against theft the rate fixed and used by 200 companies belonging to the National Automobile Underwriters' association is $2 per year for each $100 of valuation. In Cleveland, Detroit, Cincinnati, and St. Louis it costs $1, just half as much. The rate on a well known car, smaller and even more plentiful, is $2.45 a hundred here and $1.20 in other cities of the middle west.

Estimates Payments.

Possibly five million dollars are paid to protect Chicago's automobiles against theft each year. The rates quoted above are not even for all companies, but if the rate of theft was no larger and the recovery of stolen cars no smaller than in other cities, this item alone might slice two and a half millions from the cost of living in Chicago.

Residence Burglary Rates.

In 1929 Chicago paid premiums of $1,200,000 for insurance against residence burglary to companies who are assumed to be doing about three-fourths of this kind of business. Rates for this protection run as high as $32 per thousand. In Montreal $10 covers the cost. The reason is plain. Canadians don't approve of burglary and robbery. One large company doing business in the dominion reports that it paid just one holdup and no burglary losses there last year, and that the one holdup man was in jail twenty-four hours after the crime was committed.

It may be of interest to note that a furrier has to pay a maximum of $75 a thousand per year to insure his goods against burglars. It costs the same in New York for this classification, also in Los Angeles. But if you happen to have a certain type safe and want to get something back if it's blown, you have to pay $44 here, in Detroit, Cleveland, and Kansas City, but only $27 in New York, $22 in Philadelphia, and $33 in Los Angeles.

Pays Around Top Rates.

These rates are exact for most risk companies and fairly representative of others. In general they are the more hazardous risks.

Reductions in these charges are made if the insured takes certain protective precautions himself. Nevertheless it remains true that Chicago is paying just about the top rates all along the line, and that three, four, or five millions a year in burglary, theft, and robbery insurance premiums could be saved if crime were effectively curbed and punished. If the insurance companies can't make money even at the high rates, it is difficult to see where anybody but the criminals get any benefit out of the existing condition.

New York, Jan. 29.—Bare knuckled operations for the advance in behalf of a selected group of stocks combined with a spell of short covering in another set to bring about an irregular improvement of the share market in the late dealings today.

Trading was again light, the day's volume approximating only 1,600,000 shares.

There is no doubt the speculative fraternity is very much at sea over the immediate business outlook just at present. A majority seem to feel that better times are in the offing, but even the most bullish of them are compelled to admit that concrete evidence to back their convictions is badly lacking.

Bank on the Future.

On the other hand it is pretty generally admitted that conditions are certainly not growing any worse and many are inclined to give themselves the benefit of the doubt and bank on the side of coming prosperity. Hence

BURLINGTON REPORTS NET OF $21,979,860; EQUALS $12.75 SHARE

The Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy railroad for 1930 had net income of $21,979,860, equal to $12.75 a share, against $29,576,538, or $17.31 a share, in 1929, it was reported yesterday.

The preliminary report of the Illinois Central system showed for 1930 net income equal to $6.01 a share on the common stock, against $9.14 reported for 1929. St. Louis Southwestern railway's preliminary statement showed a net loss of $445,481, compared with net earnings equal to 64 cents a common share in 1929.

December net operating income of the first sixty-seven railroads to report totaled $39,591,000, a decrease of 30.1 per cent from the $56,709,000 total for the same month of 1929. The decline from December, 1928, amounted to 43.8 per cent. Last November the net operating income of these roads aggregated $48,053,000.

Gross last month was $284,690,000, against $354,550,000 in December, 1929, a decline of 19.7 per cent, and $375,731,000 in 1928, a drop of 24.2 per cent. Gross for November, 1930, was $300,018,000.

	1930.	1929.
New York Central	$2,830,000	$5,534,967
Central of Georgia	237,785	373,907

Net income of the M. K. & T. lines for 1930 was equal to $3 a share on the common stock, against $5.10 a share in the previous year.

S. S. KRESGE CO. NET FOR YEAR IS $10,621,151

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 29.—Commenting upon the operations of the S. S. Kresge company in 1930, which showed net earnings of $10,621,151, equal to $1.90 a share on the common, against $14,952,211, or $2.68 a share in 1929, C. B. Van Dusen, president, says that it is the intention of the company to maintain the $1.60 dividend this year. The dividend for the first quarter has been declared on that basis.

"The business of our stores dealing in low priced merchandise was highly satisfactory, being equivalent very closely in volume and almost identical in profits with the preceding year," Mr. Van Dusen said. "Those stores dealing in higher priced merchandise suffered a shrinkage in volume and profits.

"We look forward to 1931 with a great deal of confidence, encouraged in that feeling by reason of a very definite improvement in business as evidenced by increases in sales each week so far this year, and because it is reasonable to believe that the reaction in commodity prices is about over."

Hear Advance in Gasoline Is Likely in Eastern Area

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Wall street reports state that several of the major distributors are considering advancing gasoline prices one cent a gallon on both bulk and retail quotations in New York and New England. It was said the advance is likely to occur first in the tank car price in New York harbor, which now is 7 cents a gallon, although reports said few companies are willing to sell any sizable quantities at that level.

BROKERS' LOANS DROP

Brokers' loans declined $23,000,000 further in the last week, according to the weekly report of the federal reserve board. There has been only one increase in the last eighteen weeks. The current total of $1,734,000,000 sets another new low record and marks a decline of $1,611,000,000 from a year ago. The New York banks reduced their own loans by $12,000,000, the interior banks withdrew $2,000,000 and nonbanking lenders, including corporations, drew down $9,000,000 in the last week.

There also was a slump in the demand for commercial credit in the last week, according to the weekly statement of the federal reserve system. The member banks repaid $14,748,000 to the reserve banks, bringing their borrowings down to $215,137,000, and the reserve banks absorbed surplus credit by selling $31,384,000 of bankers' acceptances and $14,714,000 of government securities. Note circulation dropped $39,541,000 and deposits receded $3,679,000.

Gold and total reserves expanded $11,566,000 and $24,148,000 respectively. Gold imports totaled $3,033,00, coming from Latin America, and there were no exports. The ratio of total reserves to liabilities rose to 82.7 per cent, compared with 81.2 per cent last week.

Borrowings Decline.

The New York reserve bank made no change in its rediscount rate. Its report showed member bank borrowings declined $19,073,000 to a total of $83,594,000. Holdings of bankers' acceptances and government securities receded $4,481,000 and $15,000,000 respectively. Deposits expanded $3,098,000. Reserves increased $8,456,000 and the reserves ratio rose to 86.6 per cent, compared with 85 per cent a week ago.

Legge Says Gov't Losses Protect Loans of Banks

Alexander Legge of the federal farm board, replying to questions asked by grain men, said that had not the farm board bought wheat in November and supported the market there would have been an entirely different situation, involving a possible panic. Banks in the country had loans on wheat which would have been difficult for grain interests to protect, he said, and losses of $200,000,000 to the government farm board would have been small when considering the possible losses of the banks and the ultimate effect on business which such a condition would have brought about.

FOUR DEFINITE FUNCTIONS OF Life Insurance

WHEN you have purchased life insurance as an isolated asset, you have by no means completed your arrangements. The next and equally important step is to define and harness it to the specific functions it is to perform.

1 If you are without capital, it permits you to buy an estate now . . . and then pay for it in small annual installments. You can protect this estate and project it into the future welfare of your family just as the well-to-do man handles the property he leaves under will . . . placing it in trust and thus removing it from all uncertainty.

2 If you have some money but large family responsibilities, you may instantly increase your estate to an adequate figure through life insurance . . . and then so trustee both your property and your insurance that definite and enduring support is assured your dependents.

3 If you are a person of means, you may save your estate loss and embarrassment by making life insurance available . . . under a trust arrangement . . . for debts, inheritance taxes, and administration costs.

4 If you are a partner or own an interest in a close corporation, you and your associates may now arrange to finance the purchase of each other's interests at death through life insurance in trust . . . thus liquidating the holdings of the diseased member of the firm and keeping the company under the control of the survivors.

Life insurance is an economic force of such obvious value that people buy it as a matter of course. Its general worth, however, should never cloud its specific functions. Practical plans for accomplishing whatever you have in mind for your insurance money are discussed in our booklet, "The Life Insurance Trust and Its Uses."

BUTLER BROS. SHOWS DEFICIT OF $2,542,306

Expansion During Trade Depression Cited.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Carrying on an extensive expansion program in a year of general trade depression resulted in a deficit in 1930 of more than $2,500,000 for Butler Brothers, Chicago retail merchandising and mail order company.

The company's report, made public yesterday by President Frank S. Cunningham at the annual stockholders' meeting, disclosed a loss of $2,542,306 for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31. President Cunningham told stockholders that everything conspired to make 1930 the most trying and unsatisfactory year in the company's history.

In 1929 the company earned net profit of $1,442,453, equivalent to $1.26 a share on the 1,138,110 shares of capital stock outstanding. Not since 1921 had the earning results been so unfavorable as they were in 1930. During the depression year of 1921 the company suffered a loss of $3,607,550.

Holds Strong Position.

Despite the large deficit the company ended 1930 in a strong financial position. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31 shows current assets of $23,628,936, as compared with current liabilities of $2,411,270, as against $27,022,362 and $1,897,622 at the close of 1929. Current assets included cash of $2,813,577 and accounts receivable of $10,993,859, which compares with $3,796,140 and $11,361,654 respectively at the end of the previous year. Surplus at the end of 1930 stood at $4,390,445, against $7,297,282 at the end of 1929.

President Cunningham stated that the number of retail outlets now totals 107. It was originally planned to open 80 Scott stores during the year, but because of trade conditions only 49 were opened, he stated.

Mr. Cunningham told stockholders that he believed the major share of retail distribution would continue through independent stores, but that chain merchandising was feasible in the larger towns. Through its retail subsidiaries the company will be in a position to secure outlets in each field, he said.

Clyde O. Bedell was elected a director of the company to succeed Albert W. Wright, resigned. Mr. Bedell is director of sales and advertising.

Shares Are Steady.

The issuance of the Butler report caused no ripple in the market of the company's shares on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Only a few hundred shares were traded in around 5%, the previous price. The results had been largely discounted in previous market action.

Elsewhere in the list closing prices among the active stocks were moderately higher. In the early trading prices had sold off moderately. A brisk rally in the last hour of trade carried values of leading issues above the level of Wednesday's final prices for modest net gains. Outstanding in the group which registered moderate improvement were United States Radio and Borg Warner. Lesser gains were marked up for other trading favorites.

Heads Varnish Firm

HEATH WOOD.

Heath Wood of Chicago has been elected president of the Standard Varnish works of New York, it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Wood is the son of John H. Wood, a director and general manager of the retail store of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., and a grandson of Monroe Heath, one time mayor of Chicago. He started with the organization in 1921 as general sales manager of the Standard Varnish company of Chicago, later becoming president on the death of R. D. Robson. When the Chicago firm merged with the Standard Varnish works of New York Mr. Wood became a vice president of the combined organization.

Mr. Wood will retain his Chicago residence, dividing his time between Chicago and New York. The Chicago plant of the company is located at 26th and Federal streets.

Nondepositing Bondholders.

1. Please inform me whether an investor who does not take part or submit his bonds to a protective committee organized in connection with a defaulted bond issue secures the same settlement as the committee succeeds in making with the company in default, or must he then arrange an individual settlement?

2. Also, can an investor recall his securities from a committee which has taken them over at the time of default?—H. S.

1. If the property securing defaulted bonds is merely sold to a third party, then the proceeds of such a sale would be divided pro rata among the bondholders.

Usually, however, when a protective committee is organized an effort is made to do something more than foreclose, sell the property and divide the receipts.

The case of the Longwood Towers bonds is a good illustration.

Longwood Towers [formerly Alden Park Manor] is a large apartment hotel in Brookline, Mass., a suburb of Boston. A first mortgage bond issue, sold through American Bond and Mortgage company, aggregating $2,750,000, was in default. Taxes were unpaid. A committee which was formed to protect the bondholders succeeded in securing deposit of 91.6 per cent of the bonds outstanding.

The committee got hold of the property at the foreclosure sale. The bid was $650,000. A new first mortgage of $1,200,000 was placed on the property. This loan was made by a large insurance company.

The nondepositing bondholders were given their pro rata share of the foreclosure bid, netting them about 13 cents on the dollar in cash.

The depositing bondholders received a cash distribution of about 34 cents on the dollar from the proceeds of the new first mortgage. In addition they received preferred stock for the balance. The new first mortgage is to be paid off at the rate of $25,000 semi-annually, and as it is paid off the position o fthe preferred stock is improved.

2. After a bondholders' protective committee has adopted a plan of action it is submitted to the depositing bondholders for their approval. The latter are given the privilege of withdrawing until a given date if they do not favor the plan. They must, of course, pay their pro rata share of the expenses of the committee.

Rickenbacker Motor.

I have 100 shares of Rickenbacker Motor company stock. I would appreciate your advice as to whether it can be written off as a loss in making up my income tax report for 1930.—F. C. C.

Rickenbacker Motor company has been dissolved and its property sold. We find no quotations later than December, 1929, when 300 shares were sold at auction at $1 for the lot. It is apparently without value now.

TRAYLOR INFERS THAT WAGE SCALE SHOULD BE CUT

Seeks Conference to Form New Economic Policy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 29.—Opposing spending government outlay for public improvements as a remedy for unemployment, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago, in an address today before the Kiwanis Club of Dallas, called for a conference representing labor, business, industry, and government to "formulate a new national economic policy to check the recurrence of depressions.

A fundamental of such a policy, Mr. Traylor said, would be a wage scale sensitive to either rising or falling prices, and his inference was that the present situation of declining prices there should be a general reduction of wages.

Traces Depression Causes.

In reaching his conclusion Mr. Traylor traced the causes of the current depression from wartime expansion of industry and agriculture through the boom period of sustaining that inflation, with the rise in demand financed by installment buying and stock speculation, but with no corresponding increase in commodity prices. "With increasingly mechanized and modernized plants producing more than the world is consumed, he said, the overstimulated demand finally collapsed through the exhaustion of purchasing power.

Thus, declaring that relief from "paying too much money" did not result in "borrowing more," Mr. Traylor called plans for relief of ensuing unemployment by a $1,500,000,000 government expenditure for public improvements at this time as giving only "temporary employment to a relatively limited number of workers."

Criticizes Debt Retirement.

He also criticized the government's debt retirement policy during the period of the depression, recommending instead a slower amortization of the obligation incurred by the world war, with a consequent lifting of the burden of taxation," on the ground that this generation should not pay the entire cost of the war.

He further demanded a removal of the evil of "prospective government competition" upon railroads and utilities, and urged in its place "intelligent" regulation lest they come to "disastrous" and favored stronger "central banking" control, but, on the side of government, pleaded for freedom of business from the "complexities and restrictions of multiplying laws."

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL was moderately active with a barely steady tone most of the day, although there was late improvement owing to the more encouraging action of grains and cotton. Closing prices were net unchanged to 4 points lower. Sales were 1,000 bbls. Prime crude, f.o.b. mills, spot, 7.25c; March, 7.40c; May, July, 7.63c; September, 7.71c.

CORN MARKET OVERSOLD AND PRICES RALLY

Short Covering Contributes to 2c Advance.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The corn market executed a right about face movement yesterday after an early break that carried all deliveries off to a new low for the season with the May touching 63½c, or 6⅝c under the high of last week.

Commission houses and shorts absorbed the surplus in the pit, and when general short covering started in sympathy with the pronounced strength in wheat a heavily oversold condition was disclosed. Prices advanced 2c from the inside figures and the upturn was not checked until free selling developed by holders of offers closing trades were on a fair reaction from the top, but at net gains of 1@1½c, March being 63¾@63½c; May, 65¼c; July, 66⅛c, and September, 65⅞@66c.

According to the gossip of the trade the short interest in corn was increased on Wednesday's break, as many of the holders of bids did not buy against them that day, and the desire to secure profits was a factor in causing the strong upturn yesterday. There was nothing in the news to account for the advance, other than the strong technical position.

Cash Corn in Demand.

A slight improvement in the shipping demand for cash corn was reported with sales by local handlers of 84,000 bu, while country offerings to arrive, if anything, were smaller than they have been. Cash grain men who returned yesterday from the Iowa grain dealers' meeting at Mason City said that it was probable the state would not sell freely at the present time, although some sections have plenty of corn, but they look for liberal shipments later in the season.

The long expected foreign demand for cash wheat seems to have materialized, and it is estimated that so far this week over 5,000,000 bu Canadian have been sold abroad, sales on Wednesday being placed at a minimum of 2,000,000 bu, and there was talk of as much more being sold yesterday. In addition to the purchase from North America there was 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 bu Australian wheat reported sold on Wednesday to Shanghai, China, for February to May shipment, and the liberal purchases by the Orient and ex-European countries is attracting some attention abroad. As Winnipeg May wheat yesterday was within 3½c of the same delivery in Liverpool when the latter closed the liberal purchases were regarded as surprising, especially as 63¼ lb Rosario, Argentina, wheat was reported to have sold at 58⅝c c. i. f. London, or only 1c over Winnipeg May.

Trade Watching Weather.

There was no pressure of consequence on July wheat in the Chicago market, and it took relatively little buying to cause a bulge of 2¼c over Wednesday's finish to a high of 67¼c, the best figure since January 16. The advance was in the face of a statement from Washington indicating that the farm board might sell out its wheat and cease stabilization operations unless farmers reduced their acreage. Old crop months were dull and unchanged to ¼c higher with March 79¼c, and May, 81¼c.

Reports of an extension of the dry area in the winter wheat belt is attracting more and more attention from the trade who see visions of a pronounced crop scare unless rain or snow comes in the immediate future, and southern Saskatchewan and Alberta also need moisture.

NEW LOW ON BUTTER

Butter futures weakened on bearish statistical news on the Chicago Mercantile exchange today, dropping into new low ground and closing with net losses of ¼@⅝c. Egg futures were erratic, storage eggs dropping and other deliveries holding firm. January butter closed ⅛c lower, while other futures were unchanged to ⅛c higher. A new low was struck by potato futures, the finish being at a net loss of 2c. Sales: Butter, 71 cars; eggs, 50 cars; potatoes, 24 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 1 car; eggs, 26 cars. Prices follow:

COTTON INTEREST NARROW

With a spread of about 5c yesterday between low and high prices of cotton futures there was a situation where holders of March and May contracts were not disposed to sell, while buyers found nothing in the situation to induce them to bid up prices sharply in order to bring out increased offerings. The result was a limited trade with futures in Chicago 5 to 7 points higher and in other markets 1 to 5 points higher. Spots were unchanged with New York 10.40c, Galveston 10.10c, New Orleans and Houston 10.05c. Liverpool closed 2 to 3 points net lower with spot sales 8,000 bales.

Mill operations in Carolina are irregular a few reporting operations at full time while others are running on light schedule. Textile news was not sufficiently improved to induce good buying. Reports from New Orleans said that government loan cotton is driving export business out of the American market. Prices follow:

OUR USED CAR PRICES ARE SO LOW

THAT YOU COULD GO INTO THE USED CAR BUSINESS AND MAKE A PROFIT IF YOU PURCHASED FROM US

The reason is, we just installed a truck dept. in addition to our passenger cars, and we must clear out a whole floor full of used autos to make room for the delivery units. Prices were therefore DRASTICALLY reduced.

Unusually liberal time payment plan this week. Generous allowance on your old car in trade. 5 days' free driving trial goes with each sale.
